Skyrocketing to a record enrollment of 4200 students, Pacific High School became one of the largest secondary schools in the nation. Although classes were larger and social activities took on vast and overwhelming characteristics, individual needs and aspirations were not forgotten. Members of Pacific's student body became more than a number on a roll book, for, aiming at individual development, the faculty and administration strove to attain a small school atmosphere on Pacific's metropolitan campus. Accentuating the significance of the particular personality, life on the Pirate complex constantly emphasized the "face in the crowd," making the 1964-65 school year a stepping stone in the development of students' individual personalities.

Dedicated to the learning process, Mr. James Brickley, serving as one of the Vice-Principals at Pacific, has earned the respect of students, faculty and other administrators. Always available to counsel those in need, Mr. Brickley spent innumerable hours assisting in student activities.

Is there a face in the crowd?

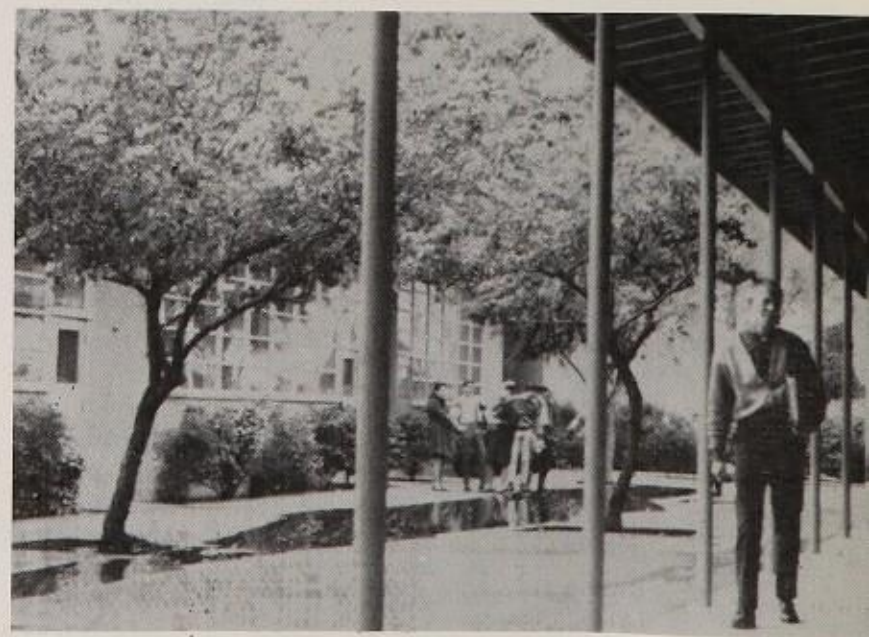

CHAOTIC ACTIVITY ON PIRATE COMPLEX

With a student population of 4200 and a faculty consisting of 176 members, crowds at Pacific were not uncommon. The classrooms, the quad, and the auditorium were constantly satiated with groups of clamoring students, demonstrating the gargantuan aspects of Pirate life. Until the completion of the new San Geronio High School, Pirates expected chaotic activity on campus throughout the day and evening.

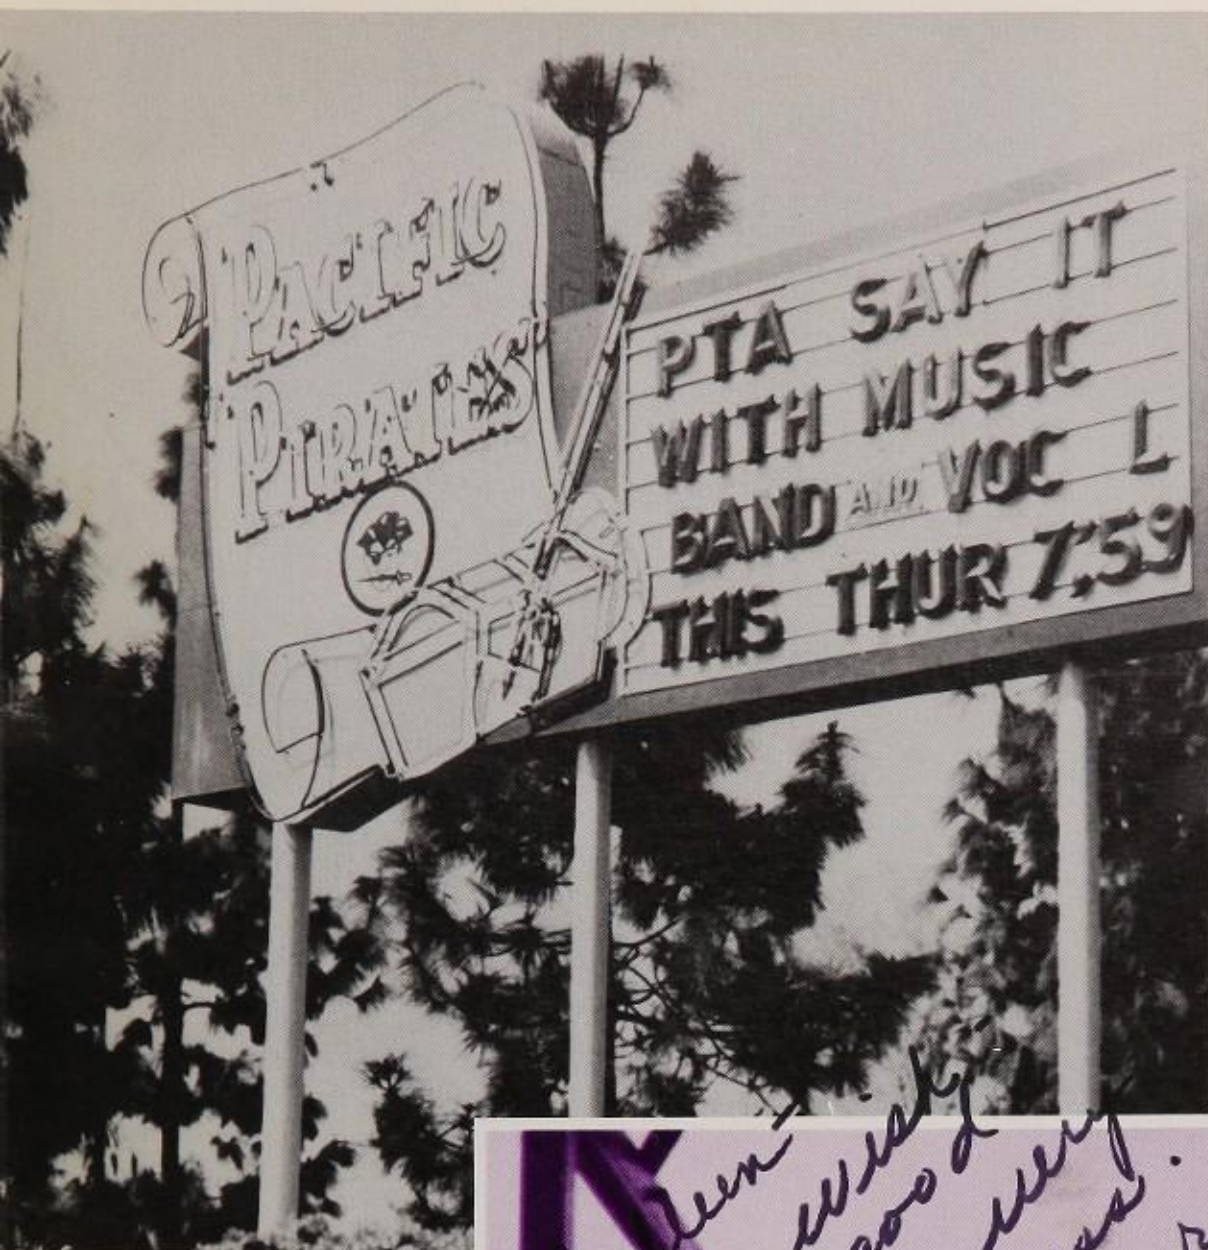

Far from the maddening crowd

SERENITY ON AN ACTIVE CAMPUS

Forgetting the hustle and bustle of everyday school life, solitary figures were often seen against the shadowed silhouette of Pacific's campus. Even though crowds were unavoidable on our metropolitan grounds, one's identity never faded from view. Although lost in the shuffle during the passing and lunch periods, the individual at Pacific recaptured a sense of spaciousness and tranquility after school hours when the turbulent character of PHS diminished.

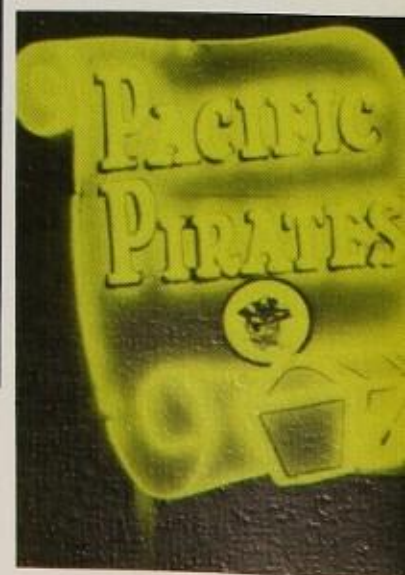

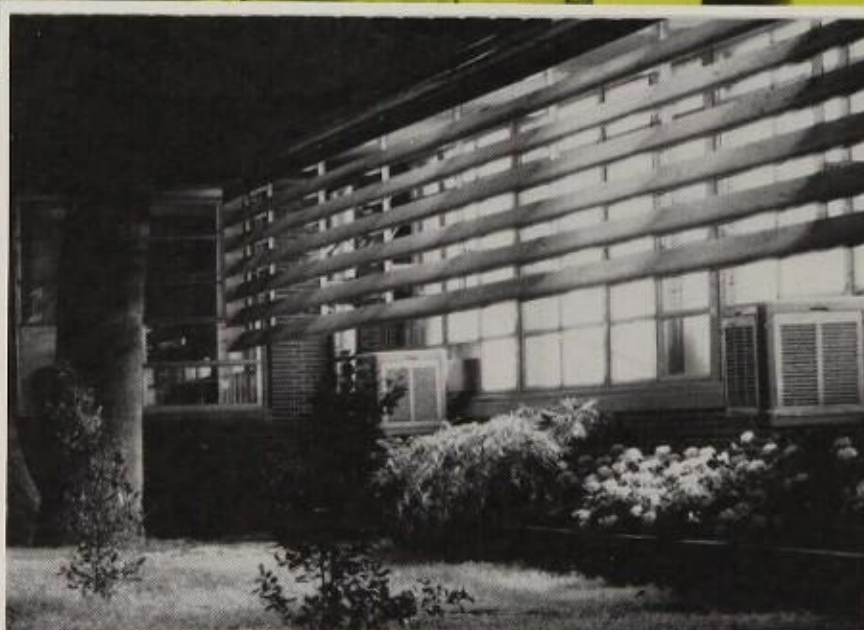

PACIFIC IN DARKNESS

Turbulence continued during nighttime hours of activity

Never lacking the excited atmosphere characteristic of the Pirate abode, night life continued in the whirling tradition of constant activity. Classrooms glowed with vitality as clubs held meetings and teachers instructed evening classes, while the gymnasium roared with cheers and laughter from athletic events. Catering to diverse community activities, Pacific's campus gave community groups an ideal location for enacting civic projects. Looking back on his high school years, a Pirate will constantly be reminded of an active educational society of vivacious young people and dedicated instructors.

ADMINISTRATION

During the 1964-1965 school year, Pacific has had a most impressive series of successes. Because of our achievements in the academic field, in the athletics, and in our community service, we wish to congratulate the student body. It is a remarkable thing that we can take the largest student body in the United States and come up with the same kind of loyalty, the same kind of dedication, the same kind of behavior that we had when we were a school half this size. This development has to reflect favorably on the total attitude of our student body. Next year we will be smaller. But it has been one of the finest things that ever happened to education to see on our campus, this year with nearly 4,000 students, the kind of behavior and the kind of accomplishments that is so characteristically ours. Congratulations from here on out.

Kenneth P. Bailey

Mr. Brickley enjoyed a ridiculous story.

Student Council celebrated Doctor Bailey's birthday with cake, punch.

Doctor Bailey stressed effective communication at the P.T.A. Membership dinner.

Mr. Pfeiffer supervised sports.

James Brickley

Vice-Principal

It is always a pleasure to say congratulations to our seniors; Pacific High School has done much for you. However, your own contributions have been many. We are a better school because you have passed this way.

May your confidence, knowledge and desire for personal improvement carry you far on the roads of tomorrow. The memories this book encases will be some of your most cherished possessions during the years ahead. God luck and God speed.

James L Brickley

James Pfeiffer

Vice-Principal

A school is not just a set of buildings, fine equipment, and a beautiful campus. A school is essentially and primarily people—students, teachers, administrators, and members of the community—their interest, constant loyalty, and belief in education breathes life into the campus, gives buildings purpose, and makes the equipment meaningful. All of these people have made Pacific High School the outstanding school it is today; they will make it even more outstanding in the future.

James Pfeiffer

George Stancer

Vice-Principal

This will be the last year for many students at Pacific High School. To the students who are being graduated as the Pacific High School Class of 1965, "Congratulations and the best of luck." To the students that will be going to the new San Geronio High School, "I hope you will like your new school even more than you liked Pacific. May your academic and athletic achievements at San Geronio be as great."

APPLIED ARTS DEPARTMENT

Art Design Developed Student Talents

Dedicating time to the furtherance of students education in music, art and homemaking, teachers in the Applied Arts department made known interesting aspects concerning these fields. Art teachers recognized students that had shown interests in numerous arts. These students received special encouragement on developing their talents. Pacific's music department showed an interest in music-minded students. Each participated in school and outside activities and brought honors to our school. Homemaking in the class room will always be basically needed to help future homemakers become fully prepared. Different courses in these classes included home nursing, childcare and development, sewing, cooking, and personal health.

Assistance was rendered individually to girls as they gained knowledge from the teachings of Miss Peterson.

Mr. Brady gave guidance to students in beginning art concerning correct basic fundamentals of art. Exemplifying their thoughts and ideas, displays of the talents presented by these students ornamented the walls. His smiles were always welcome.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Staff Cultivated the Latest, Beneficial Methods for Secretaries.

Expending limitless energies, the Business Department at Pacific High School strived to shape the professions of all girls interested in a secretarial career. Immensely successful, the department exemplified the countless hours the devoted teachers applied while placing the most qualified students in positions best suited to their abilities and talents. Classes of typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, and office practice presented to all interested participants the opportunity to learn by example and experience from skilled educators. Effective, Business methods taught by dexterous instructors benefited numerous students in enabling them to learn and to practice the most proficient methods available in this field.

Encouraging words from Mr. Wolf boosted the morales of his students to work more diligently to improve the standard of their assignments. Mr. Wolf emphasized the importance of accuracy, not speed.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

Communication Characterized

According to the English teachers at Pacific, each grade level of English strived for the same purpose: to promote the intellectual minds of students to develop a better understanding of life's experiences. Sophomore English studied word spelling and pronunciation. Junior English probed the background of American Literature, while Senior or Accelerated English stimulated students into developing the English necessary for college success. The prescience faculty and students received from the English language characterized in full the meaning of the word English: communication of the English language.

FACULTY FOOLIES AND FASHIONS

Once upon a time on KPB-TV station, innumerable disorderly events with an obnoxious cast of Pacific personalities took place. Mr. Page, director and producer, televised the "antics," adventures and misadventures, and drastic catastrophes that were typical of an average day on the set.

Francis Fashions flourished.

Fashionable spring outfits in a rainbow of pastel hues were modeled by Pacific's faculty and their children. The Francis Shop sponsored this aspect of the show, and the shop's coordinator narrated.

8:00 PM * MARCH 4, 1965

Those "Schwinn bikes with z-z-zoom motors" do it every time!

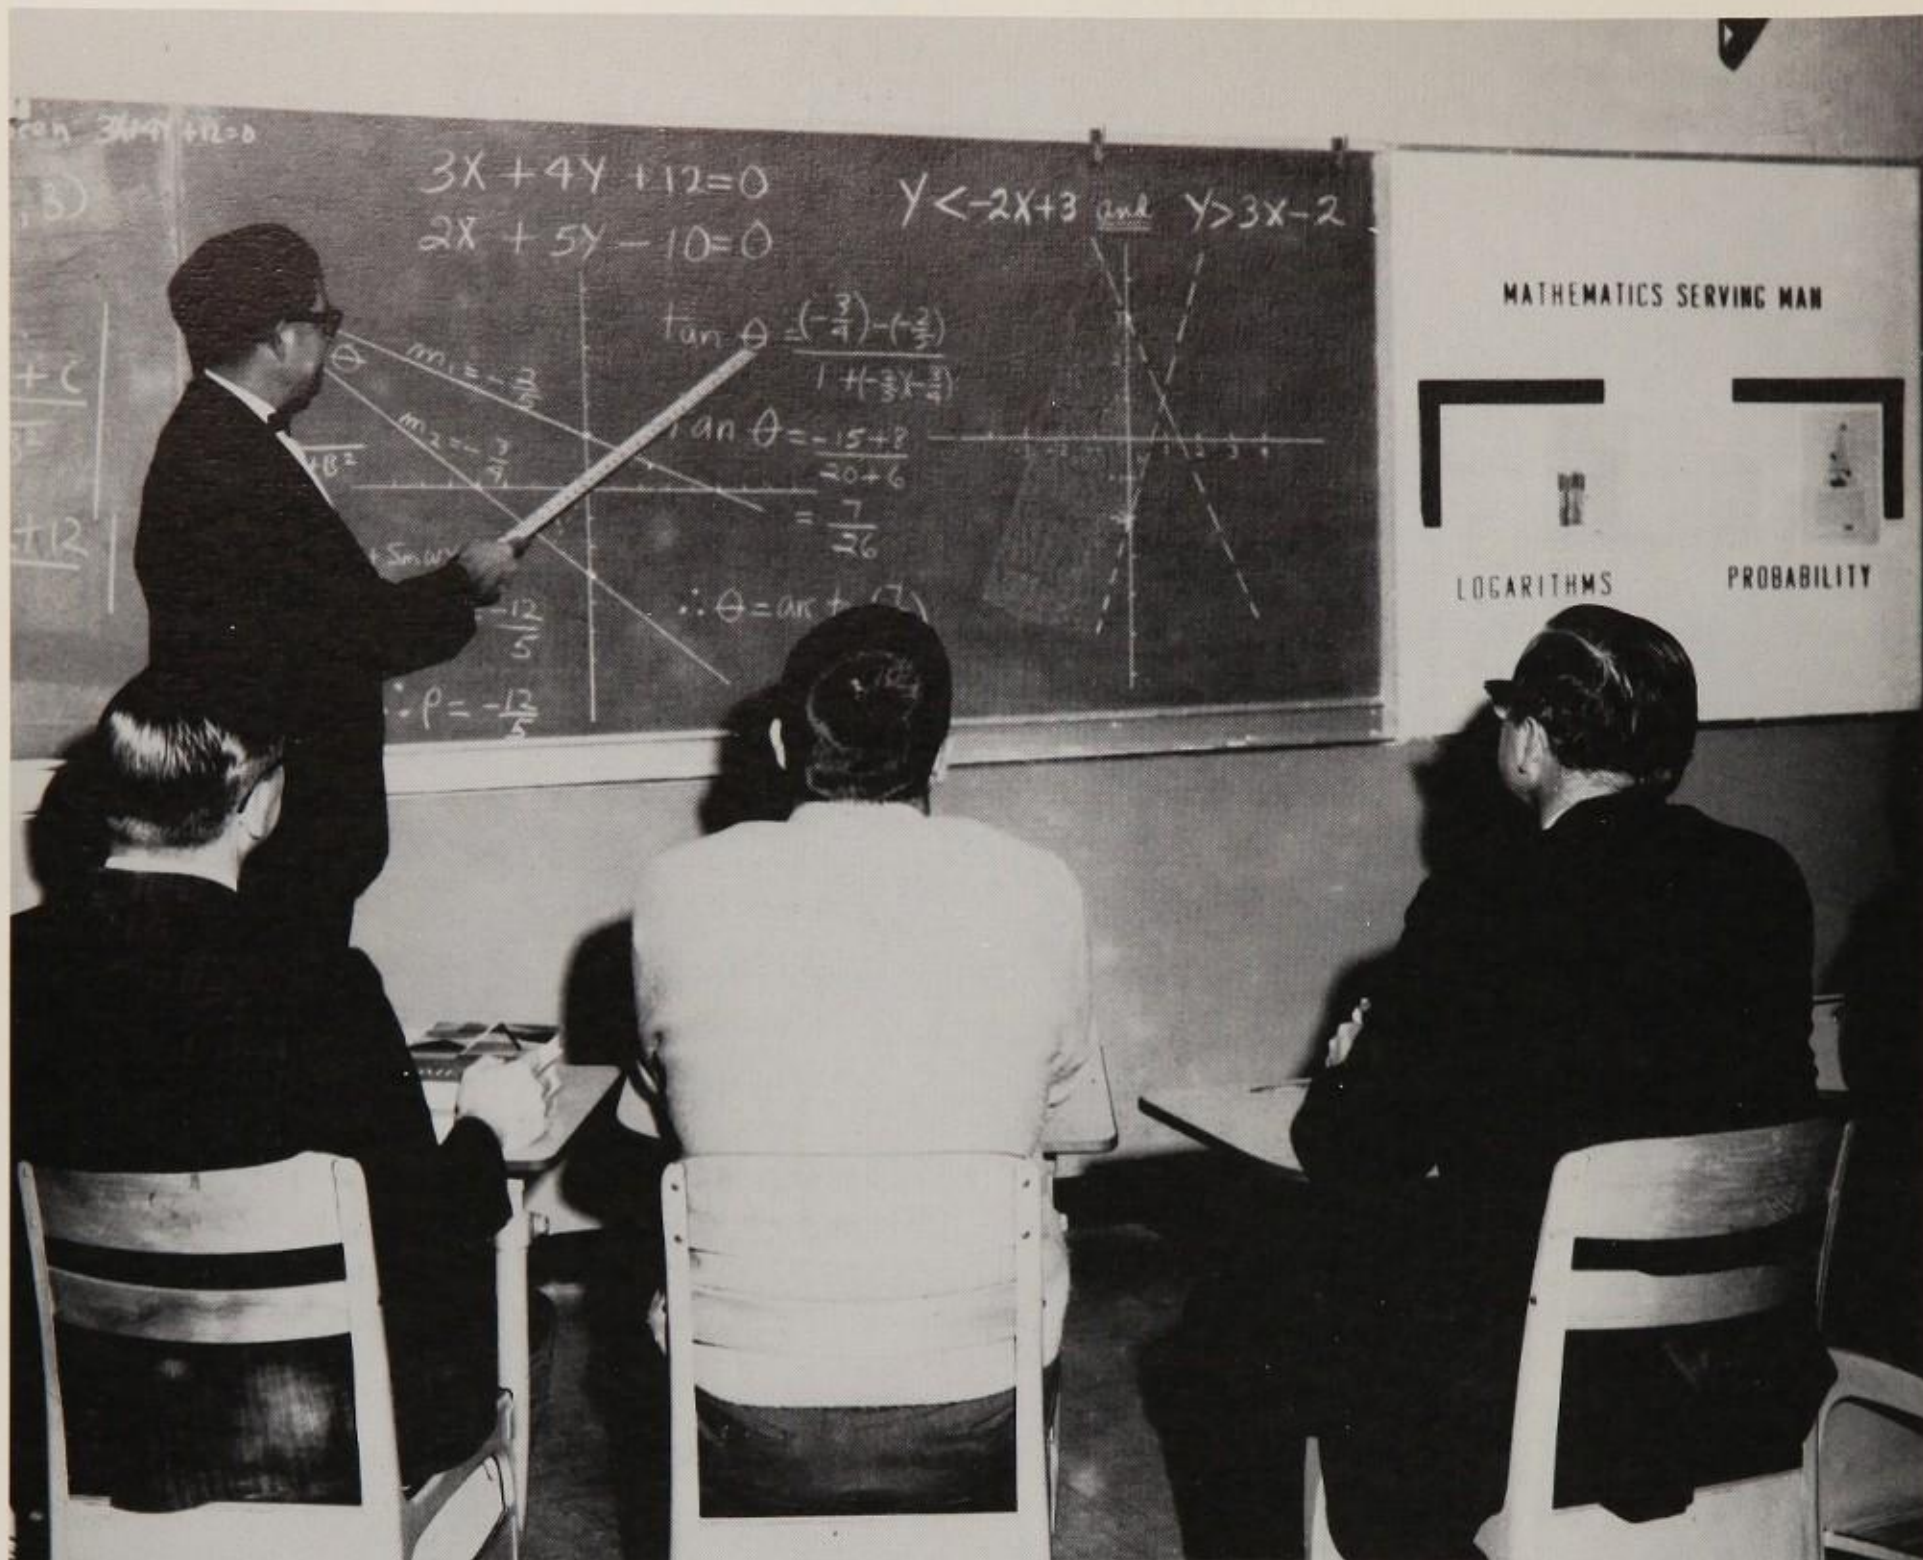

Mr. Kirk stole a "schwinn bicycle with a z-zoom motor" and so off to court he must go. Mr. Kirk's lovable wife, Mrs. Peterson, vowed to stay with her "sweetie" till Mr. Pfeiffer, Juror, tarred and feathered the defendant. Judge Hall pronounced him guilty on all counts and sentenced him.

Backseat drivers never last.

Bang! Bang! Bang! Shots rang out and their deadly significance stunned the audience. The mild mannered Mr. Brickley had shot his sweet wife and children, and Mr. Page was coming to take him away.

Impersonating the perfect students, Mr. Amstutz, Mr. McEachern, and Mr. Nedved listened with unusual attentiveness as Mr. Krabil reviewed the types of Algebraic equations and their graphs while explaining the theory of tangents.

MATH DEPARTMENT

Section separated into four divisions

Separating the Math Department into four major divisions, the Geodetics teachers prepared Pacific's students more efficiently for future study in this field. The four different categories of this department included Accelerated, College Preparatory, Regular, and Industrial Math. Dividing the courses in previous years into Algebra, Geometry, and Trigonometry, the new division of this department allowed the students of Pacific to comprehend new mathematical theories and equations more effectively.

Progressing in their studies by working individually, the students also actively participated in classroom discussions. With the split of the two departments, Mr. William Krabil, who in former years supervised both of the departments, became the new chairman of the Math Department. Instructing their pupils to reason and to arrive at accurate conclusions, the Math teachers exposed the students of Pacific to new Math Methods.

SPECIAL SERVICES

Helping to solve the numerous problems of Pacific's students, the Special Service personnel united with other staff members to give individual assistance to Pirates. Among their many services, these employees distributed countless early dismissals, analyzed student problems, and developed Pirates' specific interests by testing and conversing with them. Diagnosing minor illnesses, the school nurses kept accurate charts about the students. Working on designated days, the Special Service personnel assisted students in solving their personal problems and checking their health.

Working directly with his class, Mr. Ketcham demonstrated the basic fundamentals of lab work and experimentation. Dawnita Hawley, Mark Van Kirk, Larry Joy, and Glenn Derrington listened intently to the explanation of how to adjust and properly use the laboratory gas burner for the best results.

Peering around the supplyroom, Mr. Ketcham spied another empty bottle. He wasted no time in filling the decanter to the brim with distilled water, for it was much more convenient having a homemade still than calling for Sparkletts Drinking Water.

Acting as the newly appointed head of the department, Mr. Lundy executed a series of physics courses aimed towards the advancement of student knowledge and self-improvement for future college courses and for present-day Science Fair projects.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

Years of hoping and dreaming finally became a reality when the inevitable separation in the Math-Science Department occurred. The curriculum underwent a small evolution, and with it emerged a new department head, Mr. Don Lundy. Experimental Physics replaced the previous workshop course causing a deluge of Science Fair projects which demonstrated extensive research. Unlike former years, Pacific was presented with more awards than other competitive high schools. The itineraries of Regular Physics and Survey of Physics added the finishing touch to the Physics Program. Always anticipating new fields of study, Pacific initiated the new class of Chemical Bonding. Modern Biology and Lab Biology concluded the department's syllabus. Partitioning the Math-Science agendum allotted more time and effort toward the advancement of student accomplishment.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Coordination exercises stressed.

Having successfully completed another year, Pacific High School's Physical Education Department directed Pirates in a well-rounded program. Goals set high, students moved on through the year improving ability and skills in many different sports. Physical Education teachers felt that gym supplied badly needed physical activity. In addition to regular gym activities, girls participated in such activities as drill team, and leadership. This group performed at games to lead Pirates and to keep the spirit for which Pacific was noted. Boys kept busy with activities in football, track, basketball, baseball, and swimming.

Among other recognitions, Pacific's Varsity football team received the C.B.L. trophy at the Sports Award Banquet. Both Coaches and Pirate linebackers congratulated Pacific's winning squad.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

In lecture classes teachers informed their students of current situations.

Providing improved teaching and learning facilities, the new auditorium enabled superior opportunities for team-teaching in the social science department. Alternating days, two teachers taught one class of approximately seventy students at a time. Classes used the south end of the auditorium where several classes viewed history films. Making use of small children, the psychology teachers assigned classes to observe the actions and responses of the youngsters and to turn in a written resume of their reactions.

Explaining the procedures to his special Saturday class, Mr. Letro introduced a fascinating speaker for that morning.

FACULTY FEED

Faculty's dream evening.

Culminating weeks of waiting by the faculty who dreamed, hinted and gave bribes to receive an invitation, the Faculty Feed provided an evening of informality. Dressed in their best, Sobobans and their guests exchanged corsages or boutonnieres and were served dinner in the Tomahawk Room at Valley College. Climaxing the evening were poems and a play given at Pacific's auditorium.

Announcing the order of dinner, a poetry reading, a skit, the presentation of the guest of honor, and a play, Cathy Digley poised at the table.

Attending as the guests of Kathy and Suzie Le May, Mr. Pfeiffer and Dr. Bailey discussed ways to defend themselves against Soboban's poetry.

Laurel urged the workers to build a house for the "Big Boss"

Somehow the building plans ended in a confused muddle.

Always ready to perform in a song Sobobans crooned "A Little Bit of Sugar Makes the Medicine Go Down"

STUDENT TEACHERS

Braving the wilds of Pacific's campus, many graduate students attending Redlands University embarked upon a nine week course in practice teaching. Each of the men and women received assignments with various master teachers who served as examples of the teaching profession. This comprised part of a program of practical experience necessary for a didactic career.

Following the shining example set by science-minded Mr. Eichman, Mr. Campbell led the prospective biologists in a multitude of difficult and challenging experiments.

Planning on teaching music, Janet Goddin directed the girls' chorus under Mr. McCullough.

In the psychology department, Mr. Martinez studied with Mrs. Peterson.

Several French classes were instructed by Carol Swing.

Conducting the band under the direction of Mr. Harbaugh, Edward Railsbach worked to complete the requirements needed for teaching music. During the period, the class labored for the teacher.

Girls' chorus classes performed for two practicing teachers. Conducting second period, Ruth Hock found all the pupils responsive.

History and Problems courses fell upon the able shoulders of Vern Stater in place of Mr. McGregor.

VOCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

Future Use of Vocational Skills Encouraged

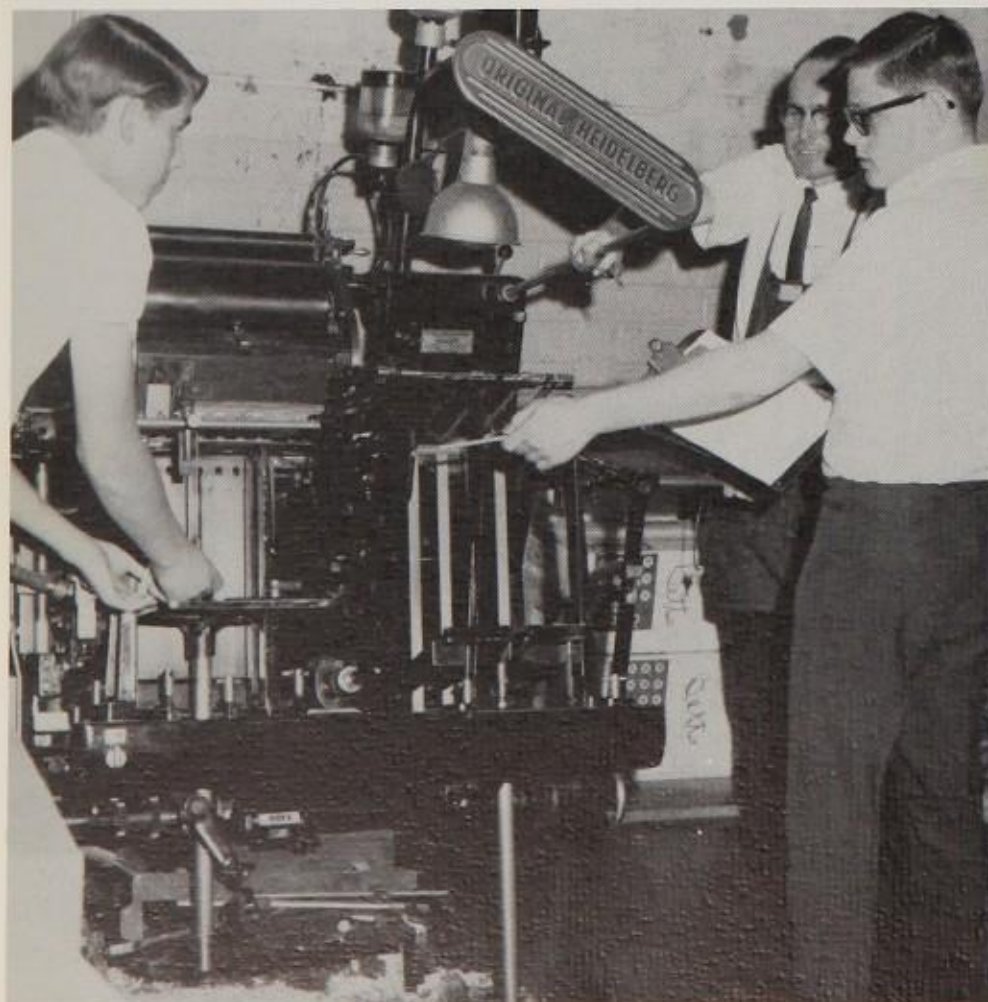

Occupational skills stressed by the Vocational teachers assisted the interested students in various handcrafts that in their later life would benefit them in their chosen careers. The future of Pacific's interested youth depended on these instructive courses to learn the most modern and efficient methods available to them. The faculty encouraged the use of the fundamental skills they taught pertaining to Printing, Electronics, Carpentry, Agriculture, Mechanics, and Horticulture. Various Vocational classes benefitted the functioning of Pacific by furnishing the teachers with articles their shops devised.

Training boys of the print shop in the mechanics of printing machinery, Mr. Toms pointed out the intricate details of the Heidelberg. Fulfilling orders for tickets and posters for school activities, classes examined the arts of printing.

Hardly daring to imagine the finished products of their endeavors; vocational wood shop students, aided by Mr. Farr, completed several individual articles according to personal tastes.

Telephone calls home, early dismissals, notes, pink and yellow call slips, and re-admits kept the attendance office staff busily occupied, especially early in the morning.

Mr. Brayton consulted Mrs. Perry about an early dismissal and readmit of which he questioned the validity. Mischievous students often attempted to "pull the wool over the eyes" of what they thought "naive" attendants.

Secretaries performed endless duties benefitting the faculty and enormous student body. Their responsibilities ranged from the daily announcements to student transcripts.

Pacific's financial situation remained stable and efficiently managed under the capable hands of Helgarde Wolfram and Kay Parke, the school's two Financial Secretaries. From the office purchase orders and change were obtained.

Even barbed wire and electrified fences couldn't keep students out, only Coach Page could prevent it.

HARD-NOSED COMMITTEE

Using their brains to outsmart the crafty, cunning students of Pacific, the Hard-Nosed Committee launched an exciting year for themselves. Clearing smoke and dragging pupils from bushes and high fences were nothing out of the ordinary. They thrived on the thrill of catching a victim out of class without a transfer.

The best person to run into when caught out of class without a transfer was Dr. Bailey because he made a habit of slipping one to those in need.

Nothing out of the ordinary happened around the members of the Hard-Nose Committee . . . only behind their backs.

Caught in the act of Young lady, did you know that your kneecaps were showing below your skirt?

Suzanne Jones
A.S.B. Vice President

Serving as Pacific High School's Associated Student Body President has given me the opportunity to see and to watch and to be a part of our government in action through Pirate and through Student Council activities. It was an enriching experience to coordinate the work of such a select group of students. I would like to ask all of the sophomores and juniors to actively participate in our student government; the work is difficult and requires responsibility, but the rewards and benefits are worth it all. The 1964-1965 Student Council was the governing body of our school; it was responsible for carrying out and supporting the student activities, all of the athletic teams, and Pirate traditions that have combined to make Pacific High School "First class all the way!" I feel that student support and participation in the future will enable Pacific to remain the best high school in California.

Bill Leonard

STUDENT COUNCIL

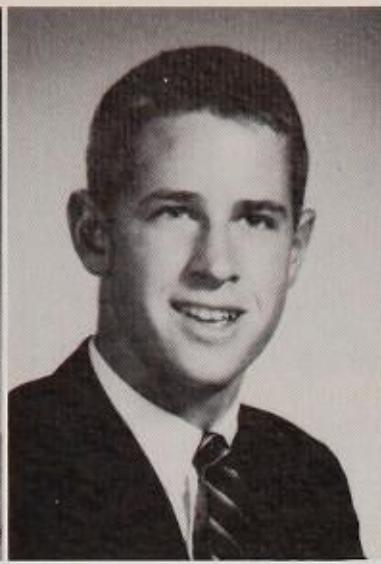

Representing Pacific as a member of Student Council has been a tremendous experience. The wonderful memories and the tribulations of last year can never be forgotten. It was truly a privilege to work closely with the administration and the other members of council.

Many students do not realize the uniqueness of Pacific's governing body. Unlike many schools that are ruled by an "iron thumb," student council has been given complete freedom to establish policies and activities which would benefit the school. Council functioned as a united body because the combined efforts of its forty-eight members were necessary to achieve a successful year. Last year was the biggest and best for Pacific High School, and it was great to be a part of such a school. I would like to thank the students for electing me as Vice-President.

Thirty-nine Seniors Received the Honor of Being Selected for a Position on Student Council

Successfully weathering the challenging questions asked of them during interviews with members of Pacific's administration, thirty-nine seniors received the honor of being selected for a position on the Student Council. To qualify for such an office, a student must have run for an elected post and been approved by the previous and incoming A.S.B. presidents. Appointed members were chosen according to their ability to serve the school. A great amount of clever artwork necessary for publicizing school functions called for the creation of a new position, Art Chairman. Several of the appointees assisted the elected officers in their assignments about the campus. Thus, Council completed the required work rapidly and efficiently.

APPLIED ARTS

Teachers Encouraged Students to Capitalize on Hidden Talents

Capitalizing on individual talents, the Applied Arts department encouraged Pirates to develop hidden abilities. Classes were provided for students whose interests ranged from painting and sculpturing to photography and chorus. This variety of courses, classified as electives, provided for a more balanced schedule. Art classes offered valuable studies in commercial art, design and color, and ceramics. Beginning artists progressed from Art 1 as a sophomore to Art 3 in their senior year. Humanities, a relatively new program, provided for the study of art in conjunction with music and history. Homemaking majors not only perfected their cooking and sewing but also learned to select fine china and silver as teachers endeavored to prepare students for the rigorous trials of family life. Music enthusiasts broadened their understanding by taking music appreciation and music humanities, while beginning instrument, varsity band, orchestra and string ensemble challenged experienced musicians. Pacific's marching band and dance band, appearing in the Christmas assembly and special forums, were in great demand and proudly represented the school in city competition.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

Indulging in last year's activities, Pacific's music department brought forth a successful year of entertainment. Many hours of hard work and patience were spent practicing until perfection was attained. Categories in this department included Orchestra, Wind Ensemble, String Ensemble, Dance Band, Girl's Chorus, Choir, and Vocal Ensemble. During the Christmas season the orchestra and choirs provided an excellent program for its audiences at Pacific and at various surrounding areas. BUSINESS EDUCATION

Preparing for the competitive world of big business.

Training for secretarial jobs, students attended classes in business English, typing, bookkeeping, and shorthand. The time-consuming work as an office clerk and actual work experience proved a challenge to Pirates. Divided into four semester classes, the levels of typing included 1A, 2A, and 2B. Bookkeeping benefits continued throughout the lives of pupils for such practical occupations as keeping a family budget. Besides preparing the girls for taking dictation, shorthand proved useful during note-taking sessions with members of the administration. Emphasizing punctuation and grammar, business English majors gained a technical English background required for employment.

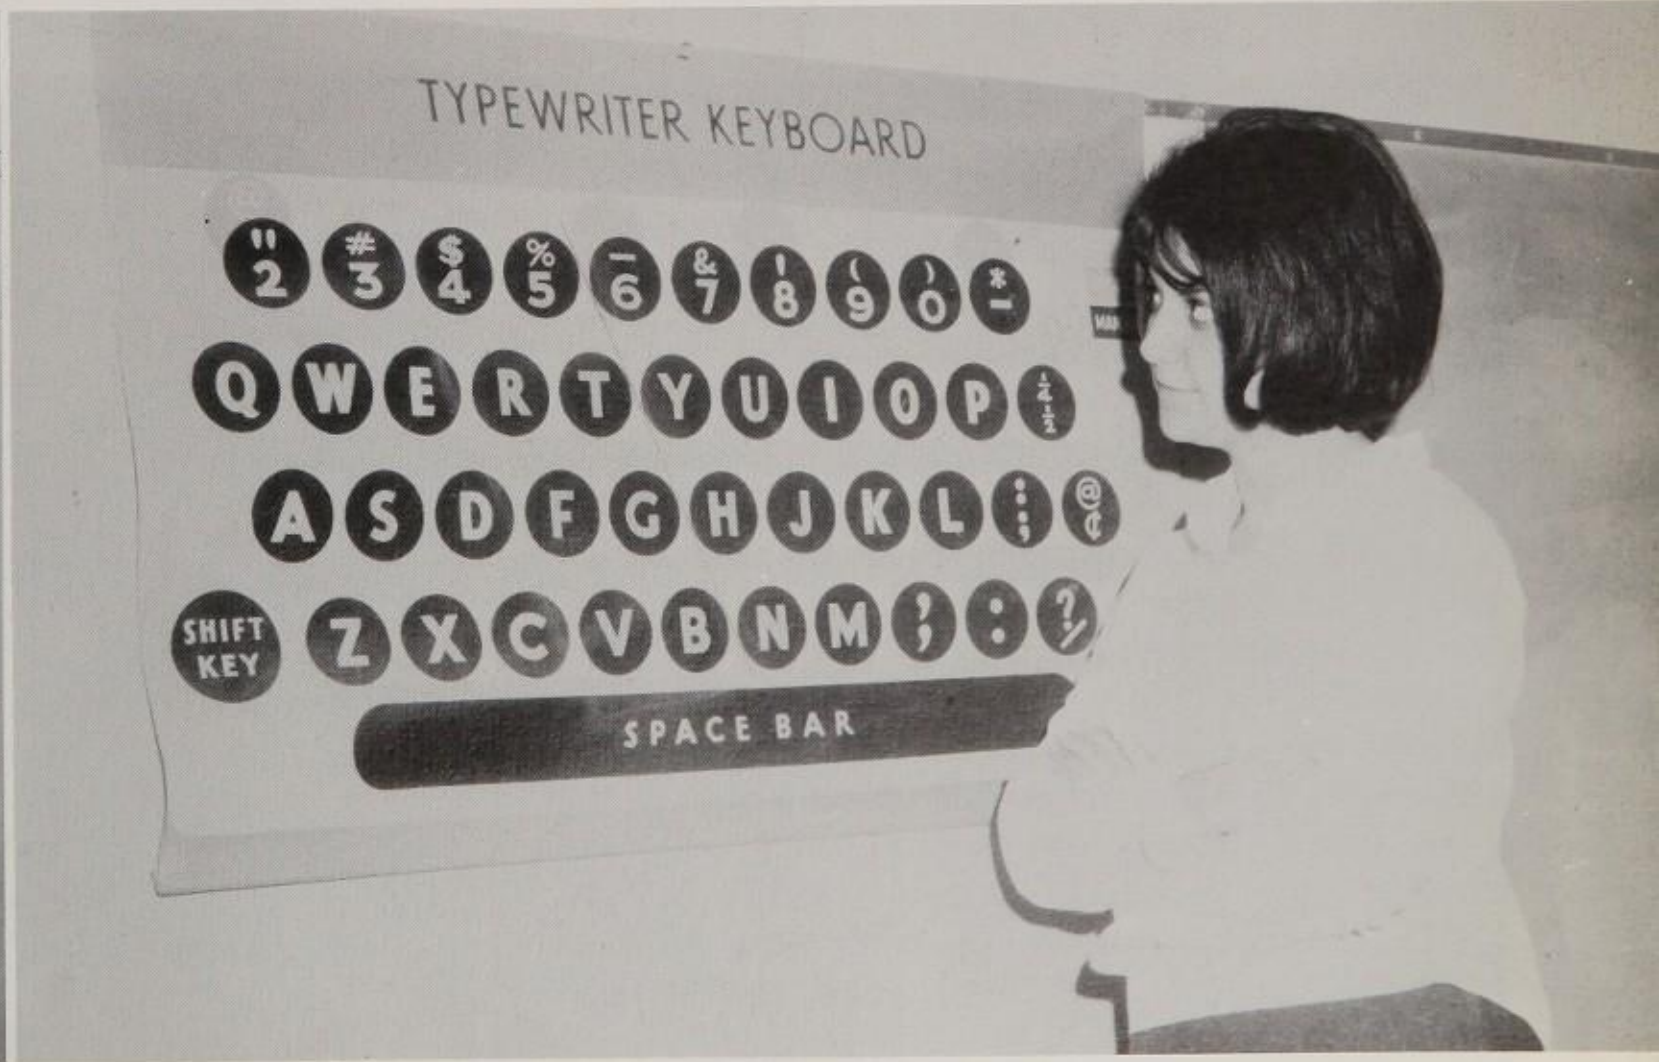

Upper left) Arranging forums, Leslie Ogden dictated to Debbie De Silva. Center left) Figuring a budget, Chris Flower attempted her bookkeeping assignment. Lower left) Among her duties, Debbie De Silva mimeographed material for administrators. Below) Practicing, Sandy Perkins increased her speed.

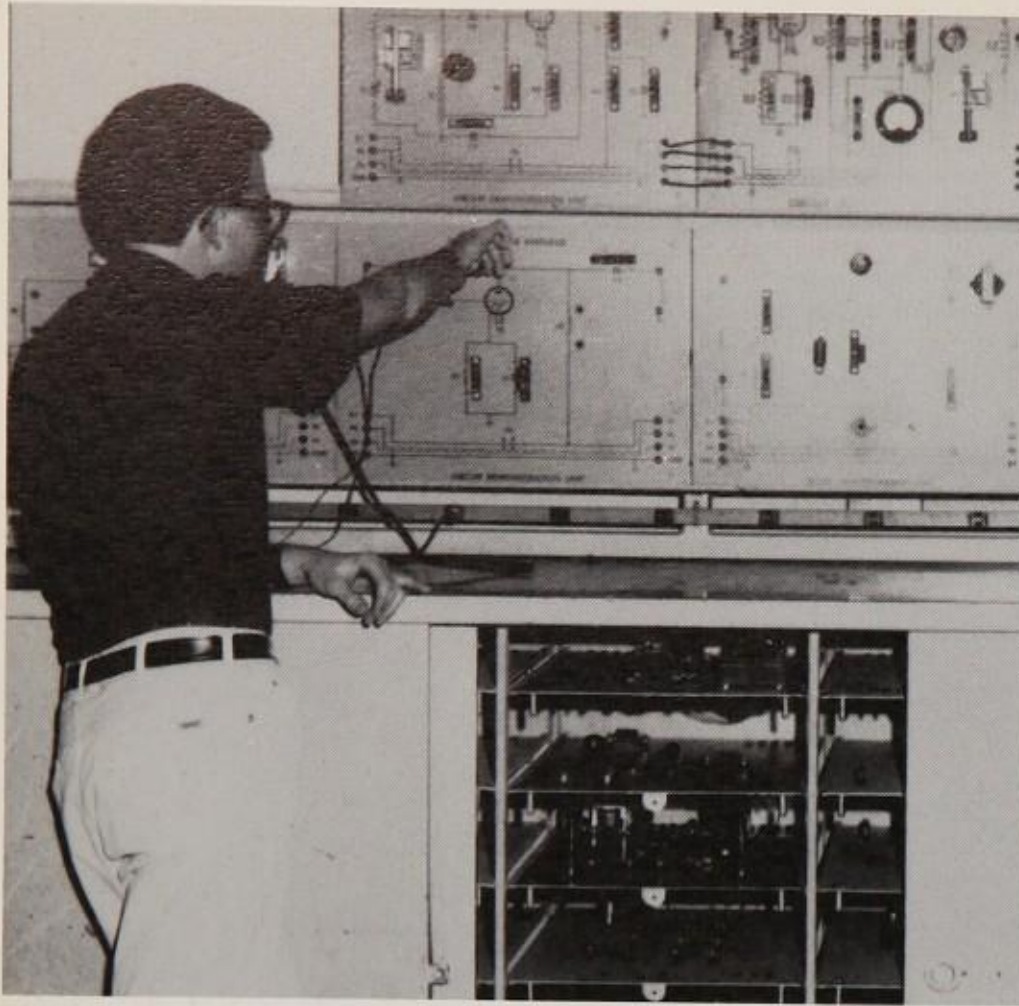

Operating the switchboard which controlled the telephones throughout the school kept Chris Flower sufficiently occupied. Pacific High School prided itself on having up-to-date equipment to keep the office running smoothly and efficiently.

Lower Left) Confidential papers were filed energetically by Lois Wetton who assisted Dr. Bailey in the daily office routine. Below) Reflecting expressions, Bonnie Rackin learned that memorization of the keys could not be escaped.

Studying the circuit demonstration unit, electronics students, under Mr. Ferris' direction, prepared for occupations.

Practicing diligently to pass the test on heavy gage cutting, welders observed specific safety precautions.

INDUSTRIAL VOCATIONS

Increasing enrollment in the vocational department called for extra equipment and more space this year. Industrial arts courses gave instruction in wood shop, electronics, print shop, drafting, and welding. Assisting in the growing need for tickets and posters, the print shop labored long hours improving their abilities in that field. Intricate and interesting problems evolved when students in electronics used their ingenuity. Since industrial vocations covered a wide range of study, classes lasted as long as two and three periods. Vocational agriculture provided for such subjects as farm practice and horticulture. Most of the industrial students planned to make a career of their training in these fields. From high school they will go through four years of apprenticeship, after which they will become journeymen. Many opportunities awaited those who completed the course in vocations.

Sheet metal students used the soldering iron to put the finishing touches on unique, antique lamps.

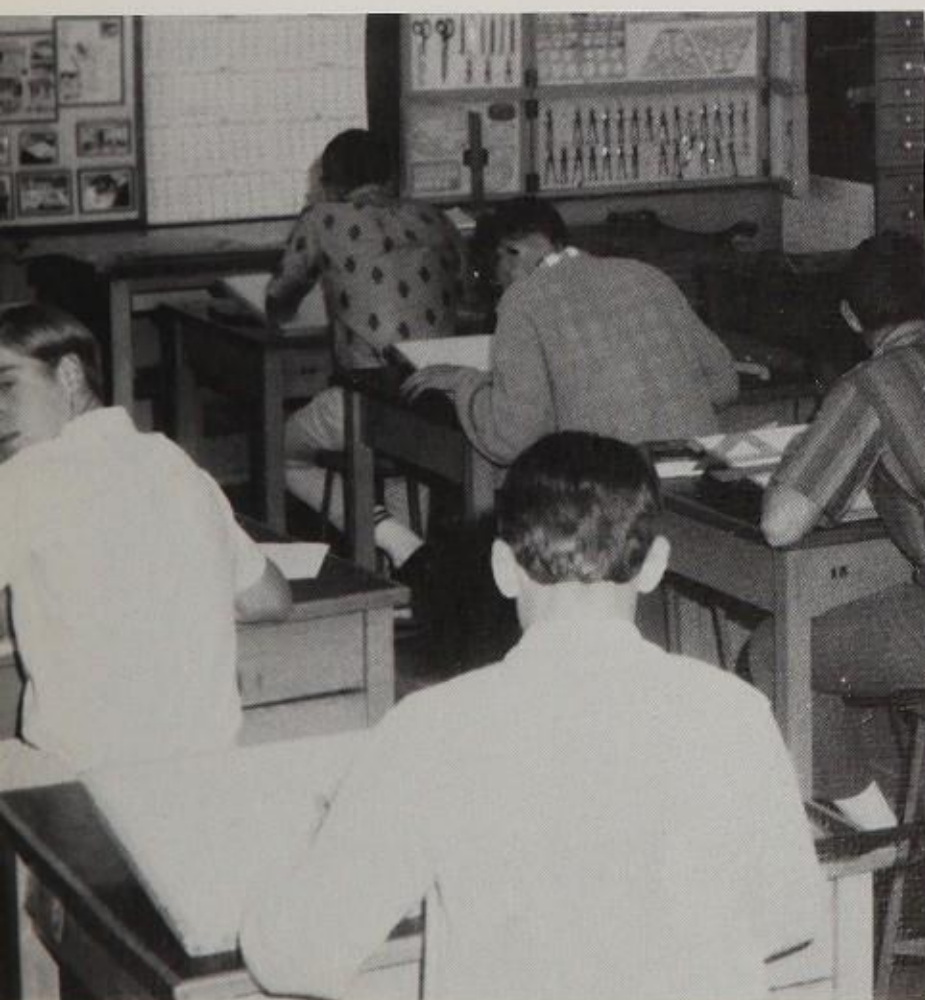

Providing classroom instruction, Mr. Taylor lectured about the principle of internal combustion.

Controlled conditions and careful attention were provided by members of Mr. Betts' agriculture class to yield healthy plants.

Drafting 1A, a prerequisite for more advanced drafting courses, trained students for architectural jobs.

Creating beautiful as well as functional projects, Vance Farlow learned the trades of a "handy man" in wood shop class.

PACIFIC ORIGINALS

Representing the creative ability of Pacific High Students

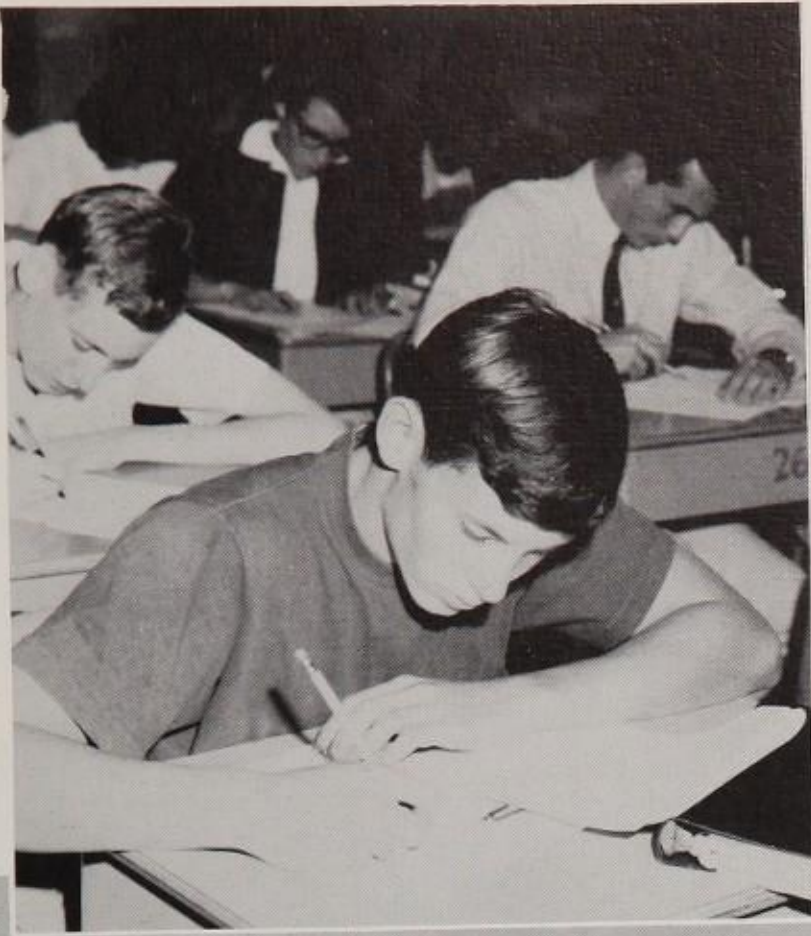

Representing the creative ability of Pacific High students, Pacific Originals was produced through the combined efforts of students and faculty. Faculty advisor, Mrs. Miriam Serfass, prepared for busy days when the English department started submitting manuscripts for approval early in the year. The Art department, under the direction of Mr. Les Nielsen, illustrated the creative work of the pupils. Besides contributing her own creative work, Social Secretary Leslie Ogden arranged for the traditional Pacific Originals tea at which contributors received their issues of the literary accomplishment. Prominent citizens in San Bernardino received copies demonstrative of the literary talents of Pacific High School.

Expectantly awaiting a glimpse of the 1964-65 Pacific Originals, Pat Scott, a contributor, received a copy of the publication from Linda Zulch and Mrs. Serfass, advisor, at the annual tea.

Pondering over manuscripts for Pacific Originals, Flori Frisch selected examples of literary talent. Flori achieved the position of Junior editor by contributing exceptional work to the publication.

HIGH SCHOOL BOWL

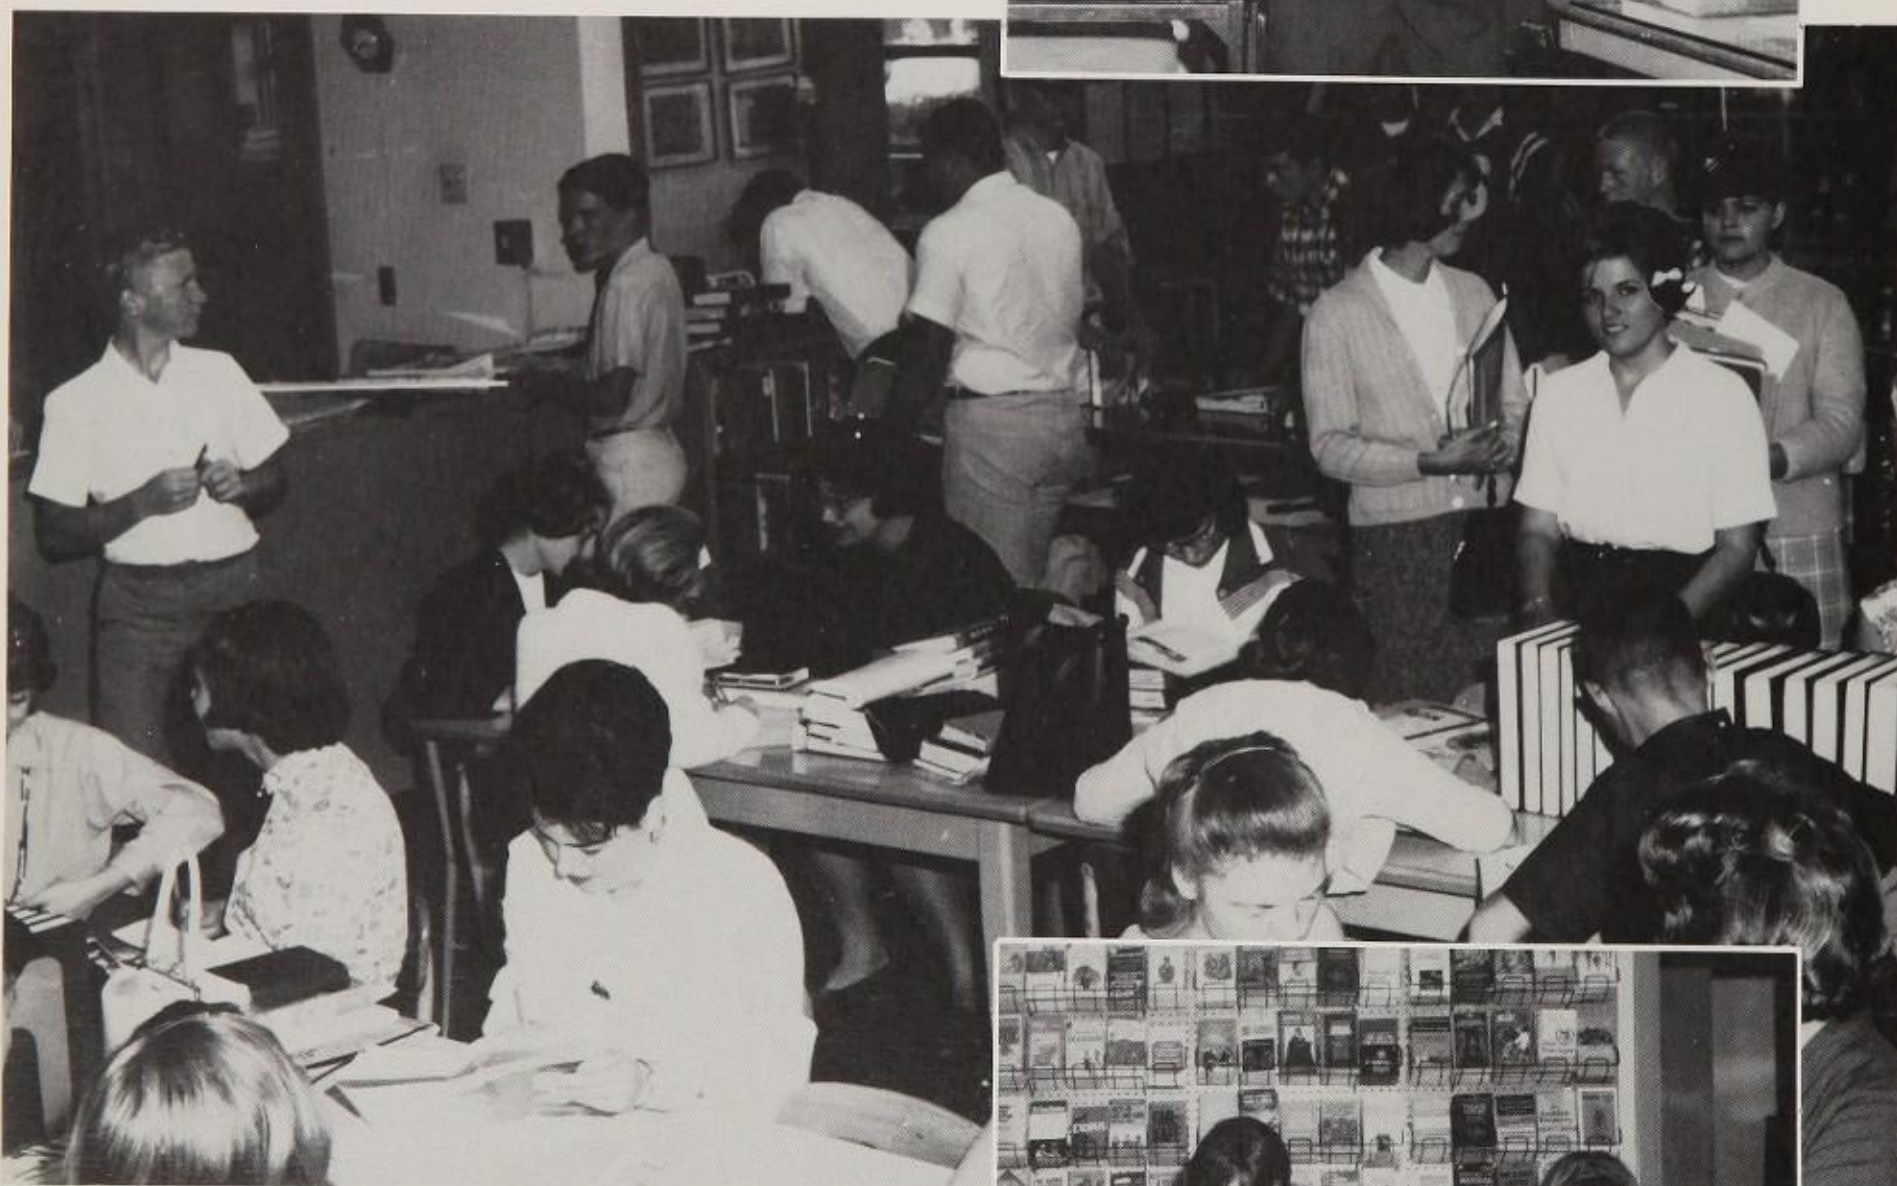

Alertness and impromptu speaking ability became prerequisites for members of the high school bowl. Hundreds of students competed to occupy the seat of one of the ten panelists. Pacific's "brain bowl," exhibiting years of study, met periodically to compete with teams from neighboring schools. Robert Letro, head coach, spent hours questioning bowl members with the help of assistant coach, Martha Hempstead.

Above) Hurdling grueling examinations, high school bowl finalists faced eliminations. Center) Quick thinking and instant reflexes became essential for high school bowl aspirants. Bob Davis, Heidi Hammond, Barry Knotts, Bill Leonard, Ken Maurer, and Sandy Perkins competed for the honor of becoming Pacific's "whiz kids." Below) Hours of tedious research were necessary to prepare questions for the brain bowl. Robert Letro, Robert Havemann, Carol Brozovich, and Nancy Stark pondered the perplexities of Plato.

LIBRARY

Circulating nearly 36,000 books, the library afforded a serene atmosphere for Pirates. Under the guidance of Mr. Jones and Miss Stathis, the librarians assisted Pirates in selecting and checking out books. Unlike previous years, new library rules enabled students to check out encyclopedias. To improve the environment of the library, twenty-four study carrels were added.

1) Wearing his patriotic football ribbon, Mr. Jones, with the help of his secretary, Miss Vi Sibley, made a current list of the books, magazines, and reference materials found in Pacific's library. 2) Kathy Keheley and Diane Conley, two of the many librarian workers, assisted the Pirates in choosing and checking out reference materials. A complete library of paper-bound books allowed the students to purchase copies of the best-selling novels. 3) Working to keep the library in proper order, Ray Keith also searched for damaged books. Because of the over-use of library materials the librarians made periodic inspections. After rebinding and replacing torn pages, defaced editions returned to the shelves.

Drama students, Dave Powers, Terri Nicholson, and Linda Cleveland, wore costumes which added realism to the production.

Young starlets, Dave Firth and Linda Cleveland rehearsed their tragic love scene.

Row 1: Ross, Lightstone, Cleveland, Firth, Mortenson, Stump, Kilborn, Good. Row 2: Staab, Hooper, Williams, Garot, Smith, Nicholson, Underwood, Morris, Fleming.

Romeo and Juliet.

Tedious hours of practicing proved rewarding for last year's 1964-65 play production class as the famous tragedy, ROMEO AND JULIET was performed before record-breaking audiences.

PLAYS

Hey World I'm Still Here

Paul Fleming, gazing toward the heavens, was surrounded by three attendants, Sharon Good, Pat Underwood, and Linda Lugo, as he rehearsed for opening night.

Portraying Amos Benedict, Travis Williams projected realism with Mike Stump.

Feigning death, Travis Williams was revived by cast Ralph Lightstone, Sharon Tyson, and Mike Stump.

Tender sighs were exchanged by Dave Firth and Judy Weitzman.

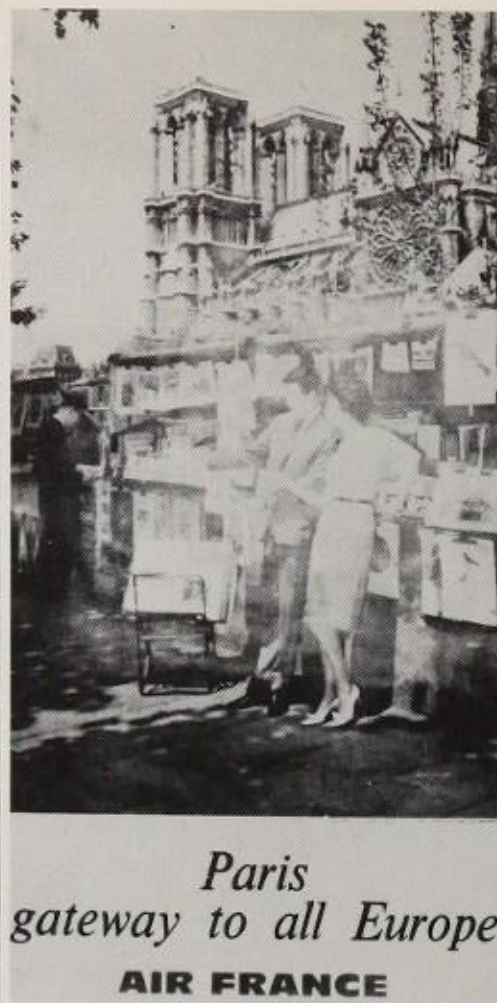

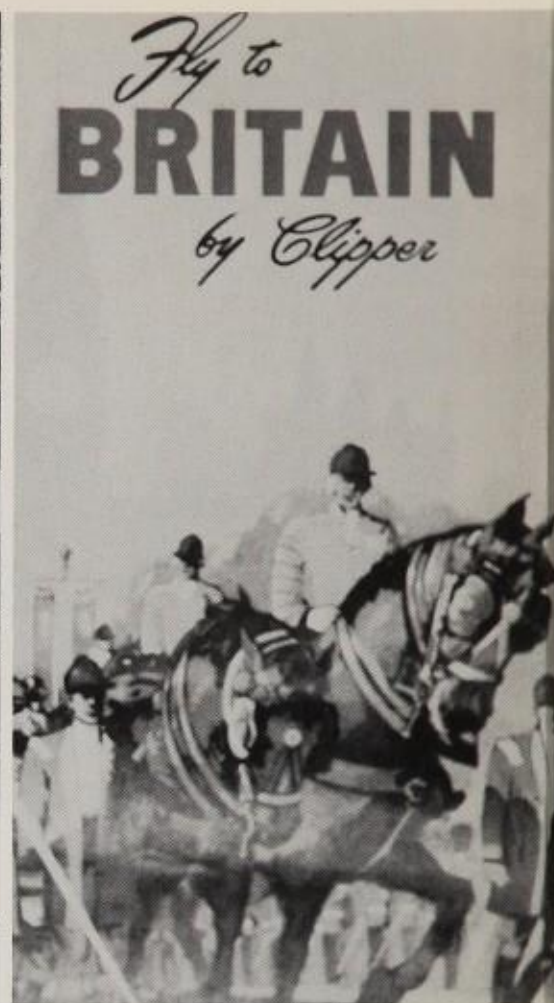

Spanish

Russian

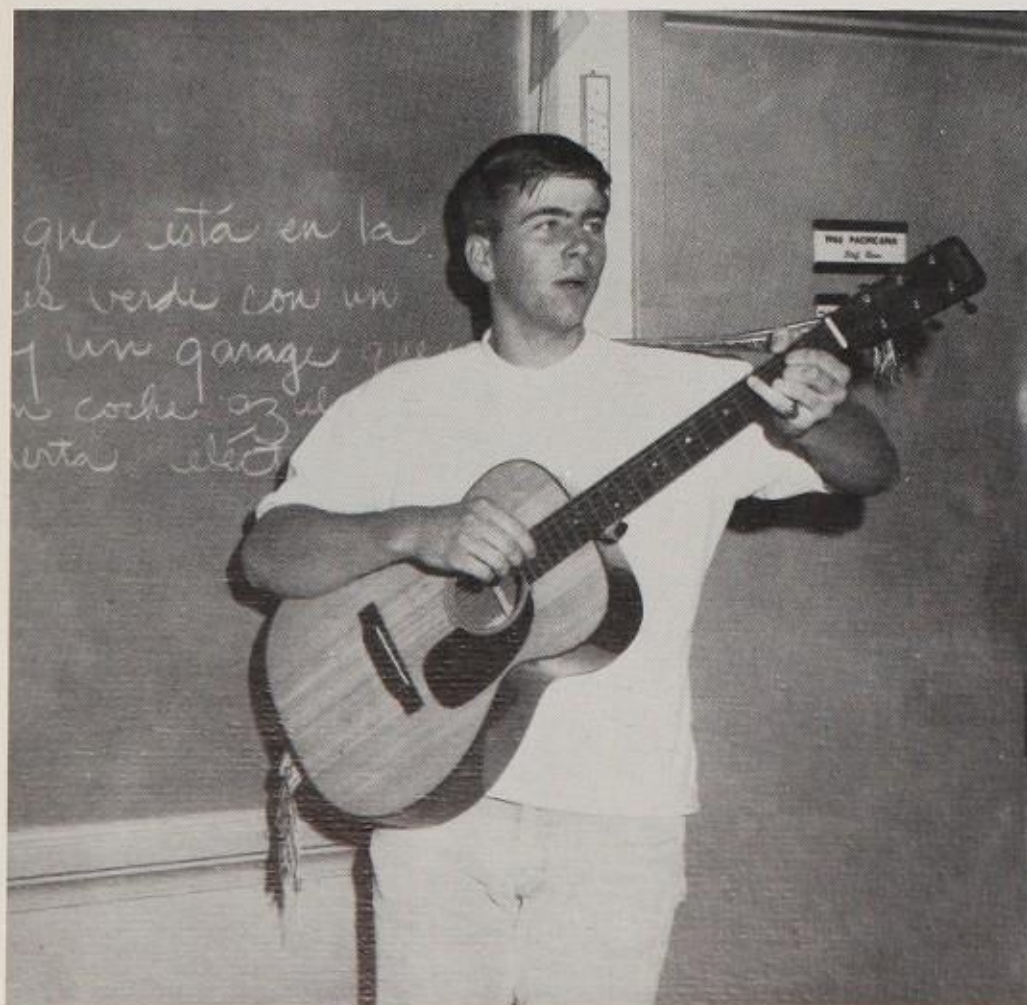

French

English

Famed singer, Don DiCarlo, serenaded his Spanish class, bringing the language to uses other than scholastic. Entertainment proved to be as equally important a learning process as studying from the language labs, while Don did his best to supply the fun.

Language major, Sharlene Rigler, dreamed against a background of travel abroad. For students who planned to travel, a wide background in language was needed to supplement the dreams of far away places.

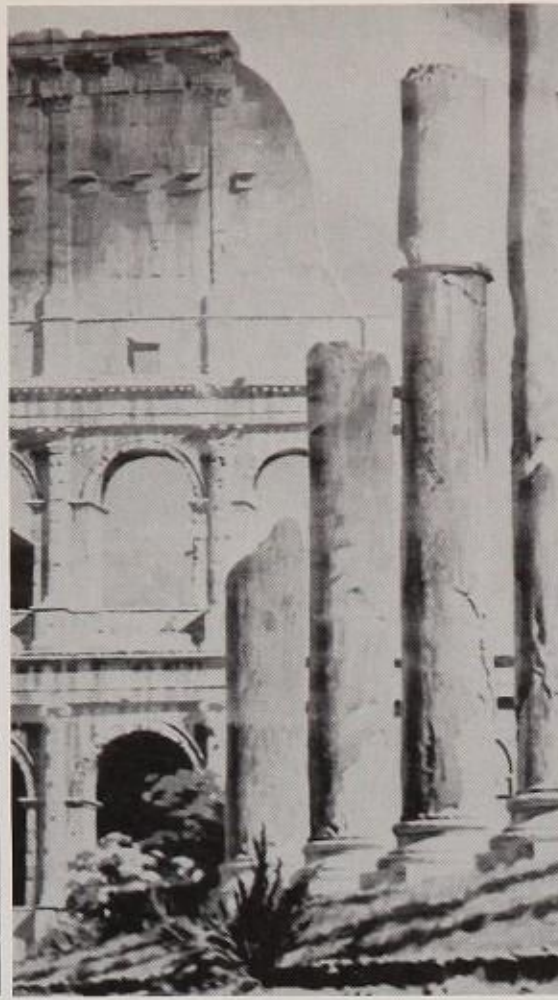

LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT

With the addition of Russian, the Language Department comprised six languages. English proved to be one of the most exciting, in which students were instructed in Language Arts supplemented by many informative field trips. French, German, Spanish, and Latin were the most frequently chosen by college bound students as their foreign language requirement. Clubs were formed by each department to induce a further interest in the languages. Russian was added as a sixth language this year. Beginning last year in the department, Russian students hoped for its continuation.

German

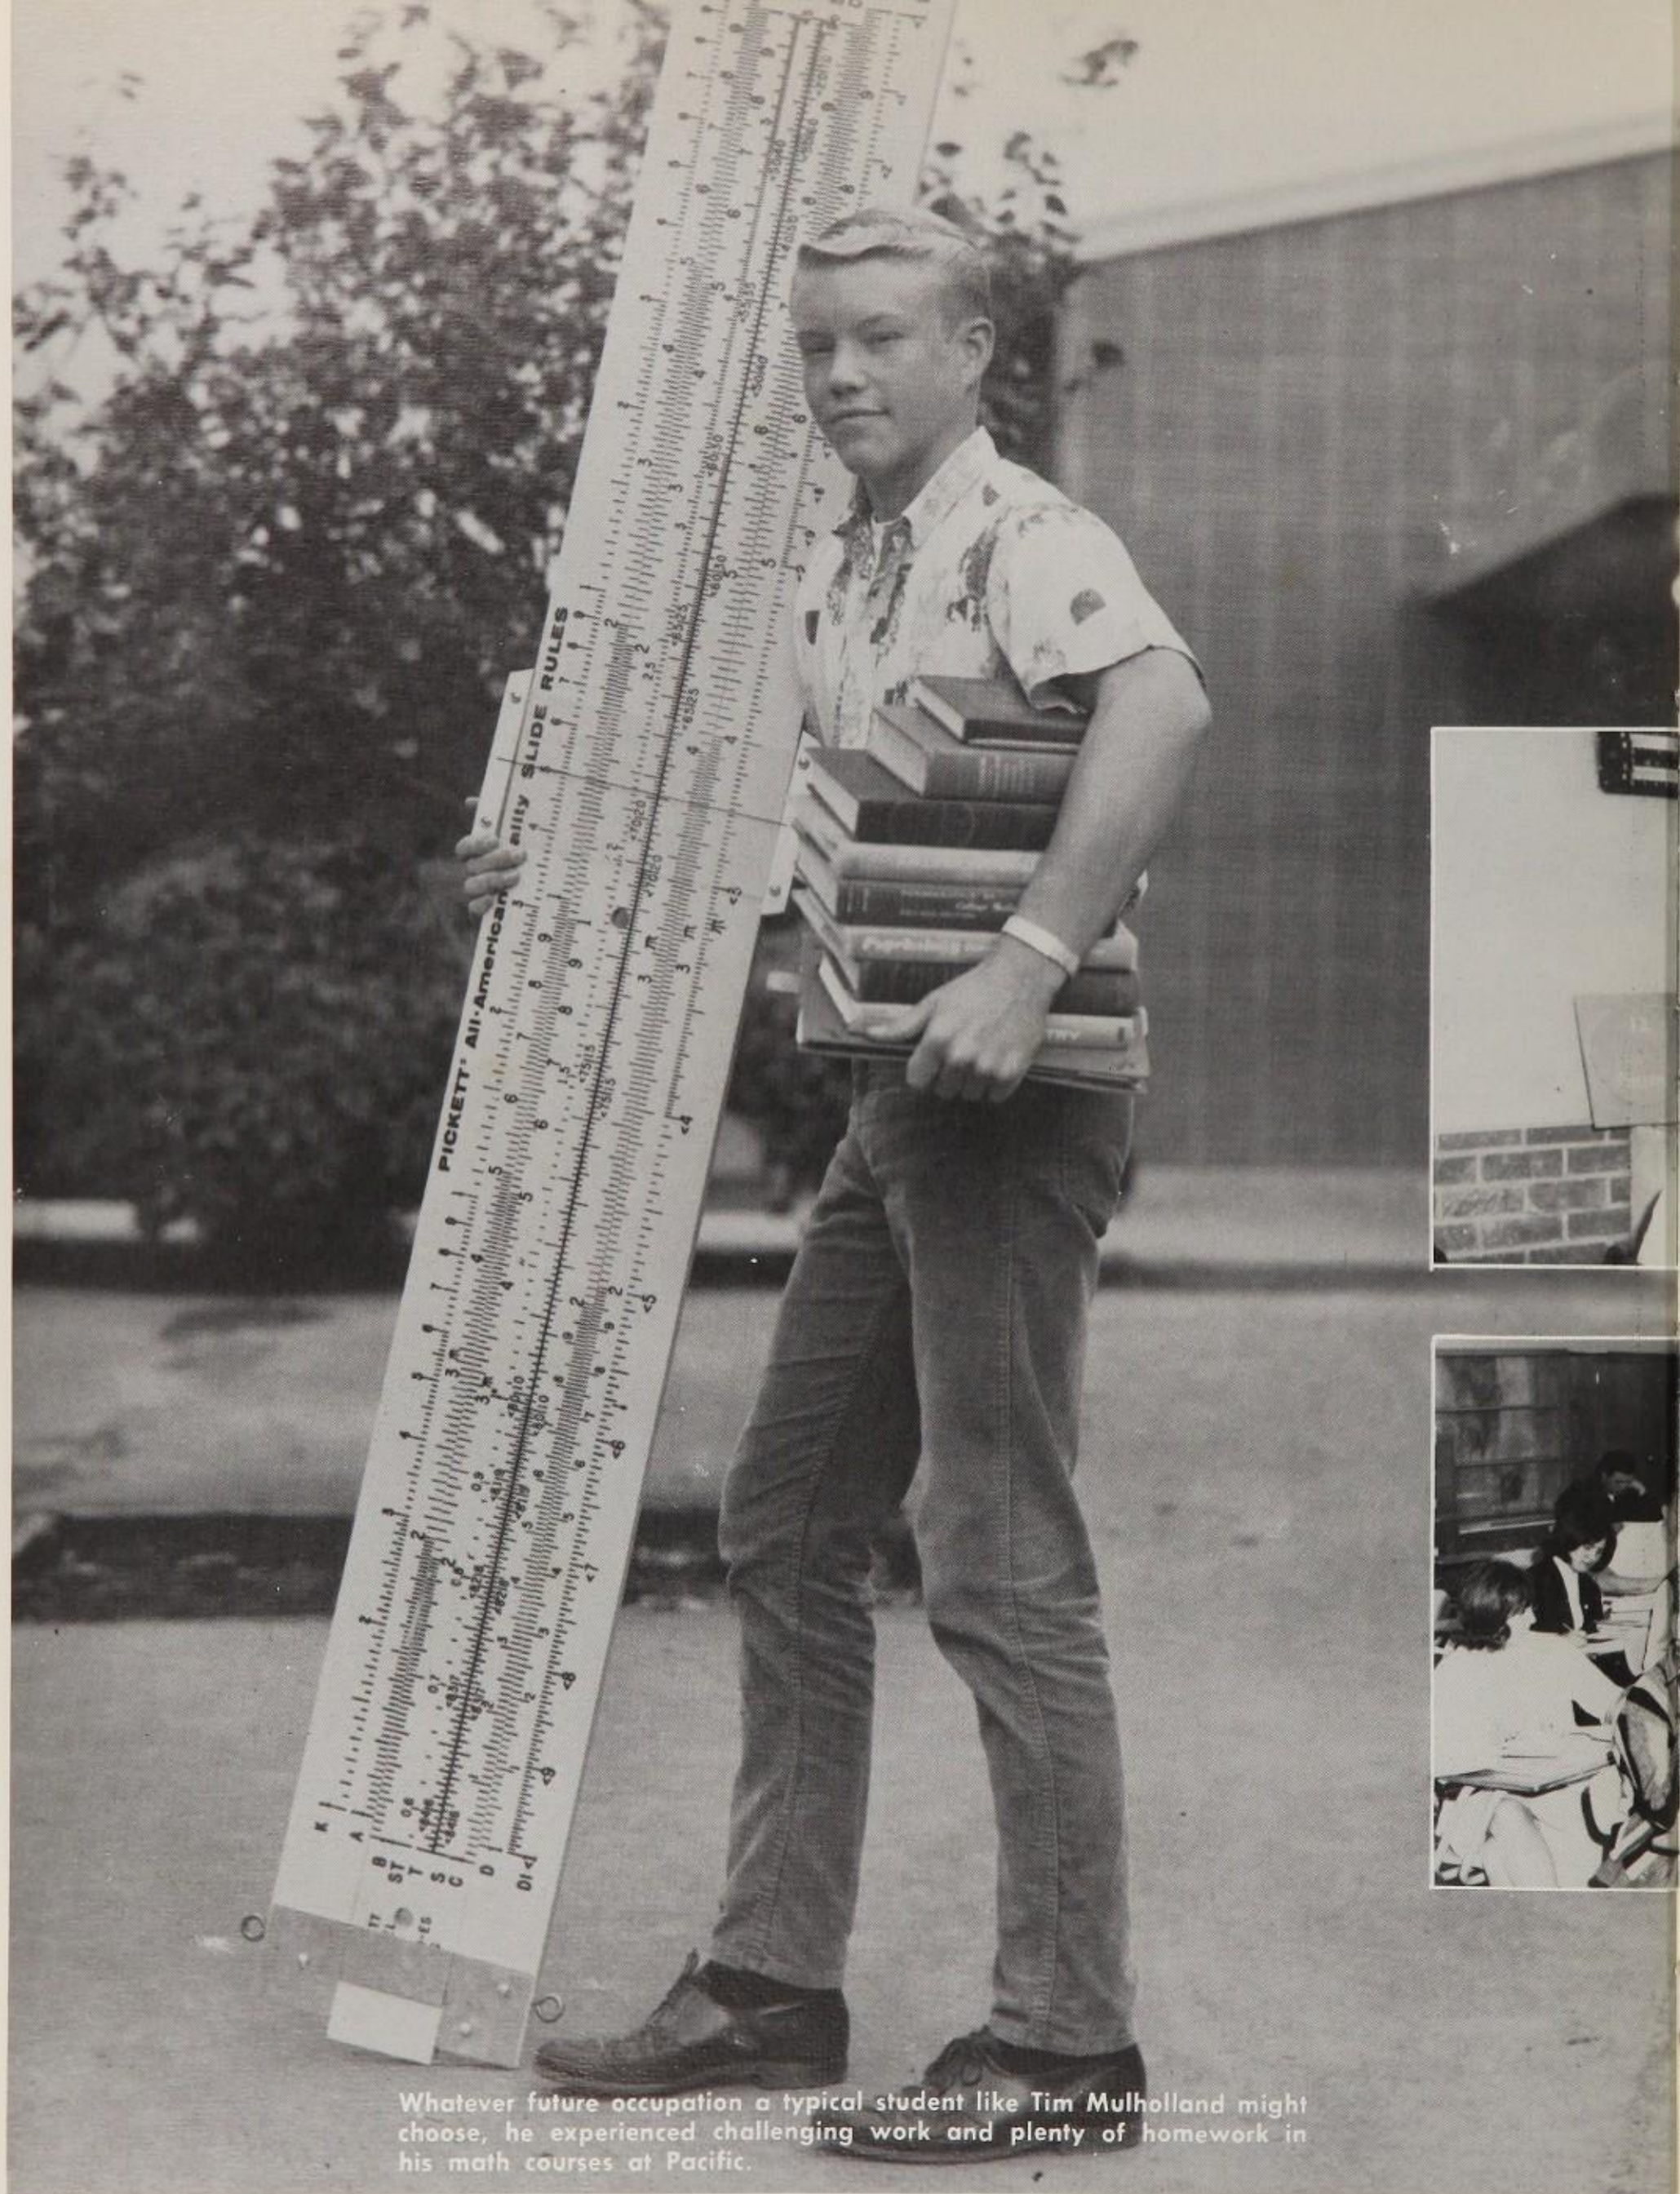

Latin

Language skills included not only speech adeptness, but reading and writing abilities. Language scholar Sharlene Rigler practiced spelling in an effort to achieve the fullest understanding of Russian.

French students Bonnie Able and Tallien Perry portrayed an anger scene as they practiced a play for their French classes. Plays or skits were often produced in the various departments to induce interest in the different languages.

Whatever future occupation a typical student like Tim Mulholland might choose, he experienced challenging work and plenty of homework in his math courses at Pacific.

MATH DEPARTMENT

Bulging and bursting at the seams, Pacific remedied its overcrowded Math Department by prescribing a Math-Science split as the antidote. In past years, the department had been overly simplified. Instead of being divided into merely algebra, geometry, and trigonometry, the administration reinterpreted the subdivisions of Industrial, Accelerated, College Prep, and Regular Math. A student who planned to enter a practical field of business pursued the Industrial Math program and took courses in Basic Math, while a student with college in mind followed the Accelerated or College Preparatory program. This proposal permitted students to progress at their own rate and to receive equal opportunities. As head of the department, Mr. Krabill helped launch and maintain a successful year.

Above) Demonstrating fundamentals of the pulley, Mr. Smilac explained the practical application of math equations. Below) Pacific's Math Department thoroughly prepared students for the rigorous college entrance examinations.

Bulging and Bursting at the Seams

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

Preparing for the Space Age

Flooded with students and starved for teachers, the Math-Science Department divided giving this portion of the school curriculum the opportunity to expand and develop. Under the auspices of Mr. Lundy, more time and effort were given to the various projects. An experimental physics class replaced the workshop course and gave students the convenience of doing more laboratory work. After a year of special study, a large number of top quality projects represented Pacific at the Science Fair. Unlike previous years, Pacific received more awards than other high schools. A regular physics class and a survey physics course complemented the Physics Program of the Science Division. Always anxious for new fields of study, Pacific added a chemical bonding class to the regular Chemistry Program. Laboratory biology and normal biology completed the department curriculum. Dividing the Math-Science Program provided students with a better chance for a more comprehensive understanding in special fields of interest. Because of the broadened scope of research caused by the department division, interest and enrollment increased in this field of academic study.

Physics

Experimenting with a gas thermometer, Mike Sands, a physics student, demonstrated that gas pressure was directly proportional to gas temperature.

Biology

Working with his biology class, Mr. Sensintaffer pointed out the anatomy of the starfish to a group of curious and inquisitive students.

Experimental Physics

Winging their way from Experimental Physics to flight, Steve Langjahr and Norton Grim paused to have a little fun with atmospheric testing.

Spending their Saturday night date dissecting a cow heart, Chester Matwich and Patty Overland prepared for an exam in psychology class.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Combining the historic facts given in textbooks with specific individual experiences of the past, films shown in Pacific's auditorium offered students the chance to recognize famous figures as real human beings and incidents in history as they actually happened. Candidates for the 1964 elections voiced their opinions during problems classes and were questioned by students. Seniors also had the choice of Latin American history, psychology, or sociology again last year. Through lectures, psychology classes spent the first semester studying physiology and later learned to cope with personal problems by studying human behavior. Sociology specialized in man's attitude toward himself in relations to others. Only one class was offered last year to those interested in Latin American history. Accelerated sophomores who wished to add a cultural side to the required world history and English classes took humanities, a course designed to incorporate art, music and literature while still meeting the state requirements. U.S. history continued to prepare juniors with a solid background of their government, while seniors observed the San Bernardino court system in action.

Experiencing the advantage of soundproof walls in the auditorium enabled classes to give their attention to teachers.

Emphatically voicing their views on 1964 election issues, Pettis, Dyal, and Conaster lectured in enthused problems class.

Staff

Striving to achieve excellence in annual production, the Pacificana Staff contributed extra-curricular hours to make the '65 Pacificana the best. Advisor, Mr. Nielsen, and Editor-in-Chief, Dennis Martin maintained high expectations of work put in by each staff member to make last year's annual rate high in literary excellence. Staff members were alternated to enable each person to achieve maximum experience.

Picture 1) Club Staff, Kim Bond and Darlene Urlaub, interpreted layouts. 2) Sharon Eson and Tammie Littlefield cropped action shots. 3) Junior, Donna Wessel, wrote picture captions. 4) Ambitious staff workers anticipated the coming deadline.

SUE WINKELMAN
ART EDITOR

Specializing in division pages and accompanying art work, the Pacificana art staff added a craftsman's touch to the 1965 PACIFICANA. Among their numerous creative efforts, which included the end sheets, the first nine pages of the book, and division pages, the task of designing the annual cover emerged. The oval theme, done in purple and white, was finally chosen. Al Davis, and Liz Sowers, under editor Sue Winkelman, contributed greatly to the originality and design of the Pacificana.

Flocked by requests for pictures by each staff, the photography staff proved to be one of the busiest in annual production. Skills needed included not only photographic genius, but physical strength since feats of agile maneuverability were required for obtaining some of the sports action shots. Assisted by the Photo Production club, Editor, John Ryan and staff member, Don Nicholson, made the '65 PACIFICANA one of the most picturesque.

JANET LANGE
BUSINESS EDITOR

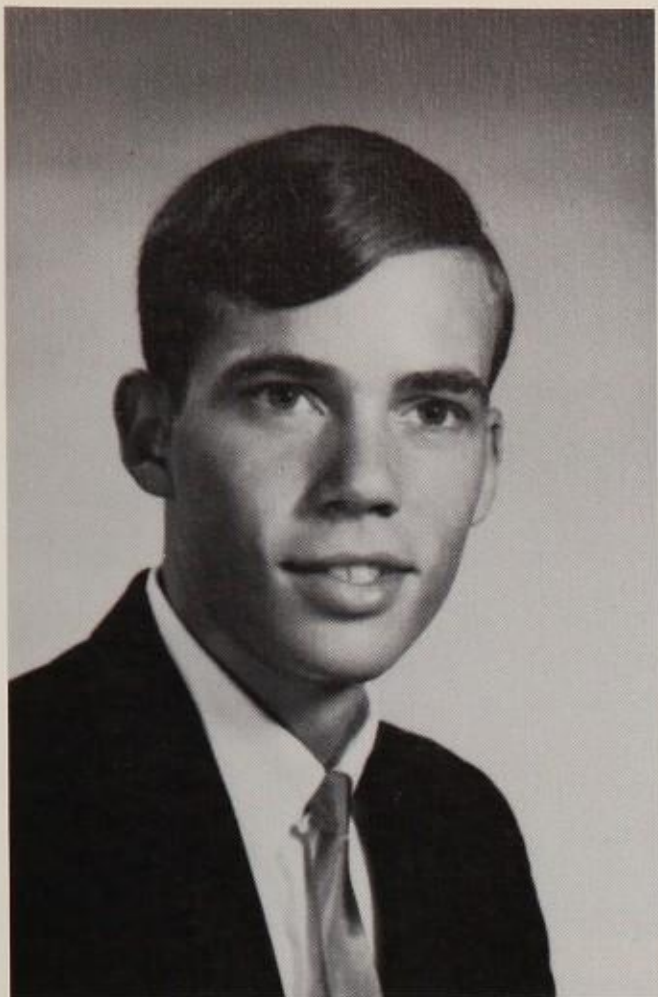

A major portion of PACIFICANA production, the business staff, had the thankless task of keeping track of all the money involved in expenditures and incomes. The most important job held by the business staff was the sale of the annual. Staff members of every staff assisted in pre-sale and selling. Working in close collaboration with the financial secretary, Editor Janet Lange and staff member, Lu Johnson, learned many of the necessary skills needed involving the handling of money and business transactions.

Trying to remember facts about Pacific's campus activities, Mr. Brickley was interviewed by staff editor and reporter Suzanne Susan for articles to be put in the Hi-Tide.

Entering into the editor's room, Suzanne, like other journalists on the Hi-Tide staff, was able to proof-read all of her copy and to complete her page for the forth-coming edition of the Hi-Tide.

Successfully Publishing the School Newspaper, Industrious Staff Reporters Worked Hard

Informing and enlightening the Pirates about events happening around Pacific's campus, the newspaper staff launched another successful year of publishing the Hi-Tide under the guidance of its sponsor, Mrs. Alice Chous. Differing from all previous years, students could only attain their copy of the Hi-Tide by buying a subscription card. Supporting itself financially, the staff sold advertisements to business firms and Hi-Tide cards to the student body. Starting last January, the Hi-Tides were sold in the student store almost every Friday. Reporting the news and events of campus activities as they happened, the staff members also campaigned for individual and school improvements while attempting to represent all the Pirates. These dedicated students worked diligently to produce better-than-ever Hi-Tides for Pacific's students.

After collecting all the information for her article, Suzanne proceeded to type her story for the Hi-Tide.

Outlining her page for the Hi-Tide by using articles that were written by other staff members, Suzanne hurried to beat her next deadline. Each of the pages had to be approved by their advisor, Mrs. Chous.

After hours of work by all of the staff members, the students of Pacific enjoyed another issue of the Hi-Tide.

National Merit

Scholarship winners, Gail Clark and Ken Mauer exchanged congratulations on receiving the National Merit Scholarship. With the scholarship, each student will be able to attend the college or university of his choice, tuition free. Other monetary advantages will be given to further their education.

Bank of America

Laurel Rest, Dennis Martin and Heidi Hammond discussed collegiate use for their newly received Bank of America Scholarships. The scholarship was awarded on the basis of personal recommendation from the various departments. Finalists from each school in the fine arts, liberal arts, math science, and vocational arts went to zone contests where they were screened for the Southern California contest. Those who survived the Southern California contest became the Bank of America winners.

AWARDS

Seniors Walk off

With Honors

Diligent seniors received many generous scholarships as their school careers drew to a close. Sophomores and juniors witnessed the presentation of significant awards at the closing scholarship assembly. Keeping students alerted to available scholarships, counselors provided the necessary personal guidance to insure that a large number of financial grants were obtained by Pacific graduates.

State Scholarship

State scholarship semi-finalists: Jacelen Grove, Donna Disharron, Heidi Hammond, Celina Andrade, Connie Blackwell, Charles Alderson, Martin Rubin, Charles Lorenz, Dennis Allen, Lewis Wakefield, Walter Dibble, Bill Tuttle, Richard Peterson. Not pictured were: Robert Bard, Brenda Gulbranson, Edward Parker, Linda Leonard, and Marla Marks. Selected on the results of their Scholastic Aptitude Tests and financial need, semi-finalists hoped to be finalists.

Generally, awards were given to seniors on the basis of academic achievements, financial need, and all-around superiority in student leadership; however, many universities offered large athletic scholarships. Financial grants to worthy students ranged from $3,000 a year in the National Merit competition to local awards which paid for books or tuition. Pacific proudly boasted their numerous winners.

Edison

Obtaining an outstanding score on his college board examinations enabled William Tuttle to compete for the Edison scholarship. Bill Tuttle's outstanding academic achievements made him the most qualified representative for any university and a credit to be an alumnus of Pacific.

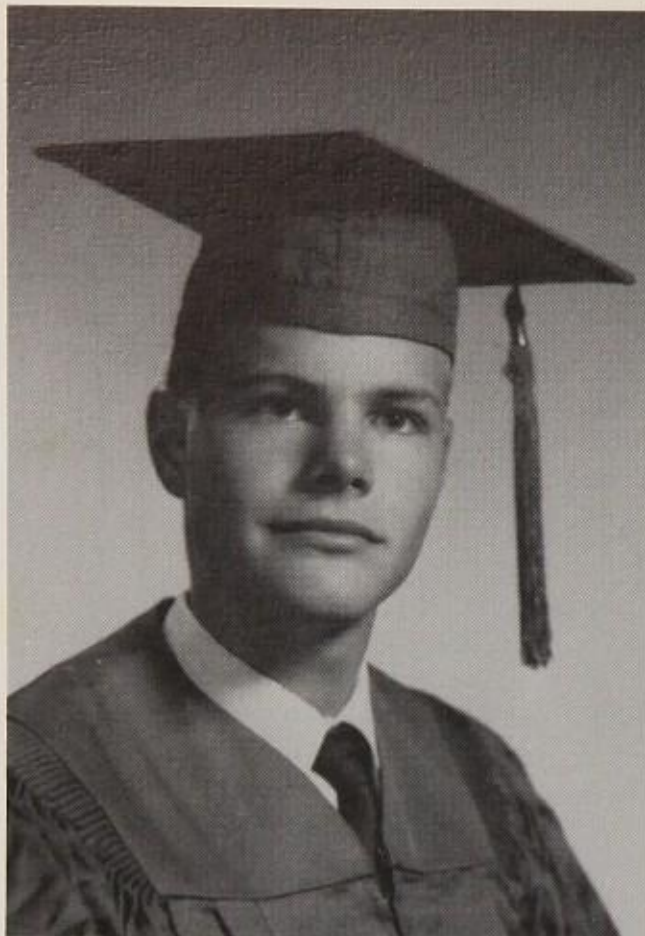

Holding the keys to innumerable futures, Miss Overby took charge of all scholarships.

Interests ranging from music to student council kept Heidi Hammond active. Heidi also served as president of Pacific's Zonta Z club.

HONOR STUDENTS

Pondering the perplexing problem of math analysis, Walter Dibble anticipated honors upon graduation.

Versatile valedictorians, Heidi Hammond and Susie LeMay, spent hours practicing for musical performance.

Picture 1) Sleepy salutatorians, Margie Kieffer and Kathy LeMay, crammed late into the night for examinations. 2) Both talented and popular, Margie and Kathy frequently entertained friends with popular and original folk songs. 3) Attractive and intelligent, Barbara McKinley spent many leisure moments developing her artistic talents. 4) Beloved annual editor, Dennis Martin, patiently advised his staff on the correct tense of verbs.

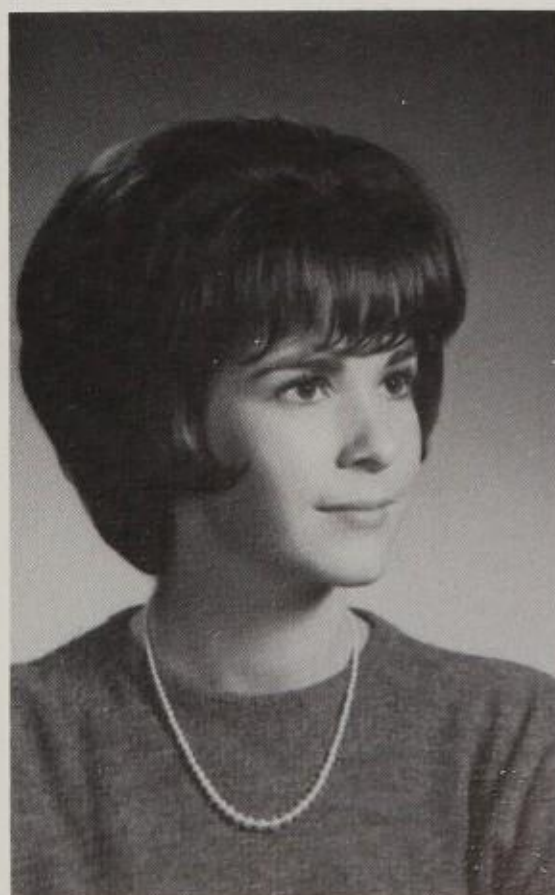

MARGIE KIEFFER
SALUTATORIAN

Founder of the Folk Singing Club and participant in Lehis, and student council, Margie Kieffer somehow found time to study.

Kiwanis Demoiselle, Barbara McKinley, battled with rival Key Club members between studying Shakespeare and problems of the modern world.

An experience to remember for our entire lives

The past three years at Pacific have been filled with fun, excitement, activities, athletics, good times and difficult times, but, generally, our stay at Pacific has been enjoyable and worthwhile. It has been an experience which we will remember for the rest of our lives. We wish to thank our teachers and administration for their guidance and patience in preparing us to strive for bigger and better things. Having passed this milestone in our young lives, we, the graduating seniors of the Class of 1965, hope to be prepared for the achievement of ambitions we have set for ourselves.

HOLLY AND MISTLETOE

Dazzling snowflakes and green mistletoe made for a gala evening at the Crystal Ball.

Oops! Lance was pinned against a wall by his vivacious helpers. They just could not wait to get started!

Senior Class cabinet members, Pat Underwood and Sharon Regalado, baked homemade cookies for the Crystal Ball.

"Mistletoe and Holly," accentuated with dazzling snowflakes and a brightly colored rotating Christmas tree, made for a gala evening at the annual Crystal Ball. Entranced couples danced to the lively music of the High Hatters, who showed much versatility by playing many popular songs. As a special treat, Super Santa merrily skipped in with his bag of goodies and endowed numerous couples with presents. Being possessed with a jolly sense of humor, Santa inspired laughter with his humorous jokes. Super Santa, alias David Green, also played Santa Claus in Fun Incorporated's successful Christmas play, "Super Santa."

Exhausted from cleaning up after the annual Crystal Ball, committee heads celebrated with drinks and candy canes.

Departing for the Ball, Sheri McMillan and Scott Krause anticipated an evening of fun.

Donkey- Basketball Trophy

1. Modeling costumes before the game, the student team outfits varied from a pink ballerina dress with matching hunting boots to a sheer pajama top with stunning red tights. 2. Using a sneaky faculty tactic, "Barrels" Brame resorted to a toy pistol as a means of frightening the enemy. 3. Proving to the faculty that their tactics do not always work, Linda Lugo managed to hang on to the ball after she was almost bounced off her mighty steed by Mr. Pfeiffer and his donkey. 4. "Malicious" Mercandante and "Pirate" Paul Howard viciously battled the ball. 5. Scrambling for the rebound, Eddie Parker and Bob Holcomb recovered the ball.

Owner of the Donkey-Basketball Company, Mr. Ben Reynolds is shown with the star donkey, Sugar.

After unending minutes of an intensively fierce Donkey-Basketball game, Eddie Parker accepted the Basketball Trophy for the victorious team.

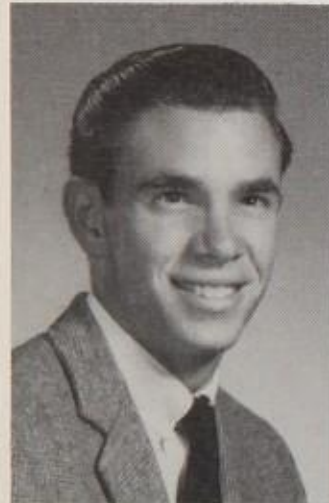

While straddling wild, bucking burros, students succeeded in baffling the sagacious faculty team with their skillful playing maneuvers. The memorable date to the students of the Donkey-Basketball game was Tuesday, February 9. Paul Howard sank the victorious basket which won the game for the students in a close score of 34 to 32. Victorious student team members included Linda Lugo, Skip Crapo, Bob Holcomb, Kathy Brazier, Don Di-Carlo, Eddie Parker, Mike Sutton, Paul Howard, Dave Wyatt, Tim Young, Dick Lunceford, and Coach Jim Barbuto. Hard fighting faculty members were Mr. Brame, Mr. Farr, Mr. Page, Mr. Beck, Mr. Mercandante, Miss Hempstead, Mrs. Reynolds, Mr. Taylor, Dr. Bailey, and Coach Pfeiffer.

OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCES

As a result of hours of studying, pounds of books carried to and from school, and worrying about term papers or tests, some seniors succeeded to become the outstanding students in ten fields of education. These performances were attributed to the unified efforts of the students, administration, and faculty. Qualified teachers and newly revised text books helped the students to achieve high honors and scholarships.

PACIFIC A GO GO

By hopping, skipping, jumping, running, walking, thumbing, rocking, flopping, flying, and just plain old driving, seniors arrived. Getting to school, and not how they arrived, was their main objective. Contraptions which were stored and hung on and around the vicinity of Pacific's campus emphasized this goal.

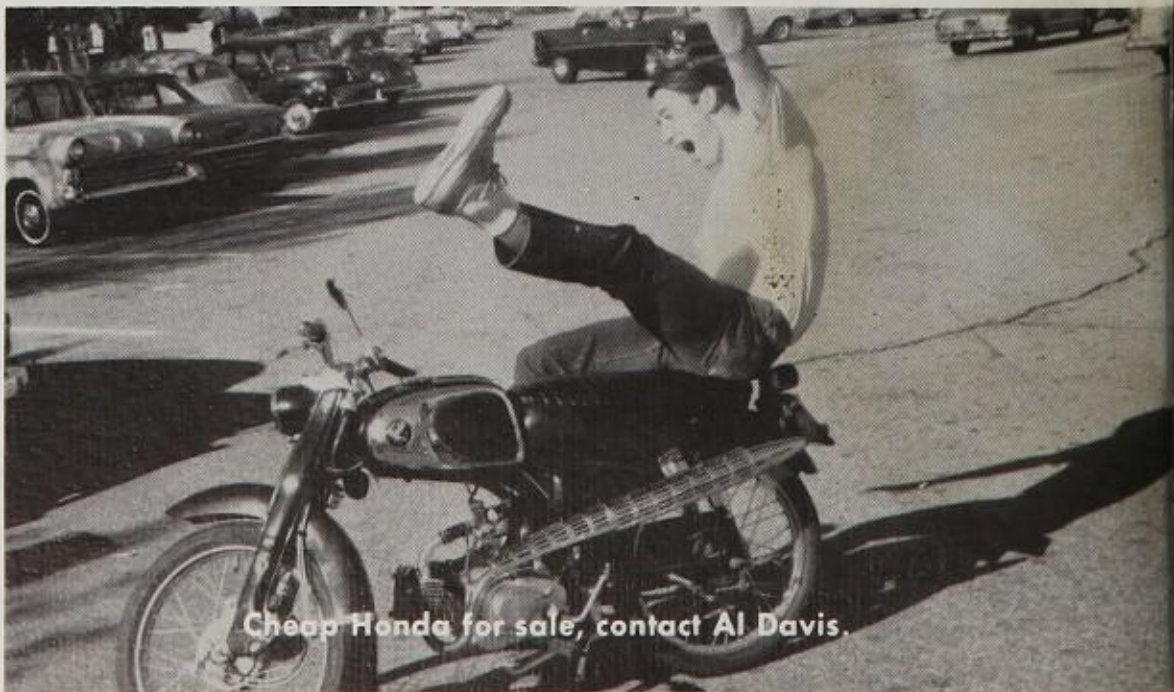

They almost didn't make it to their last period class that day.

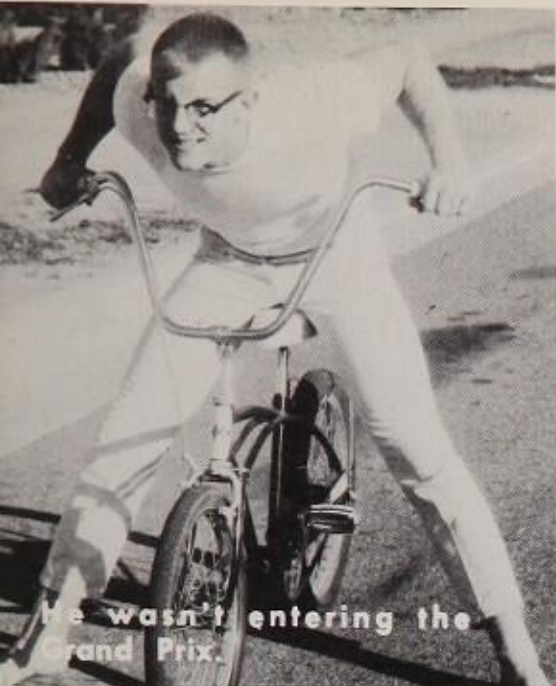

Supercalifragilis-

FUN INCORPORATED

In a whirl of pixie dust

Flying through the air in a whirl of pixie dust, six foot two inch Skip Crapo as Peter Pot led Windex, Juan and Miguel to an island on an adventurous journey of Indians and Captain Fork's Pirate ship. Spell-binding suspense, intermingled with Fun Incorporated's usual humor, typified "Peter Pot." Adapted by Skip Crapo and Mikie Olsen, the hilarious musical was taken from Sir Barry's novel PETER PAN. Replacing the missing Tinkerstar, Peter Pot's sweetheart, Liver Lily, was portrayed by Mikie Olsen.

Peter Pot discovered American Indians

After completing a bumpy, but safe, landing, Nick Genemaris as Miguel, Phil Roth as Juan, and Sue Sterkel as Windex scouted the island. Highlighting the exploration, Skip Crapo as Peter Pot discovered genuine American Indians.

Jewels found for the Purple Pirates

Official first mate of the pirate ship, Tom Henry as Schmee helped haul the treasure box of jewels to the ship with the aid of nefarious villain, Captain Fork, Greg Grim and two Purple Pirates, Mike Lunt and Larry Katz.

Trouble ahead for Peter and friends

Disembarking for the return journey home, lionhearted Peter Pot and fierce Captain Fork exchanged cold, savage growls and scowls. Fighting for the freedom of Windex, Juan and Miguel, Pot stood victorious over the mere captain.

The cast relaxed after long hours

Slaphappy cast members enjoyed the comfort of relaxing after the show on the children's beds. Additional cast members were Linda Johnson as the children's nurse, Nana, and Paul Howard and Lloyd Clay portrayed the American Indians.

Searching up, down, around and even sideways, inquisitive seniors struggled to find answers for their many perplexing problems and questions. Commendable faculty and administrative guidance toward the correct lighted path solved many uncertainties and seniors realized that graduation was here.

Swish! Zoom! Zip! Thought brain waves darted unnoticed through calm, collective minds. Memories of marching behind traditional ivy chains and a silent faculty, seniors dressed in flowing robes of purple and white, unending finals, grueling eight-to-five jobs and assignments plagued students each day.

After Pacific's intellectual students whirled away numerous moments at the pencil sharpener, they were confronted with the depressing sight of a jammed locker and struggled to find the one needed book at the bottom of the heap. Falling, worn tennis shoes and piles of eaten food caused more frustration.

Step right up and see for yourself the faces on parade. Happy faces, sloppy faces, and perky faces composed a portion of the senior class of 1965. This side of funny faces was continuous from 8:30 to 3:15 each day. The arrival of graduation brought smiles of radiation to all Seniors.

GRADUATION COMMITTEES

Headaches, sleepless nights and numerous working hours portrayed the diligent efforts of the graduation committee members to make the 1965 graduation supersede all previous graduation and baccalaureate ceremonies.

Visiting lectures and numerous church services, Bill Gresham, Janet Lange, Jean Pfeiffer, Dennis Martin, Margie Kieffer, Hinda Silberstein, Marian Betts, and Chairman Heidi Hammond recommended excellent Baccalaureate speakers for a senior class vote and selected the Senior Class Prayer.

Selecting proper subdued, elegant colors, Bill Gresham, Pat Underwood, Sharon Regalado, Chairman Sue Winkelman, Annabelle Morgan, and Senior Class President Lance Marcum organized the memorable details for decorations and the program covers for Baccalaureate and Graduation ceremonies.

PRE-GRADUATION PREPARATIONS

Numerous pre-graduation preparations included announcements, orders, graduation cards and paying senior bills. Emphasizing that graduation was almost there, the last half of the senior year held sparks of encouragement.

Tying up some of the final last-minute preparations before graduation, Margie Kieffer, Annabelle Morgan and Tom Clark cleared their debts with the assistant financial secretary, Carol Peck. Bills ranged from chemistry flasks, to books, graduated cylinders, to a lone high stool from the art department.

Selecting the perfect print for their senior cards and announcements, Laurel Callahan and Marian Betts concentrated on the difficult task of choosing among the numerous types offered. After much careful thought and family consultations, the choices were finally decided upon.

PRE-GRADUATION ACTIVITIES

Nearing the end of an adventure filled school year, graduating students found their time well spent with end-of-the-year finals, the junior-senior prom, annual signing parties, and looking for those summer jobs.

But it is purple! A frustrating last minute check corrected the possible fatal error of Suzanne Jones' graduation robe. Rechecking for any error in length, Kathy Adams agreed that it should be correct in time for Graduation and Baccalaureate ceremonies.

Inquisitive Kris Hallsten and Gay Henderson tried to peek at what Geri Byer was writing in their annuals. Recollecting memorable incidents during the three years at Pacific High, seniors enjoyed the fun and teasing at traditional annual signing parties after Graduation ceremonies.

Hard working, college bound seniors gloat.

Diligently reading, seniors Dennis Martin and Marian Betts portray the hard work that goes into receiving an award at the Graduation Awards and scholarship assemblies. Happily smiling, Patti Snodgrass and Barry Knotts sigh as they anticipate the coming years of college and future endeavors.

Picnicing after finals provided restoration.

Casually reclining in the grass, seniors Edward Parker, Ilene Helfman, Rick Angermiller, and Liz Sowers enjoyed the beautiful scenery of Peris Hill Park. Pacific High School seniors happily lounged in the sunshine each year at this event with thoughts of final exams far from their minds.

Senior events concluded with Grad Nite.

Enthusiastically running from one sight to another, Annie Morgan and Ley Yeager hurried to see everything they could during "Graduation Night" at Disneyland. Graduating seniors from surrounding high schools anticipated a night of gaiety and excitement with their selected dates at Disneyland.

Alma Mater

Pacific High we love so well,
With pride and joy our praises swell
Faith, devotion all to thee:
Our Alma Mater ever be
For thy learning rich and pure
For all thy training strong and sure
We will pledge our loyalty;
Pacific High, all hail to thee!

Senior Class Prayer by Robin Swant

Dear Lord and Heavenly Father,
We gather here tonight to give thanks and to ask for Your divine guidance and protection. Grant that we may be mindful of the care and love that Thou has bestowed upon us, your children.

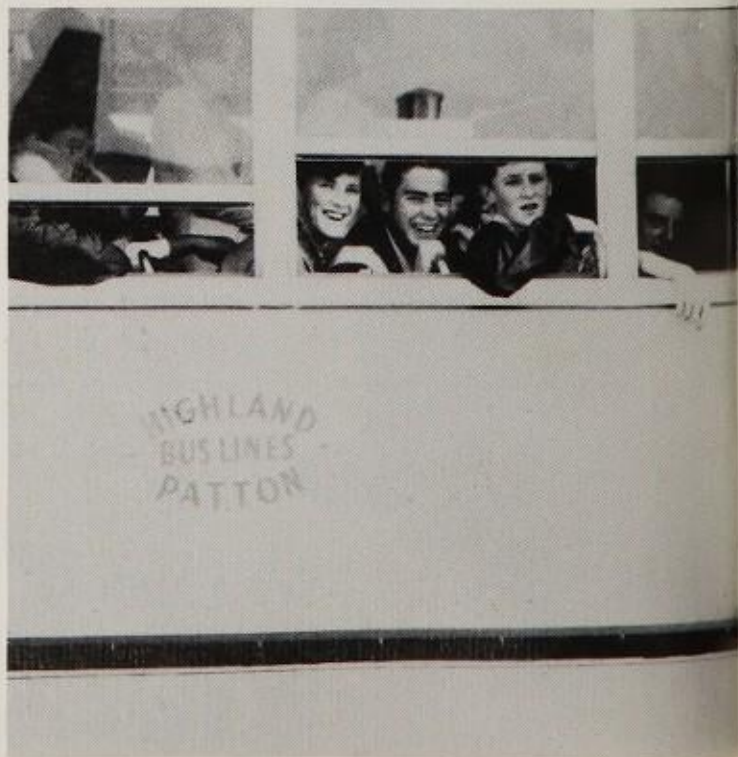

To our teachers and administrators and parents, we humbly give thanks for the dedication, work, and friendship they have given us. During these years of education and learning, we have experienced much and absorbed seemingly endless knowledge. As graduates, we have reached a turning point in the broad expansion of our lives. Our paths, which until now have been one, must part. Yet, for us this time marks not the end, but the beginning of deeper, richer learning experiences.

Father, tonight our hearts are filled with mixed emotions — relief, happiness — indecision, fear. You have blessed us with the tools of life and now it is our responsibility to build our futures. Help us to find the strength of patience—for the praying, for the waiting for the thinking, and for the world.

Though we may falter and sometimes fall, and though we may wander from Thy path, grant us, if it be Thy will, unfailing strength and unceasing guidance. Help us to work for a world of reason and understanding, of beauty and hope, and of joy and abiding faith in Your divine and everlasting trust and love for us.

We stand here together for perhaps the last time. Yet we stand as one, facing the future with warm courage and high hope; with the assurance that You are with us always.

In Your name we pray,
Amen

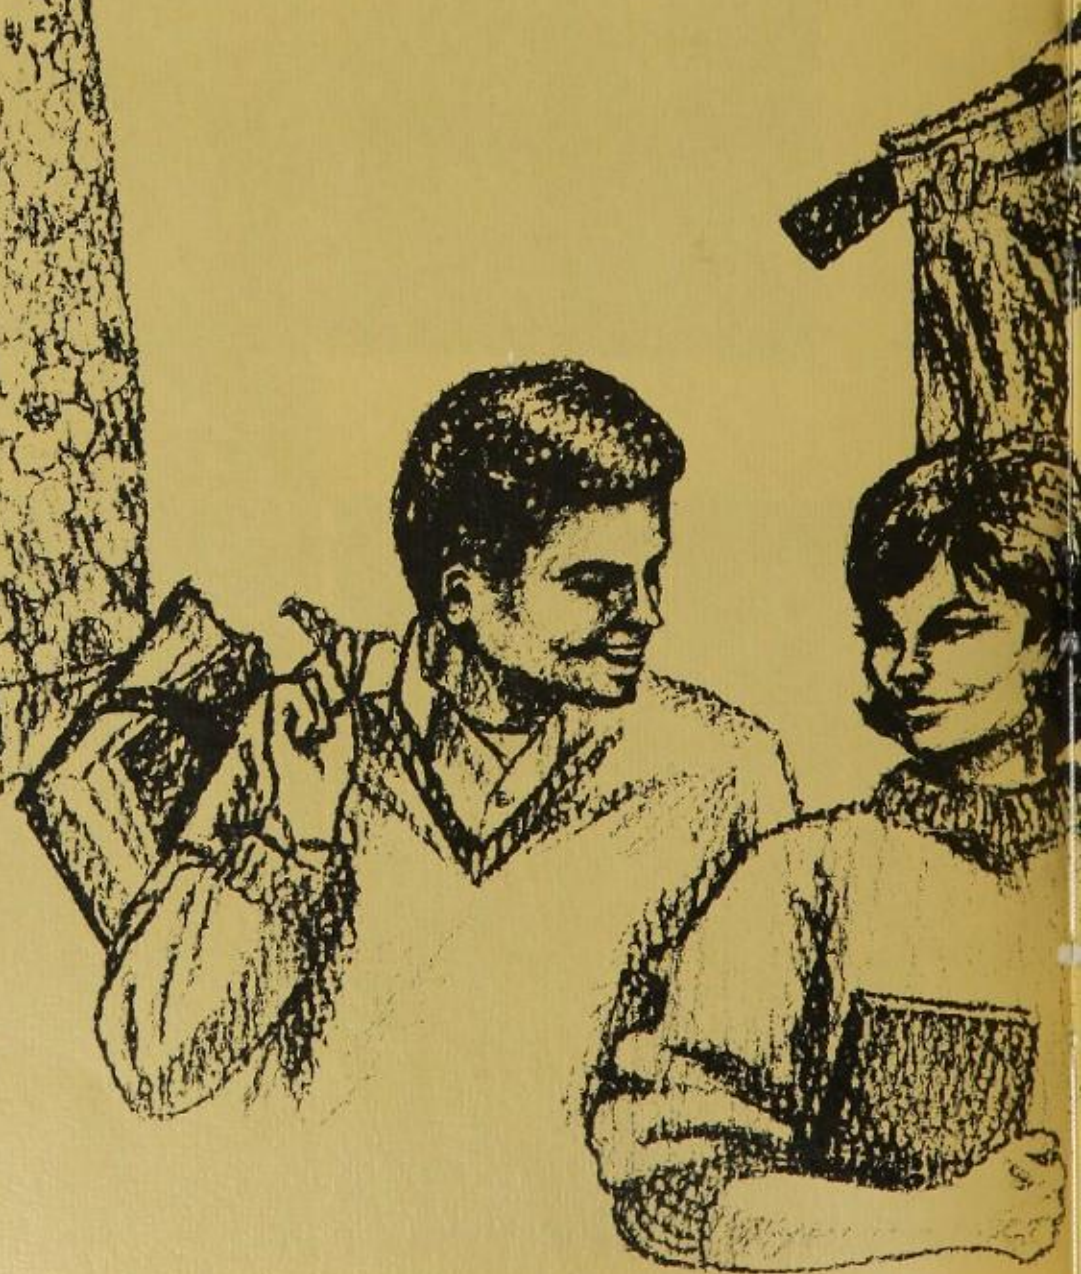

DEPARTING MEMORIES

The end for many - the beginning for some.

Facing future occupations, all ex-Pirates looked back to high school days with mixed sentiments and emotions. Seniors felt sadness at the prospect of leaving the familiar halls and faces, but eagerly looked forward to the challenge of the future. Remember the peaceful strolls through Senior Plaza . . . the 3:10 rush and dents in fenders? Pondering notes of "Pomp and Circumstance" and the traditional walk from Graduation Bowl, future dreams came closer to becoming realities as seniors culminated three years.

Colleen,
I've sure had fun

... "First Class All the Way"

Mercedes Guerra

Luis Allencastro

"Shall we live in a world of fear or shall we build a world of peace? You have already answered that question for us. There is a necessity in the earth for the people to understand and help each other. This is exactly what you have been and will be doing for us through all our stay in your country. Words mean nothing when such a feeling of gratitude, as we have now, is so strong. Thank you . . ."

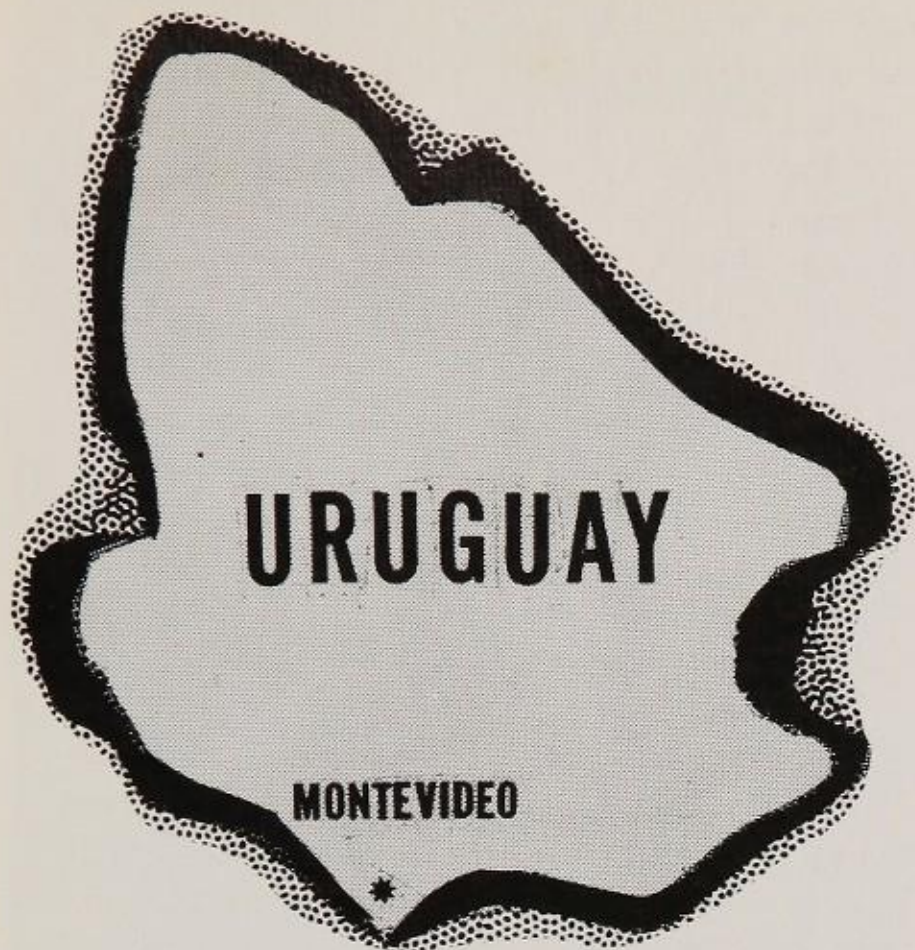

Mercedes

"Can we find the key that opens eyes?" Pacific's chapter of the American Field Service serves as a key that can open the eyes and hearts of Pirates to the warmth and charm of our exchange students. Mercedes Guerra, representing her native Uruguay, broadened our understanding of the people and customs of South America through her numerous presentations.

"Throughout all countries in the world, students have traveled to study and have been accepted in a way which increases the knowledge and the understanding between the peoples of the various nations. In this nation and in this our Pacific High School, I have found a classic example of the supreme ideal of the American Field Service: 'Walk together, talk together Oh ye peoples of the earth. Then and only then shall ye have peace . . .'"

Luis

Hoping to gain greater insight into the "American Way of Life", Luis Allencastro from Porto Alegre, Brazil plunged into numerous activities offered at Pacific. Participating as an honorary member of Key Club and of Balboa del Pacifico, and as a Mutineer Man, Luis served San Bernardino not only as an energetic resident but also as an informative guest.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

With vivacity and stamina, Pacific's Varsity Cheerleaders Jan Roberts, Evi Yarnell, Patti Snodgrass, Mary Cowett, Linda Swan, Karen Kanaga, and Head Linda Lugo inspired Pacific by insisting that all loyal male Pirates stand for "La Dee Da" and with that inevitable "Seniors won!" decision.

Striving for originality in leadership poses, the Cheerleaders clowned for the photographer following a strenuous afternoon of guiding aspiring pep girls.

VARSITY POM PONS

"... Remember to smile!" Faced with the herculean task of instructing a throng of young shufflers, the Pom Pons strutted and kicked their afternoons away.

Presiding as officers for the PTA were, first row, left to right: Mrs. Raymond Krause, Mrs. Kenneth Bailey, Mrs. Edward Harmon. Second row, left to right: Mrs. William Cover, Mrs. Daniel Young, Mrs. Jesse R. Smiley, Mrs. Patrick Dowling, Mrs. David Thomas, Mrs. Victor Pinkert, Mrs. Harold Wear.

One of the most active clubs on campus, the Parent Teacher Association, led by Mrs. V. Pinkert, completed another year of service at Pacific. Meetings were held each month when school and student betterment were main topics for discussion. In support of the underprivileged youth of San Bernardino, the PTA organized their annual Clothes Closet Drive with the help of contributions made by the student body. Giving parents a chance to meet their student's instructors, Back-To-School Night was held in the fall.

PTA

BOOSTER CLUB

Miles of spaghetti not only provided for beaming faces and satisfied appetites, but also for a bulging treasury as Pacific High's Booster Club played host to its annual Jitney Dinner. Serving as the organization's fundraising project, its rewards were utilized in fulfilling many of the planned activities which occupied their busy agenda. Guided by Mr. Robert Webb, who acted as president, the club sponsored four banquets held throughout the year honoring students who excelled in athletic and academic fields of endeavor.

True to their name, the Linebackers spent many a throat-rasping hour on the sidelines cheering, threatening and singing the praises of one of Pacific High's most successful varsity football teams. Sparked by Mr. Jim Gresham as president, the club carried out many spectacular defensive plays for the treasury by selling bench cushions and corsages of the traditional purple and white Pirate colors. The Linebackers held weekly meetings at which time movies of the preceding game were shown, refreshments served, and the Players of the Week honored.

LINEBACKERS

THANKSGIVING BASKETS

For the fifth consecutive year, Mr. Herran's first period class seized the top award for the greatest quantity of food collected during the annual Thanksgiving Drive. Mr. Letro's class followed as a close second, however. In the decorative division, Señor Wood's Spanish class captured the honors with their creation of a gigantic figure of a turkey filled with food-stuffs for the holiday table. The event proved to be highly successful as a total of 72 families were able to enjoy the benefits of Pacific High's all-out endeavor.

Mr. Herran's first period class took time out to strike a victorious pose with their cache of goodies with which they won their first place. Not a group to gloat, they quietly acknowledged their victory with an "anyone could have done it, it's just that we have been doing it for the last five years!"

1964 Football Homecoming Queen

FOOTBALL HOMECOMING

Cairo Coronation

Amid cheers for a triumphant Pirate team, Vicci Dixon was regally crowned queen of the 1964 Football Homecoming. Attending Vicci were princesses Terri Stout, Charlene Land, Sheryl Dinges, and Suzanne Jones. Adding their touch of color and excitement to the festive evening were creative floats decorated by clubs on campus and displaying the theme of a "Cairo Coronation." Not to be outdone, the Band and Drill Team also gave a unique half-time performance.

'Round and 'Round and 'Round and 'Round

Celebrating its fiftieth anniversary, the National Orange Show was held in March, despite the rainy weather which has become almost traditional with opening-day ceremonies. Sunny days returned in plenty of time to show off the color of the parade and rodeo to its fullest effect and to provide a spring-like atmosphere for the hundreds in attendance.

Pirates enjoyed "tummy-tickling moments and uttered ear-splitting screams after riding the Midway's ever-busy Double Ferris Wheel.

FABULOUS FIFTIETH ORANGE SHOW

Providing employment opportunities for Pirates, Gary Bowers and Ken Dailey rented strollers to Show goers.

Glittering lights and the aroma of freshly popped corn added to the festive air of the Fiftieth Orange Show.

POLITICAL POTLUCK

Actively participating in the national elections, the Pirates anxiously anticipated the outcome of the Presidential campaign. After discussing the candidates' controversial platforms in their Social Science classes, the students received a wider conception of the numerous issues. Taking an election poll on official ballots proved that the majority of the Pirates favored President Johnson over his opponent, Senator Goldwater.

Left: Government-minded students watched enthusiastically as Mr. Dyal and Mr. Pettis presented speeches about the numerous duties of a United States Congressman. Right: Demonstrating student's ideas about the issues in the forthcoming campaign were the scattered posters in classes and the poll taken before the election.

VARSITY FLAGS

Highlighted by swishing purple satin and glinting gold sequins, our flag twirlers proudly strutted with the band in both parades and public performances. Under the guidance of Paula Geiger, who captained the squad, Marian Betts, Sharon Dingly, Kathy Hunter, Jackie Wiles, Evi Shaeffer, and Carrie McDaniel worked hard to perfect their routines.

ANCHORETTES 1964-65

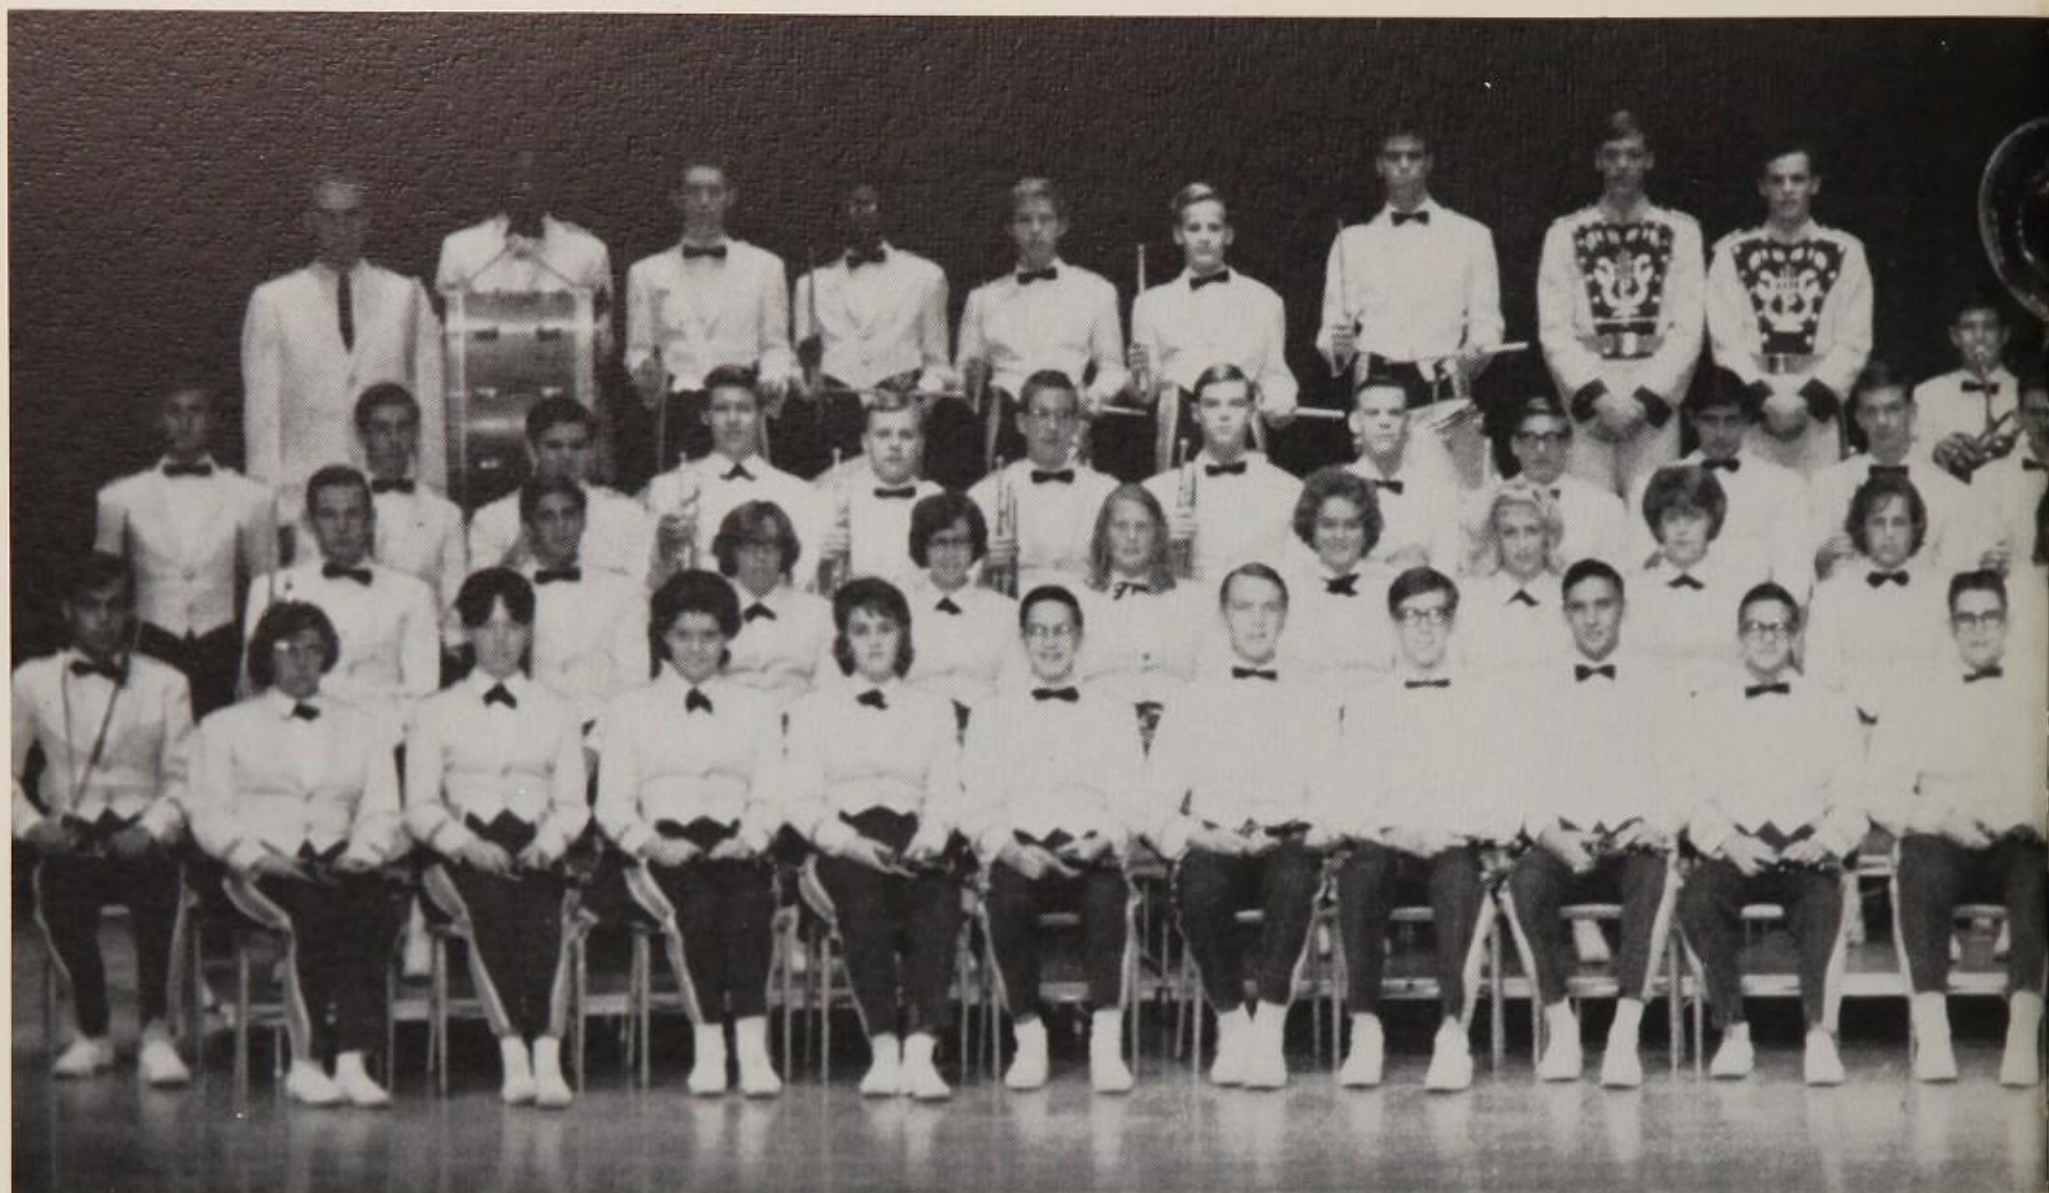

Swirling purple and gold capes and clicking white boots denoted the appearance of Pacific's Drill Team at many half-time performances. Under the watchful eye of Mrs. Mitchell, the Anchorettes marched and counter-marched into intricately patterned formations along with the band and leadership groups. Captains were Margie Cheeley and Pam Divall.

Smartly assembled in the representative shape of their emblem, the Anchorettes formed in practice for perfection of performances at parades and half-time shows.

To the familiar strains of the tune "I Left My Heart in San Francisco," played by the Marching Band, the Drill Team formed a pattern of the Golden Gate Bridge.

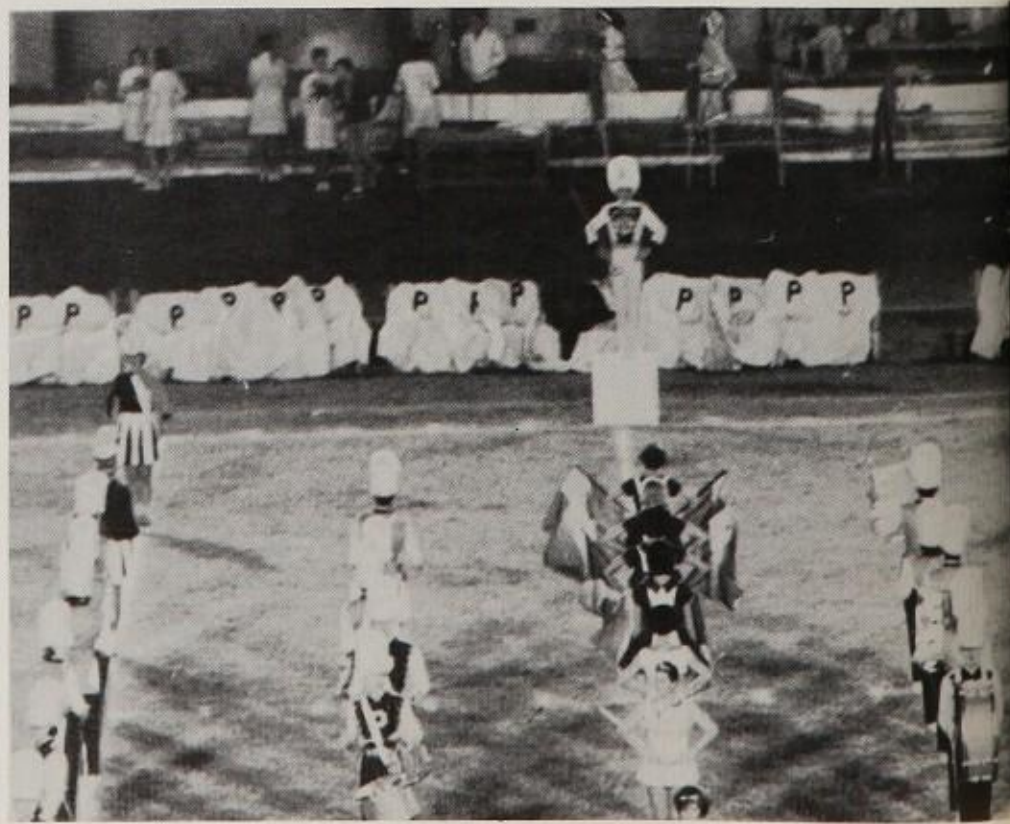

MARCHING MUSICIANS

Providing spirited entertainment during the half-time shows and pep assemblies, Pirate Marching Band, under the leadership of Bob Peterson and Glenn Switzer, also competed in parades.

Informally practicing on the gym roof, the Marching Band prepared for half-time shows for the enjoyment of Pirates.

Directed by Bob Peterson, the band provided entertainment with the assistance of the Drill Team.

Band Members: Aguilar, Anderson, Bankert, Bindner, Booe, Bourassa, Brock, Burton, Casselman, Clark, Cochrane, Crawford, Crowley, Cunningham, Dahms, Davidson, DeLaTorre, Dick, Eastwood, Fleming, Gass, Gatlin, Glasson, Green, Haddock, Hak, Hamilton, Hamlin, Hammond, Hanna, Harbaugh, Hepner, Hickman, Hinson, K. Ickes, R. Ickes, Jackson, Jeffery, Johnston, Kaman-sky, Kane, Kirkendall, Krakow, L. Lewis, M. Lewis, Lundsford, McClaskey, B. McCoy, M. McCoy, McCurdy, McDaniel, McDonald, McKenzie, Meza, Murad, Pease, Perkins, Peterson, Poindexter, Reed, Rich, Rigali, Robbins, Rubenstein, B. Runyon, C. Runyon, Sanchez, Sanders, Santiman, Seeley, Seigal, Shewmaker, Sill, Simkins, F. Sparks, S. Sparks, Stephens, Sullins, Sutherland, Switzer, C. Taylor, K. Taylor, D. Thompson, J. Thompson, Tom, Turner, Turpen, Van Voorhis, Voce, Ward, Wyatt, Yarman, Zamagne.

Intricate half-time presentations by the 96-member Marching Band at the Orange Show Stadium included a charioteer pattern.

Pounding their way through silent halls and empty fields, the Drum Corps lent an unusual flair to Pirate band routines.

BEE CHEERLEADERS

Refreshing in their purple and white pageantry, Bee cheerleaders routed Pacific's "Baby Bucs" to their 1964-65 season victories. Headed by Connie Brunson, Priscilla Matlock, Jan Fulkerson, Gail Dillon, and DeeDee DeRose gave up hours of school fun to practice their cheers and perfect their routines. Assisting Varsity cheerleaders at assemblies, football Homecoming, and the Berdoo game, the Bees, under the direction of Mrs. Alma Wiles, made school spirit soar. With their active team support, the Bees made a noble show for our team.

BEE POM PONS

Bubbling Bee Pom Pons were the epitome of gracefulness for the 1964-65 season. Their becoming purple and white outfits made a patriotic show with a purple skirt and a white vee accenting the bodice. White gloves and pompons completed the ensemble. The perky Poms assisted Varsity and Bee cheerleaders at assemblies and games adding a feminine touch to the rousing routines. Headed by Linda Millard, Karen Johnson, Rosetta Cox, Karen Harrison, and Sherry Perine lead the Bee teams to their 1964-1965 triumphs.

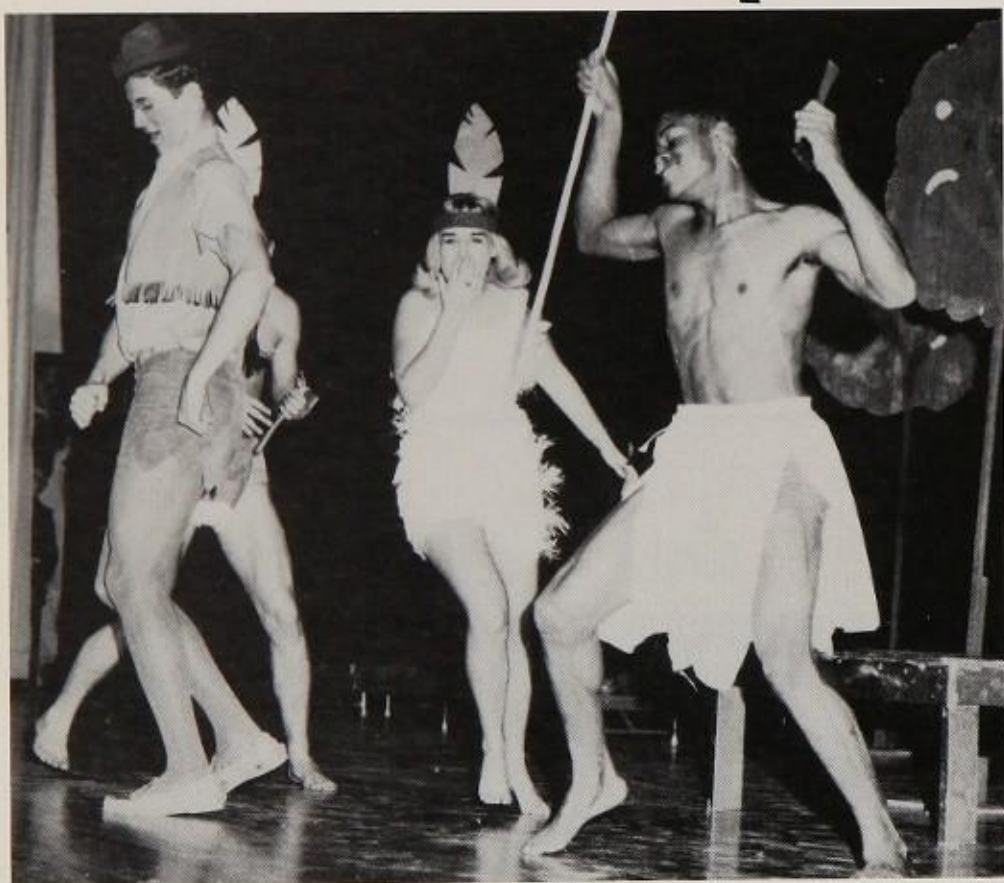

HIGH NOON

Cinema Masterpieces

Providing moments of relaxation away from the hectic pace of Pacific life, the noon movies featured such outstanding celluloid flickers as Gigi, Shane, and Comancheros. Juniors flocked to the showing of Red Badge Of Courage with hopes of augmenting their understanding of that great American classic. Viewing the films in the comfort of Gibbs Auditorium, Pirates sacrificed a portion of their lunch hour and ten cents for the privilege of observing stars such as Leslie Caron, Charlton Heston, and Mickey Shaughnessy.

The Performing Arts

"Fantasy Fairies", fork-fingered pirates and indigenous Indians sang and flew their way through Fun Inc's highlight "Peter Pot". Based on the timeless tale of Never-Never Land, Fun Inc. preferred the more memorable setting of Finkie-Fairie Land. Playing the lead role of Peter Pot, Skip Crapo took credit for writing the entire script. Also starring in the production were Greg Grim as Capt. Fork, Mikie Olson as Liver Lily, Tom Henry as Shmee, Nick Genemares as Juan, Phil Roth as Miguel, and Sue Sterkel as Windex.

Automotive Exhibition

Chairman of Noon Activities, Barry Knotts, working with fellow chairman Duke Watson and Jim Leonard, arranged for the exhibition of many automotive masterpieces in Pacific's quad during the lunch hours. Barry aided the drivers of the Dodge S/FX, super-stock factory experimental machine in their distribution of literature pertaining to the automobile and the other members of the Dodge Charger Racing Team. Other machines exhibited throughout the year included the "Little Red Wagon", the Coyle "Chevy Show", and a Pontiac GTO.

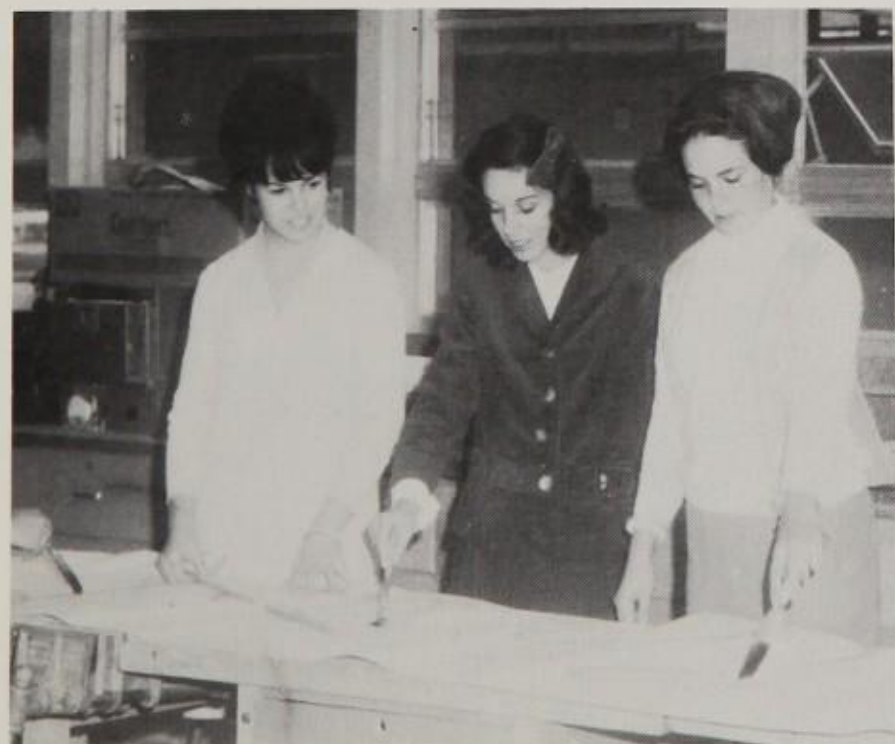

SHIPMATES

Sponsored by Mr. James Brickley and the Pacific Booster Club, Shipmates completed its sixth year at Pacific. Services rendered included the painting of posters and the washing of Booster Club and Linebackers dishes.

Left: Washing dishes for the Booster Club banquet dinners was one of the many duties Shipmates completed throughout its six years at Pacific. Right: Aside from its regular job of washing dishes, Shipmates' members learned the fundamentals of cooking large quantities.

CHRISTMAS: PACIFIC STYLE

"Who can do the job? . . . Super Santa!" Fun Incorporated's production of Super Santa brought screams of laughter and a merry prelude to the holiday season. Other Christmas activities included forum concerts from the orchestra and chorus with direction by Mr. Harry Harbaugh and that jolly fellow, Mr. Jack McCullough. Pirates took a much-appreciated break from their rushed pre-Christmas routines to enjoy with bounding enthusiasm the entertainment offered by Pacific virtuosos.

Pacific's choruses, under the direction of Mr. McCullough, combined with the orchestrational wonders of Mr. Harbaugh and Mr. Pearlman, staged the first large assembly in Gibbs Auditorium. Featuring three soloist, the Democratic Chorus presented a refreshing pause from the traditional carols with many beautiful arrangements. Also included in the program were the favorite compositions, such as "Sleigh Bells," "Cherry Tree Carol," and other familiar selections. The most memorable point in the program was the inspirational narration spoken by that man of words, Mr. Bud Chambers.

Towering above such literary greats as Hawthorne, Dickens, and Longfellow, Mr. Jones' Christmas tree added to the holiday atmosphere. The library decor, inspired and conceived by our leading librarian, induced a restful air for rushed Pirates with soothing carols piped into the athenaeum. After a useful term of decoration, the tree had to be removed as it began to needle students.

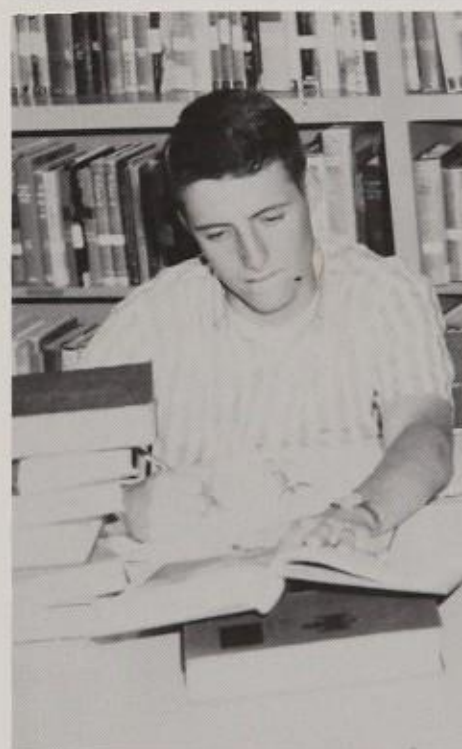

MISTLETOE AND HOLLY

Highlighted by a special appearance of Santa Claus, better known to most students as Dave Green, the Crystal Ball proved to be one of the gayest dances of the year. Following the theme "Mistletoe and Holly," a candy cane lane served as the entrance, while crepe paper streamers, a Christmas tree and an inviting fireplace transformed the cafeteria to the enlivened holiday mood of the evening.

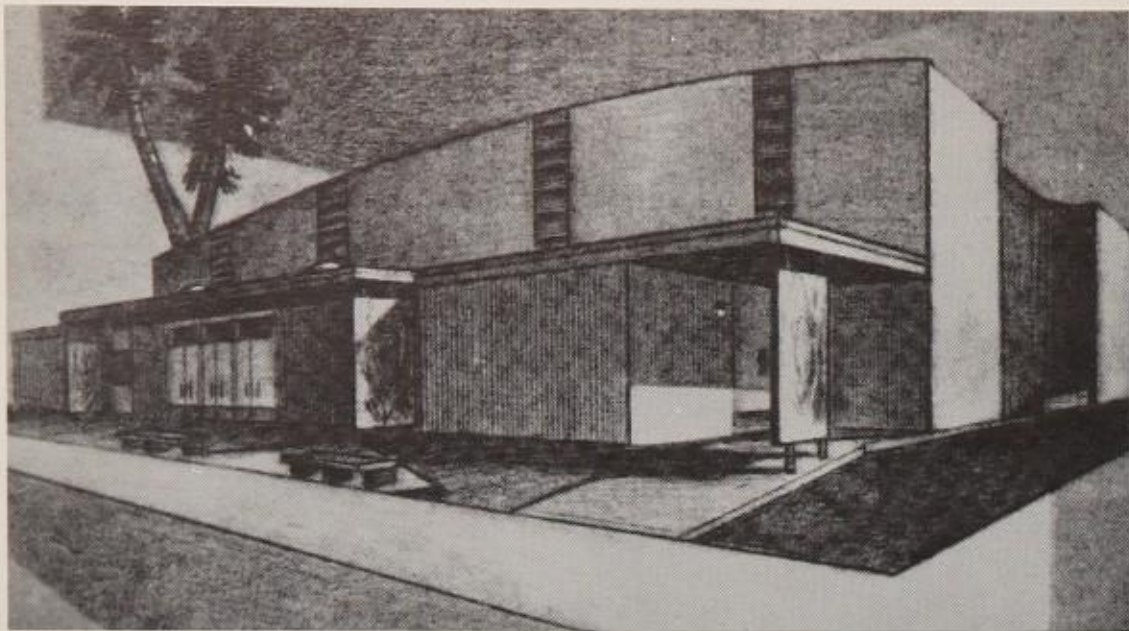

FINALLY . . . VACATIONS

. . . while visions of ski trails danced in their heads

Sighs of relief and anticipated pleasures filled the air as Pirates prepared to while away their time during Christmas Vacation. Hours of capering over snow-covered cornices passed the time and broke the legs of some, while others toiled in local establishments and hoped that there might still be snow for Easter. The learning process could not be ignored during the festive season, and term papers and RETURN OF THE NATIVE demanded intense concentration. Family reunions and journeys interrupted the solitude and relaxation of several Pacificans.

GIBBS

Outstanding with its contoured brick walls, sound-resistant panelled partitions, trophy case, and concave skylights, the most modern facility on Pacific's campus accommodated lecture social science classes, drama groups, forums, plays, and assemblies. With a seating capacity of nine hundred ninety-nine students, the Auditorium easily converted into three spacious classrooms for use by the three key teachers, Robert Letro, Edward Wheeler, William Miller.

Artistically reproducing Pacific's new auditorium in a print, Al Davis designed the dedication invitations. Pirate classes monopolized the auditorium following the ceremony in honor of Mrs. Elsie Gibbs. Using a room hidden behind the stage, the Drama classes met to rehearse their forthcoming plays. Purchasing their tickets at one of the two ticket windows, Pacificans enjoyed watching many of their favorite movies. Honors garnered by Pacific filled the display case.

AUDITORIUM

Opening its doors to class use late in November, the auditorium rated as first of its kind in California. Equivalent to thirty classrooms, the building's plan and arrangement resembled a famous Swedish music hall. Outstanding for high school musical presentations, the auditorium contained a wide sweeping stage that tended to bring the audience and the performers together. Classes scheduled to use the instructional facilities of the building had enrollments of one hundred students.

Breaking ground mid-year in 1964, the auditorium served classes by the spring semester of 1965. Silhouetted against pig iron rods, Pacific's palm trees loomed large in the western sky. When actual construction began, the building seemed to grow overnight, providing much needed space. During daily expeditions to the top of "scenic" Perris Hill, physical education classes scrutinized the construction progress of the Armstrong, Williams, Williams and Clark-designed auditorium.

BASKETBALL HOMECOMING

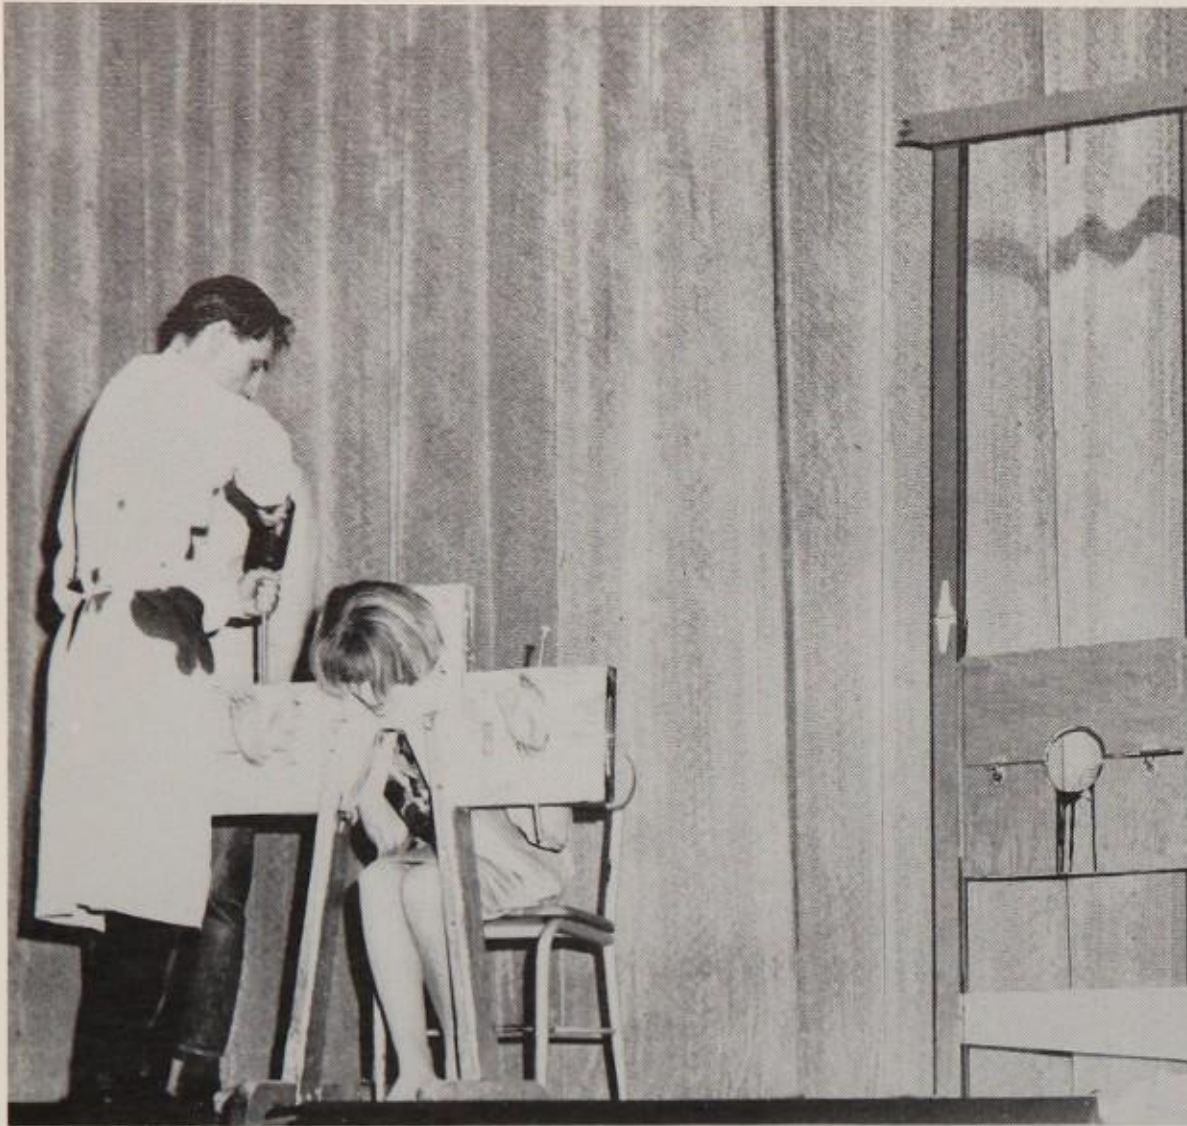

Captain's Ball

Regal in her blue velvet and white pique gown, Basketball Homecoming Queen for 1965, Suzanne Jones, received her crown and bouquet while the Court, Senior Princesses Collette Davis and Linda Swan, Junior Darling Judy Shaffer, and Sophomore Darling Julie Cline watched the coronation of Her Highness. With "Captain's Ball" serving as the theme of the game and dance, the Drill Team performed several special routines during half-time.

1965 Basketball Homecoming Queen

Jeffery Eden clasped an unwilling Pirate volunteer in the Puritan stocks, a famous form of punishment, during his presentation of "Moments of Madness."

SAMPLING OF SORCERY

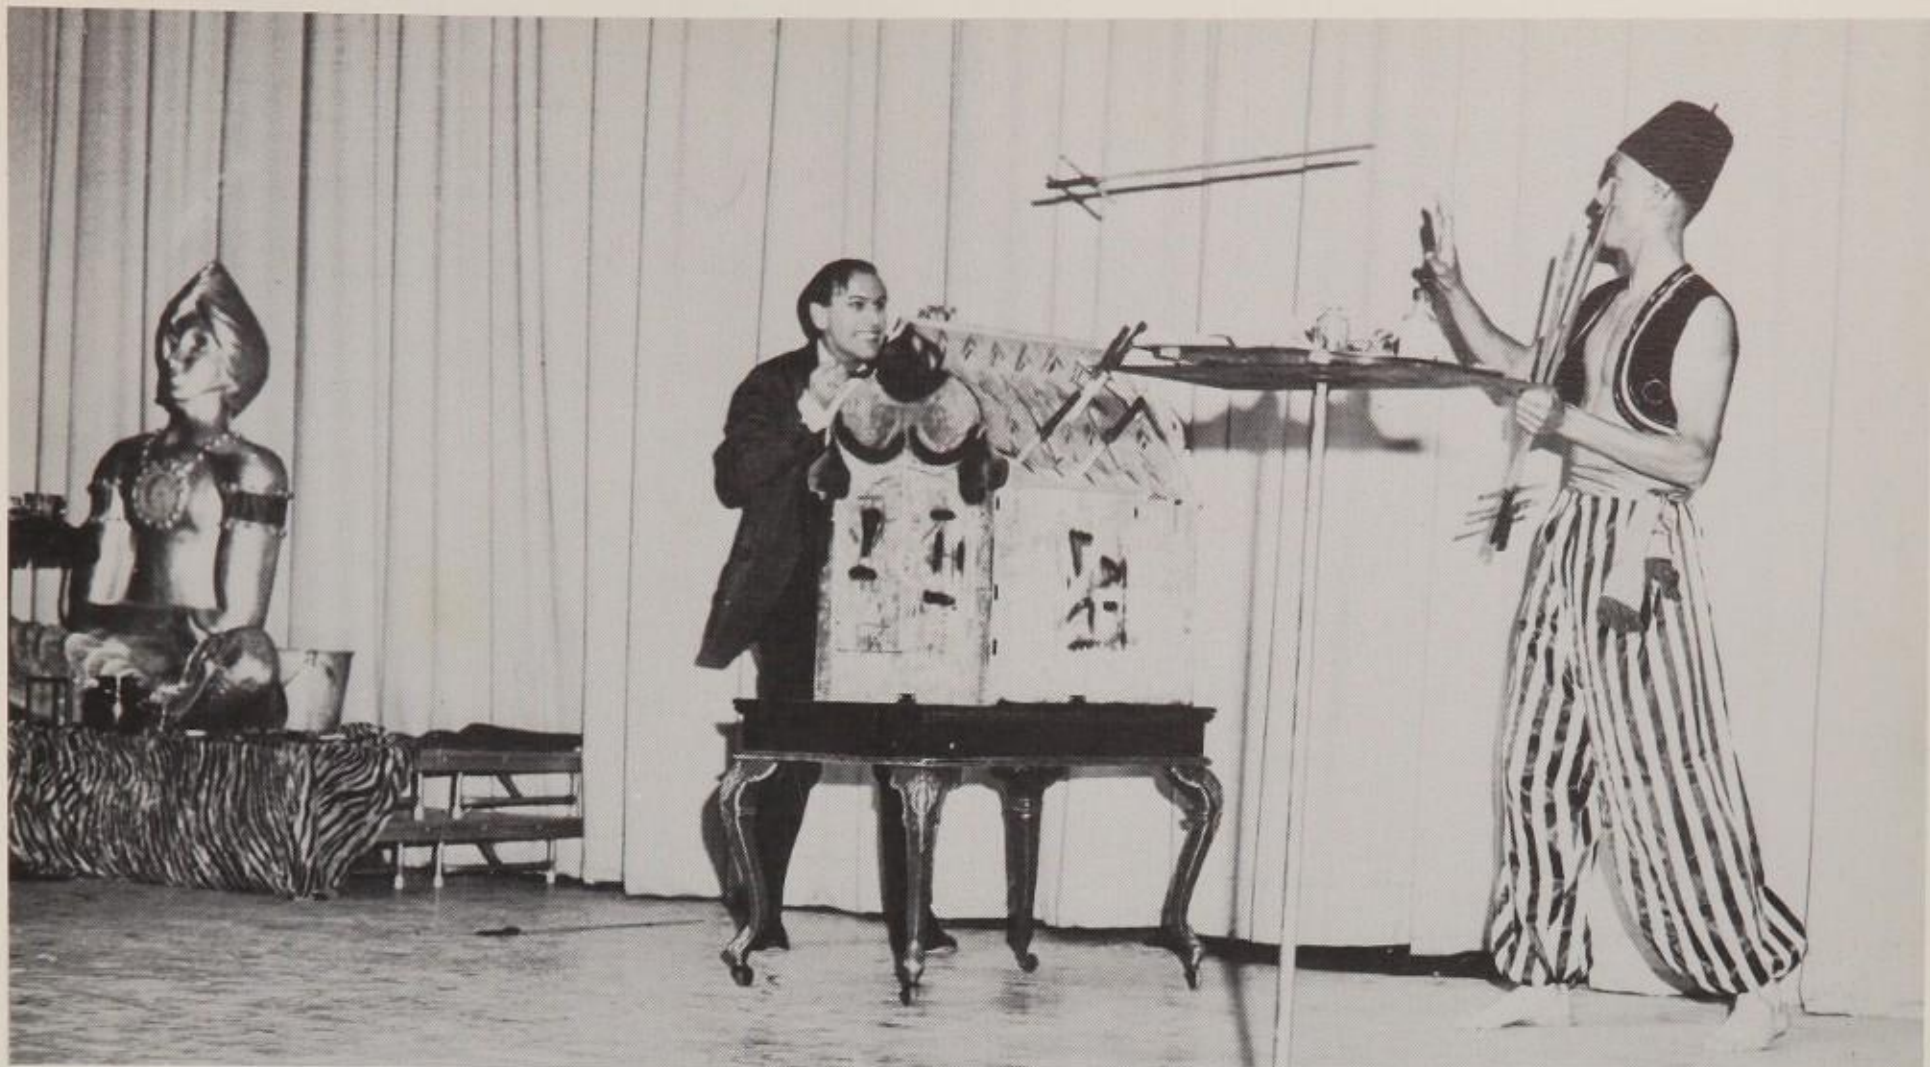

As the curtain rose and the lights dimmed, Pacifics auditorium was transformed into a mystical world of magic spells and sorcery. Jeffery Eden's "Moments of Madness" captivated its audiences at both the afternoon and the evening performances. The program was made doubly interesting by the eager participation of Eddie Parker, Collette Davis, John Cover, and members of Student Council.

Anxiously anticipating the A.S.B. elections, prospective candidates carefully read the lists of qualifications and duties.

After filing petitions, Florie Frisch and Gary Snedcor took out paints and brushes and got to work on campaign posters.

Jeffery Eden's "Moments of Madness" fascinated the enthusiastic students of Pacific and guests while demonstrating the unique art of magic. Intriguing stunts such as successfully attempting to saw people in half also astonished the audience.

ASB ASPIRANTS

Hopeful of gaining one of the fifteen elected Associated Student Body positions, Juniors rushed to bulletin boards to read the multitudinous amounts of mimeographed information. The future student leaders of Pacific carefully checked qualifications, completed the necessary petition, and lent their aesthetic talents to the painting of rousing campaign posters.

Eager A.S.B. office seekers listened as Bill Leonard outlined campaign procedure and the responsibilities of holding an office on Student Council.

1965 Wrestling Sweetheart

Climaxing the Homecoming Ceremony, Charley Washburn and Jim Deffenbaugh crowned Sheri McMillan Wrestling Sweetheart of 1965. Queen Sheri's court included first princess, Kathy Brazier, a junior; second princess, Collette Davis, a senior; third princess, Sherry Teel, a senior; and fourth princess, Janis Liles, a senior.

WRESTLING HOMECOMING

Queen's Coronation

Highlighting its successful season, the wrestling team chose Sheri McMillan as its Homecoming Sweetheart. Radiantly reigning, Sheri and her princesses excitedly observed the victorious match between the Pirates and the Romona Rams. Presented with a spray of long-stemmed roses, Queen Sheri also received the royal scepter and crown, while the court princesses accepted nose-gays of red and white carnations.

Scalloped white lace and a yellow sash added to the beauty of Dee Millett's formal, while Kathy Adams' taffeta gown, over-skirted with white lace, completed the theme.

Escorted by senior Terry Miller, Laurel Callahan modeled a pink formal.

Posing on the runway after the show, thirteen senior members of Lehis and their escorts gave one final "big smile now" for Pacificana photographer.

LEHIS' FASHION PREVIEW

Parading down the ramp in the latest styles and colors

Modeling the latest in Prom Fashions, the seniors of Lehis presented their annual style show. Sponsored by the Harris Company, the girls received modeling hints from Aggie Turanian, who narrated the assembly. Pastels of blue, green, pink, and yellow, plus some dazzling prints pleasantly surprised the audience. Behind the scenes, Mrs. Evelyn Evans and the junior members of the club helped the models into their gowns, while Chris Bailey offered assistance to the escorts. Jane Sill, the President, was crowned "Campus Queen."

SKETCHBOARD TO SCRAPBOOK

After numerous hours of debating and planning, the Junior Prom Committee finally began the transformation of the gymnasium into an Arabian Casbah. Decorations consisted of multi-colored drapes and cave-like vestibules which contributed to the effectiveness of the desert theme and gala affair.

Artistically inclined, Junior art student Bruce Richards received the esteemed task of creating the Arabian prom ticket.

Prom Committee members spent extra time after school to plan and decorate our school gym for the Junior-Senior Prom.

Scrapbooks, filed with pages of the numerous souvenirs that Pirates eagerly collected from the Junior-Senior Prom, aided the students in the remembrance of the formal affair.

While Bruce Richards intricately designed the Prom ticket representing the Arabian Knights theme, Denny Garlock and Allan Thomason diligently worked to complete the decorations.

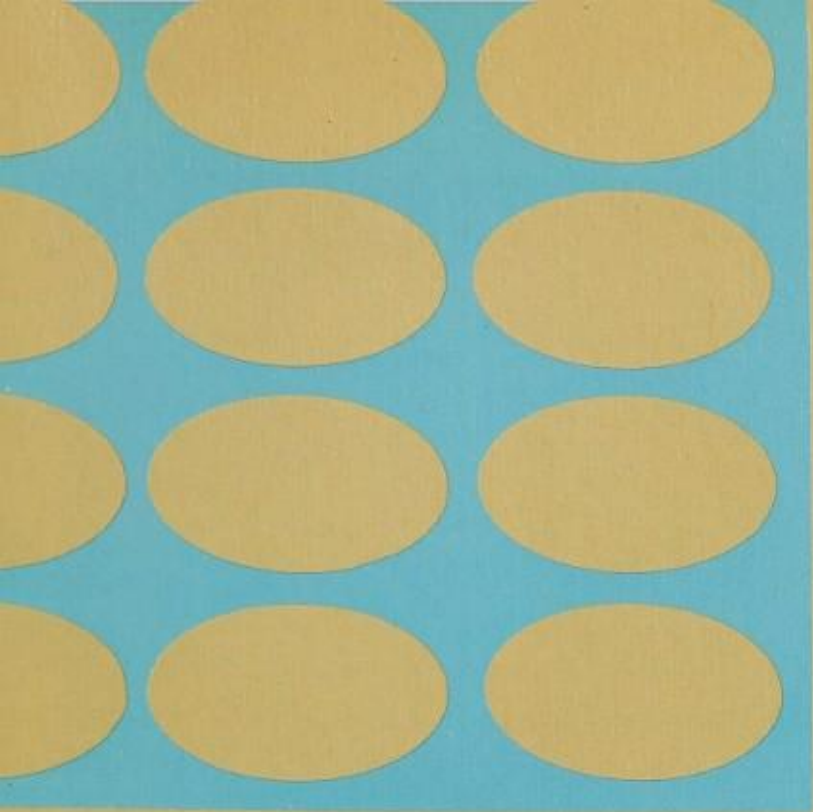

Draped with rich velvet curtains, Pacific's gym was transformed into a Sultan's Casbah by the industrious Junior Class. Under the direction of Mr. Fotia, the Prom Committee spent many laborious hours recreating the delicate beauties and long-ago enchantments of Ali Baba's Arabia. After the weeks spent in organization and decoration it seems like only minutes before our industrious juniors are faced with push brooms and dust pans.

JUNIORS

Junior Class

"Class of '66 retained many memories of an eventful year. Beginning with $900 in the treasury, the juniors more than doubled their earnings with a magazine drive and the Junior Class Bake Sale. The Exciting inter-class basketball games raised class spirit to new heights. The junior breakfast and rally unified the class as never before. Climaxing the year's activities, the junior class put on the best Junior-Senior Prom in Pacific's history only to prove that they were 'first class all the way'."

Dave Wyatt

Responsibilities for Dave Wyatt included taking "C" English, holding the office of vice-president in Key Club, and heading various fund raising projects. Enjoying football games, Dave rarely missed a chance to see Pacific in action. Class presidency enabled Dave to actively represent the junior class on Student Council. With all his activities, Dave, able to keep his grades at a maximum, remained a staunch leader of the junior class.

Combining efforts, head sponsor Mr. Herran, sponsor Mrs. Marsh, president Dave Wyatt, sponsor Mrs. Eisenhart, treasurer Bob Pfeiffer, secretary Rita Co-Francisco and vice-president Kathy Brazier worked to make the juniors first class all the way.

Among her duties, Kathy Brazier headed the phone committee. Magazines sold by George Tribble raised class funds.

Secretary Rita Co-Francisco took and copied the minutes. At the junior bake sale, Vicki Estes sold cake and coffee.

Money handling, a favorite for treasurer Bob Pfeiffer. Making decorations, Bob Boyer helped his class.

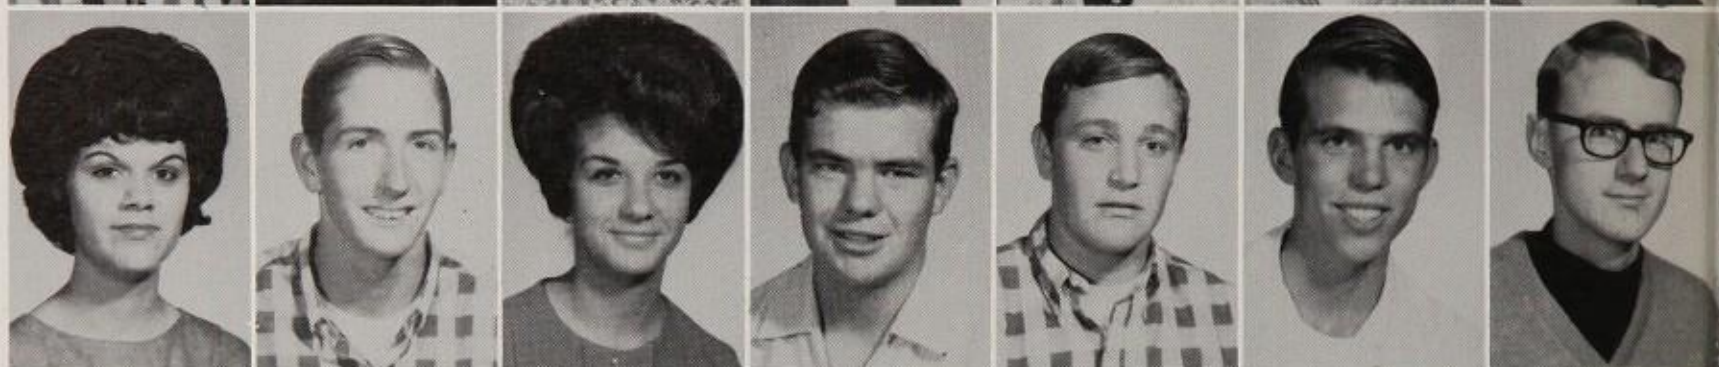

With guidance and cooperation, sponsors, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Eisenhart, and Mr. Herran worked with the juniors.

Social Council

Starting in their sophomore year, the juniors continued to meet twice a month forming the Junior Social Council. Juniors meeting on Thursday night planned the activities of the junior class, including the junior class cake sale, the magazine drive, and the Prom. President Dave Wyatt supervised and directed the meetings. Sponsored by Mr. Herren, these gatherings united the juniors into a close-knit, hard-working organization.

P.S.A.T. Testing

Juniors prepared for the future by taking Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Tests. These tests were administered at Pacific on October 24. College bound juniors found the PSAT tests an insight to the Scholastic Aptitude tests which are required for college. Consisting of one part verbal testing and the other part mathematics the PSAT tests aided hopeful scholarship applicants by preparing them for future testing.

Concluding in success, the juniors joined in the "quad" to celebrate their eventful evening by devouring the remainder of the cake and punch. For once, being on the clean-up committee was not an unpleasant task but axiomatically a filling one.

Annual Back-to-School night cake sale proved to be a financial boom to the juniors. Cake selling was one of the fund raising projects promoted by the juniors to add to their Prom Fund objective. With the efforts of the U.S. History teachers and their promise not to eat the cakes and pies, the November sale netted some nine hundred dollars.

With precision and determination, Dave Wyatt assisted Rita Cofrancisco and Vicke Estes with their cake baking.

JUNIOR CLASS BAKE SALE

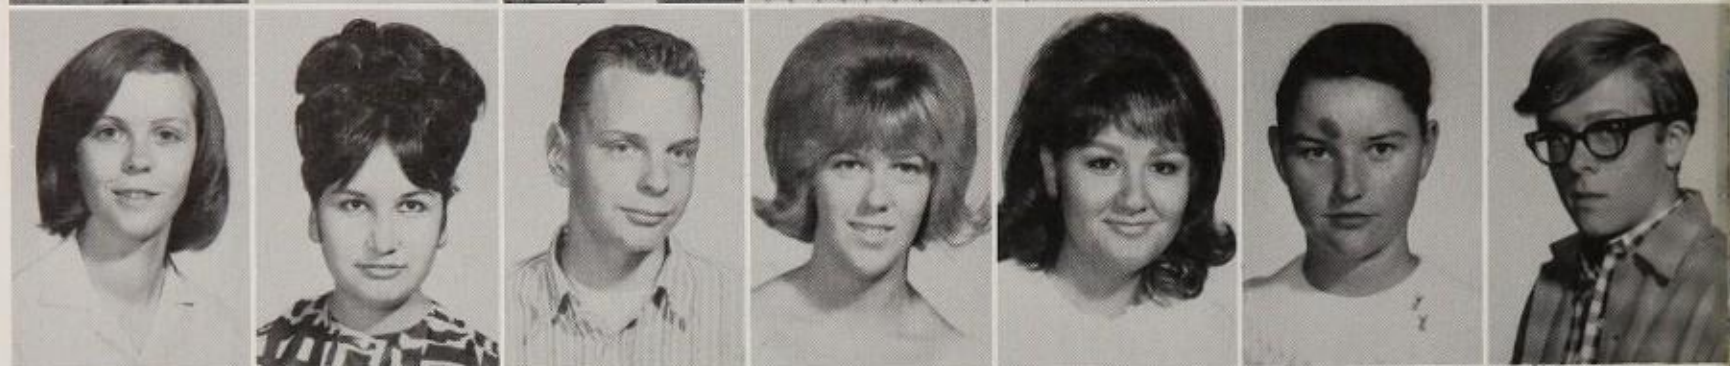

Leaving the junior class richer and the "quad" in an obviously disheveled condition the bake sale terminated.

Early in the year, juniors sold magazine subscriptions to acquire funds for the Junior-Senior Prom. John Diest, representative from the Curtis Company, gave the juniors a selling pitch. With top prizes offered to the person who promoted the most subscriptions, the juniors added $530 to their class treasury.

Spearheaded by the hard-working junior class officer George Tribble, juniors sold 900 magazine subscriptions. Class-mates were required to sell at a minimum of one subscription to be put on the Prom Committees at the end of the year. Sales started on October 5 and ended an active sale on October 19.

Totally undecided, Joan Kilgore found it difficult to choose coordinating material for this all-important occasion.

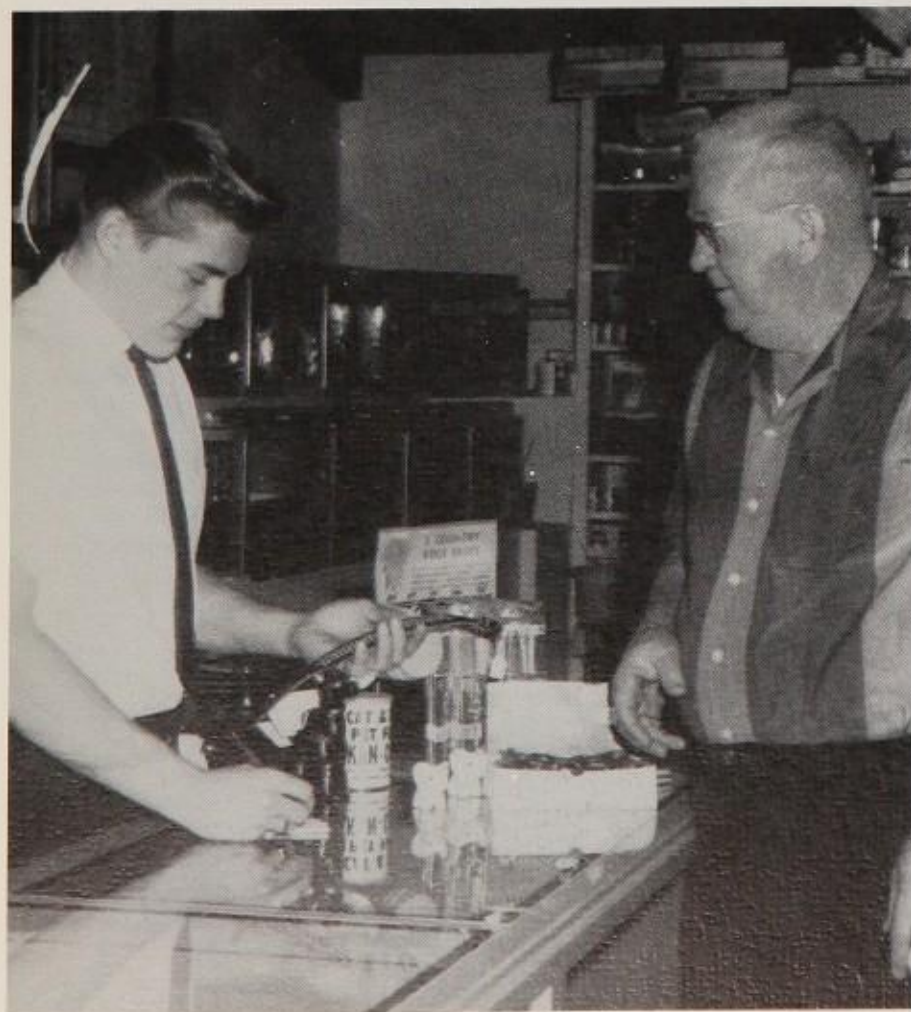

After persistent sewing and hours of determination, Joan brightened as completion of her gown grew near.

Arabian Night Draws Nigh

Concentrated effort as a salesman provided the needed funds for Scott Dyer to take Joan Kilgore to the Prom.

Scott began the laborious job of washing his car so that it would be spotless for the evening's events.

65's PROM

In her perfectly planned schedule, Joan left ample time for last-minute preparations.

Always the highlight of the school year, the Junior-Senior Prom once again afforded a beautiful and enchanting evening for all those in attendance. Several times during the year, juniors participated in clean campus, fund raising activities, and various jobs to make themselves eligible for planning and decorating for the anticipated event. All their effort and ideas culminated in a successful, romantic night to which out-going seniors could look back with happy memories. Below, Scott and Joan looked forward to an enjoyable time at their first Prom, an occasion exceeding all expectations.

Most important on Scott's itinerary for the afternoon was selecting a corsage for Joan.

USEFUL TRAINEES

Contemplating the usefulness of eager juniors on the Pacificana staff, Dennis Martin assigned Janet Schweitzer to the senior section. Drawing layouts and cropping pictures gave juniors needed experience which led to the finished product. The staff for 1965-66 awaited the selection of the new Editor-in-Chief.

Taking excruciating pains to maintain the cleanliness of Pacific's campus, juniors Kirk Hedley, Amanda Dulion, and John Schmidt gathered scattered debris from tables about the quad, while Gary Snidecor deviated and gathered Glenda Sipma.

TRADITIONS

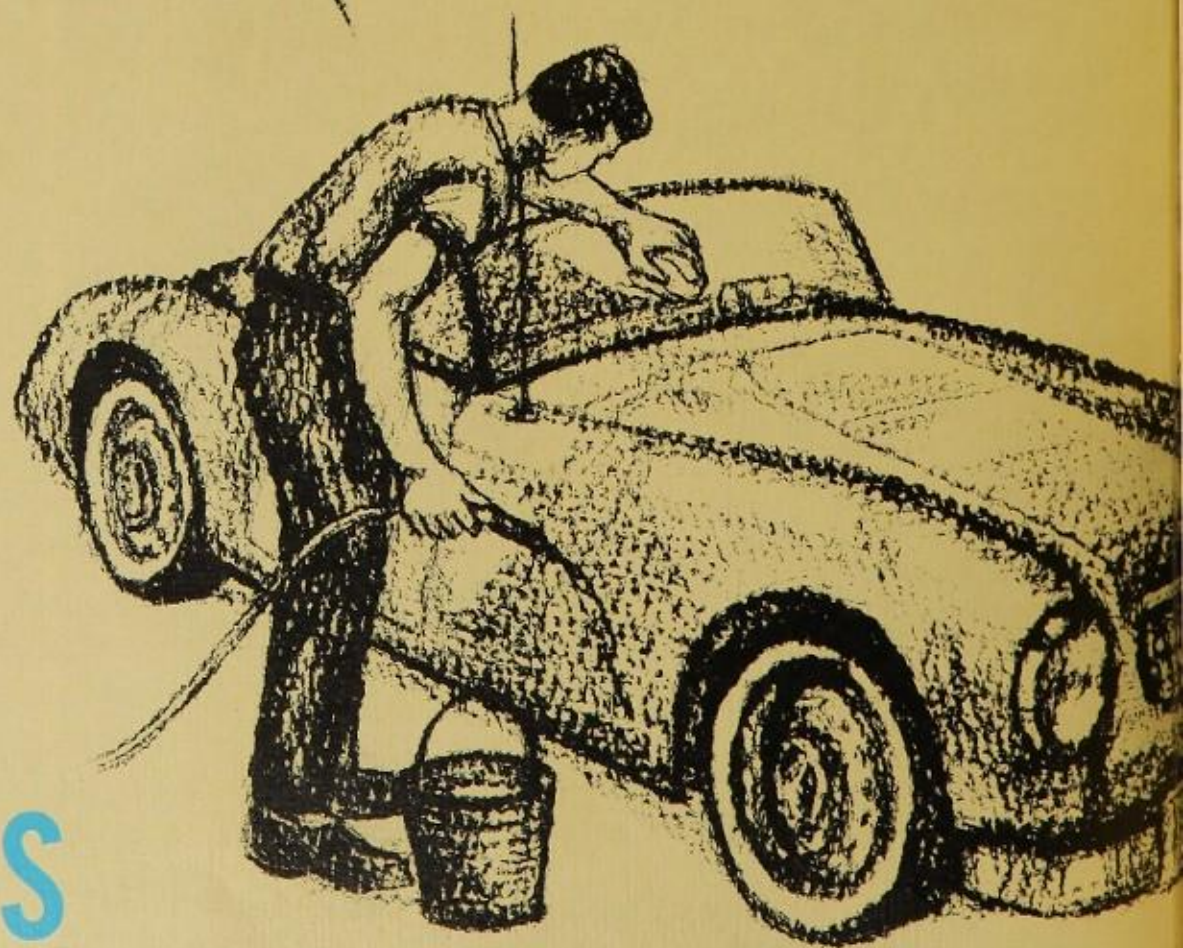

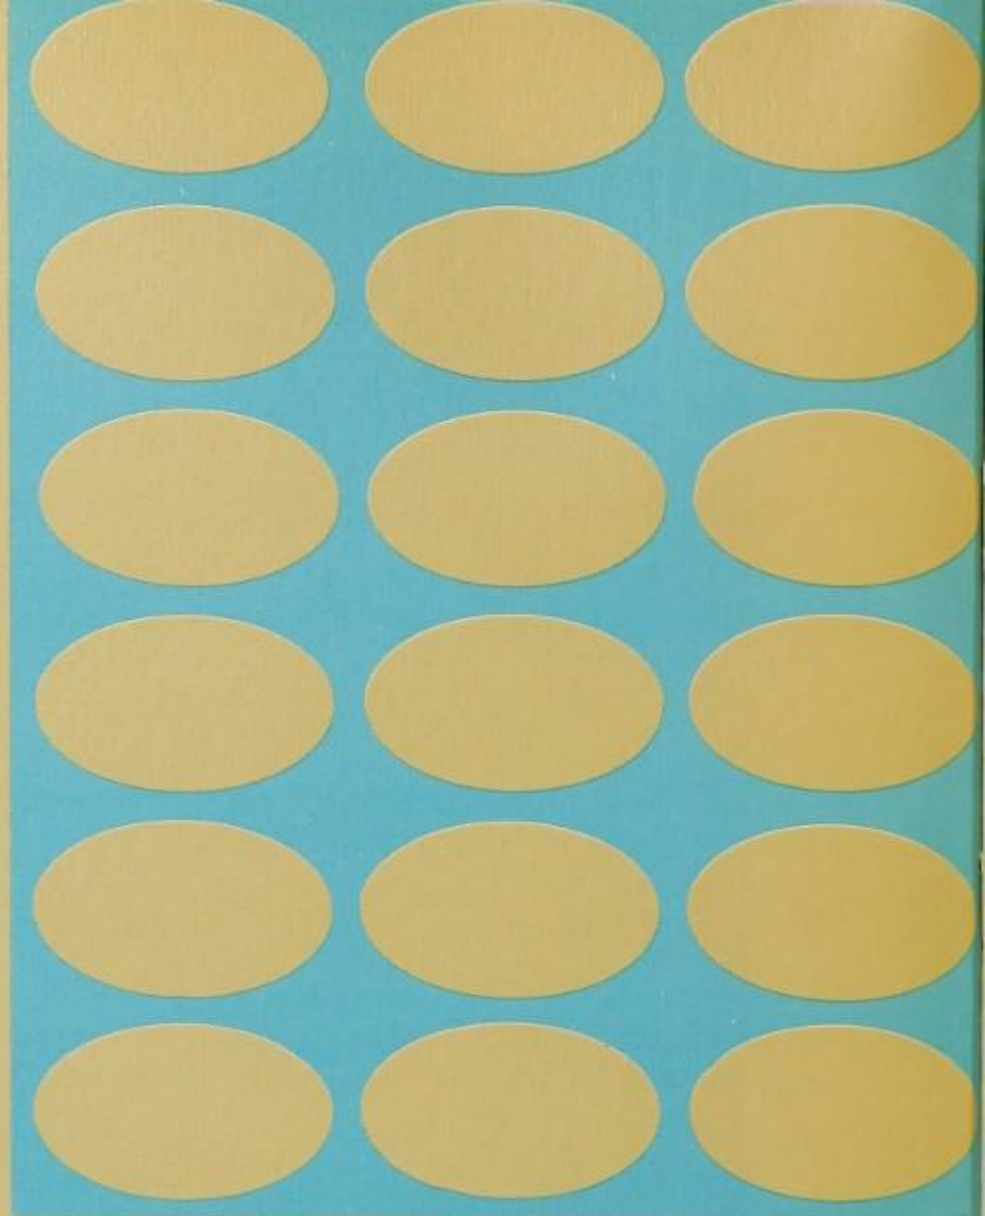

Class rings symbolized the advancement of Juniors to Seniors

Traditionally, class rings symbolized the advancement of juniors to seniors. Jewelry in a variety of sizes and colors was offered to potential buyers early in the fall. Pacific's school emblem, a sailing ship, rested atop a black or purple stone. For those who preferred a less patriotic background, white pearl or gold composed an elegant setting. Most of the girls seemed partial to the smaller sizes, while the boys generally decided upon the largest, often measuring knuckle-to-knuckle. However, shortly after the arrival of the purchases in spring, rings changed hands with the promise of going steady. Until graduation night, underclassmen wore their rings upside down. At the designated time, senior boys turned junior coeds' rings, and sent them on a new and challenging adventure, their senior year.

As the precedented tradition approached, students looked forward to buying their class rings. Juniors gazed into the future to their exciting senior year. For all it meant rings would be turned and juniors would become seniors.

Representing the clubs which most actively participated in Pacific High School Activities, thirty-three members attended the ICC meetings to relate their club functions. Row 1, left to right: Holly Hammaker, Jane Sill, Susie Wedell, Suzanne Susan, Ida Hardman, Cynthia Chavez, Christine Harteman, Connie Morrison. Row 2, left to right: Jennifer Boisvert, Shirley Wirkus, Ken Mauer, Geri Byer, Jim Barbuto, Jean Pfieffer, Dennis Hamels, Jim Anway, Barry Knotts, Mike Williams, Robert McCoy. Row 3, left to right: Thomas Powell, Neil Thomason, Heidi Hammond, Robert Davis, Cathy Taylor, Wilma Mitchell, Linda Holden, Chester Matwich, Skip Crapo, Terry Miller, Dave Brown, Cathy Wright, Gay Henderson.

Coordinating and advising ICC during his third year at Pacific, Mr. Pfieffer, although perpetually involved with problems and responsibilities, found time to spend countless hours aiding in the revision of the new ICC Constitution.

INTER CLUB COUNCIL

Expanding to include seventy-four clubs, Pacific High School's Inter-Club Council met the fourth Friday of each month in the teacher's cafeteria. Members present discussed projects for the coming month including clean campus, patents on selling food, and correct procedures for taking in new members. Last year eight presidents contributed many hours of their extra time working with Mr. Pfieffer to revise and bring up to date the eleven-year-old ICC constitution. Honor, social service, and special interest organizations formed the council. Honor societies required a "B" grade average or higher and teacher recommendation. Social service clubs rendered thousands of hours for school and community service, fund-raising, and fun-loving activities. Field trips and lectures from distinguished speakers were enjoyed by the special interest groups. Throughout the year selling popcorn balls, brownies, fudge, lollipops, and candy canes characterized the efforts by students to expand their club treasuries.

Forensic Parley

Nuclear weapons, a common topic for debate, gave N.F.L. members a chance to enumerate on present-day problems. Various honors were bestowed on the club as it won several debate matches.

Geri Byer, Judy Dawson, Ed Parker, Steve Smith, Mike Cochrane, Steve Crane, Fred Shobert, Frank Mendarco, Mrs. Kitty Peeling

Dining with oration

Attending a banquet at the San Franciscan, Quill and Scroll members listened to their guest speaker's description of publication life. Honorary membership was open to Pacificana and Hi Tide staffs.

Campus Wits

Inspired in Pacific's hall of learning, C.S.F. members demonstrated the gusto with which they "hit the books." Many long hours of concentration were demanded of these potential seal bearers.

Original Skits induced laughter at club events

Presenting their traditional forum in a jocose manner, members of Balboa del Pacifico, Jan Roberts and Donna Disharoon, beguiled and amused Spanish students with their version of "Macbeth."

The annual Faculty Feed offered delightful diversion to both members of the faculty and Sobobans as Laurel Rest and Robin Swant gave their interpretation of the problems of their mystery guest.

HONOR SOCIETIES

Requirements for membership in PHS honor clubs included a grade average of "B" or better and faculty recommendations. Particular prerequisite varied for each club. Sobobans and "Z" clubs, the two girls' honor clubs, stipulated that the girls must have achieved some recognition in community and school service, leadership, church affiliations, and outstanding individual achievement. Concerned with scholastic standards, membership in California

Scholarship Federation and National Honor Society entitled qualified students to graduate with gold tassels and scholarships. Invitation to Balboa del Pacifico required an "A" in Spanish and Sr. Winsor's approval. Members of Pacificana or Hi-Tide staffs and anybody with outstanding accomplishments in journalism qualified for Quill and Scroll and outstanding speech enthusiasts composed NFL.

Constructing the Float

Staggering, red-eyed Mutineers banged together their half-completed float. Barely resembling the finished product, the framework consisted of wire, lumber and luck.

First Place Winner

Combating weariness during their constructive tasks, untiring enthusiasm and cooperation from industrious Mutineers contributed to the first place winner.

The Great Pyramid

Carrying out an Egyptian theme, tremendous amounts of napkins became a pyramid and a mummy case. Hi-Tri girls spent long hours cleverly planning and building the float.

Egyptian Barge

Countless hours of work, plus napkins, chicken wire, and sore fingers enabled Neptunes Pirates to carry out a colorful theme on sea life by creating an Egyptian barge.

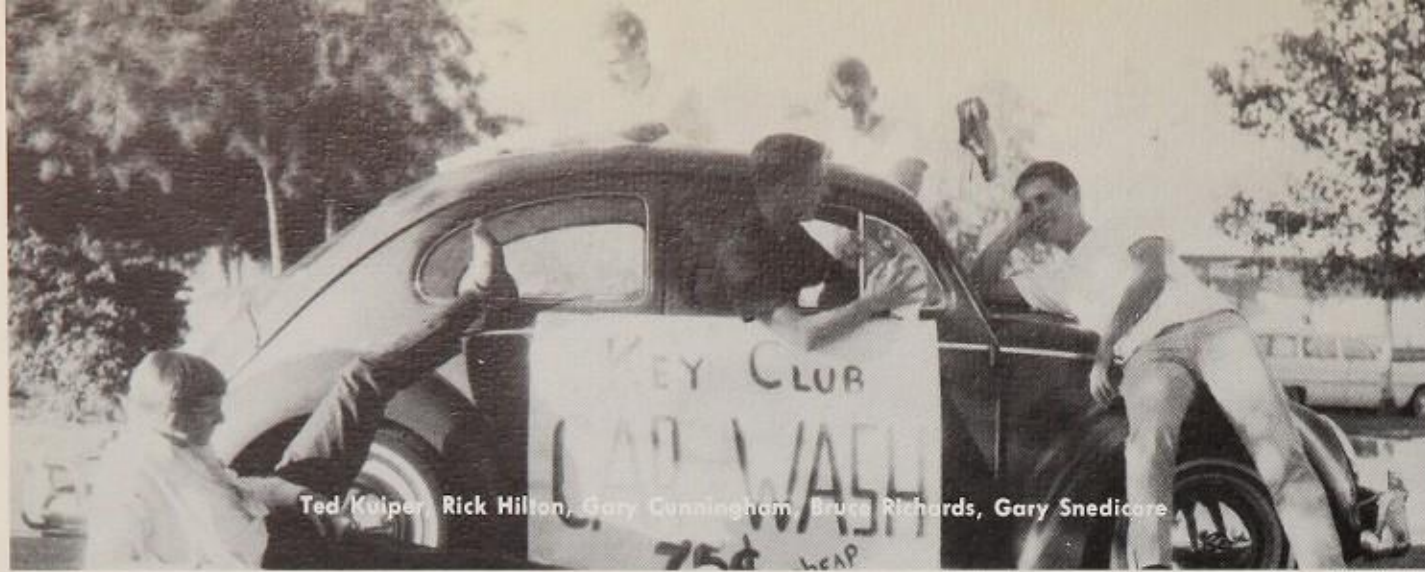

Extolling its greatest football season in Pacific's twelve year history, the 1964 homecoming floats exposed the ingenuity of many Pacificans. Using an Egyptian theme, fifteen clubs vied for the sweepstakes trophy. Lehis won sweepstakes for its second year; The Mutineers' sphynx held first place; Sobobans' barge obtained second, and Hi-Tri's pyramid came in third.

SOCIAL SERVICE CLUBS

Encouraging friendships and infinite opportunities for community and school service, social-service groups composed one-third of Pacific's ICC. Prospective members were accepted into a club according to their participation in school and community activities.

Staying in a club required a "C" average and a set amount of service hours for club projects, helping around school, and community organizations. Preparing Thanksgiving baskets, working for clean campus, washing cars, and raising money for charities illustrated a few of the service clubs' activities.

'65 CLUB FESTIVITIES

Formal dances livened club activities

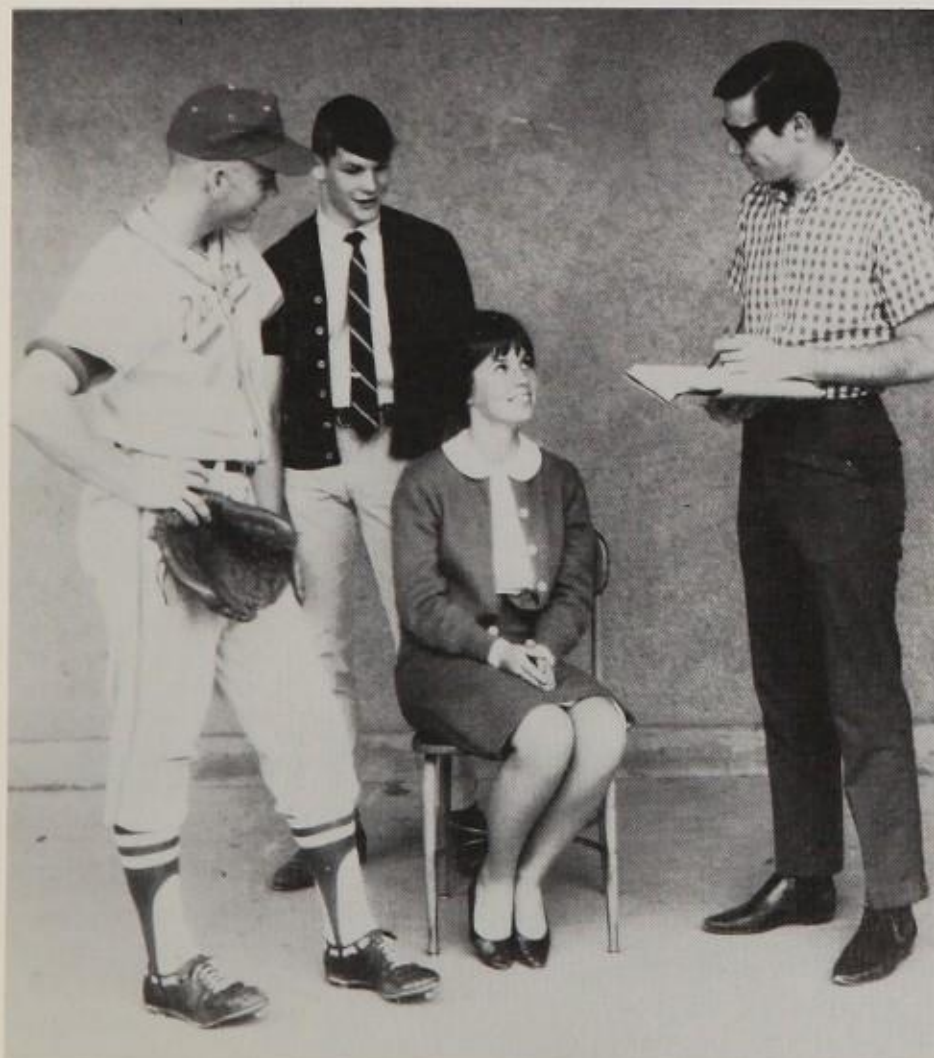

Highlighting the year's activities were the various dances held by P.H.S. clubs. Many time-consuming efforts were contributed by club members to guarantee the success of the gala affairs. Large bands and luscious refreshments, along with elegant decorations and original invitations, characterized the memorable dates. Giving the girls a chance to ask their special beaux, Dantes' Golden Ball and Hi Tri's Night In Vegas Dance combined dining and dancing with amusing entertainment. Mardi Gras festivities livened as the queen was crowned and couples anticipated the costume ball.

Night in Vegas

Mardi Gras

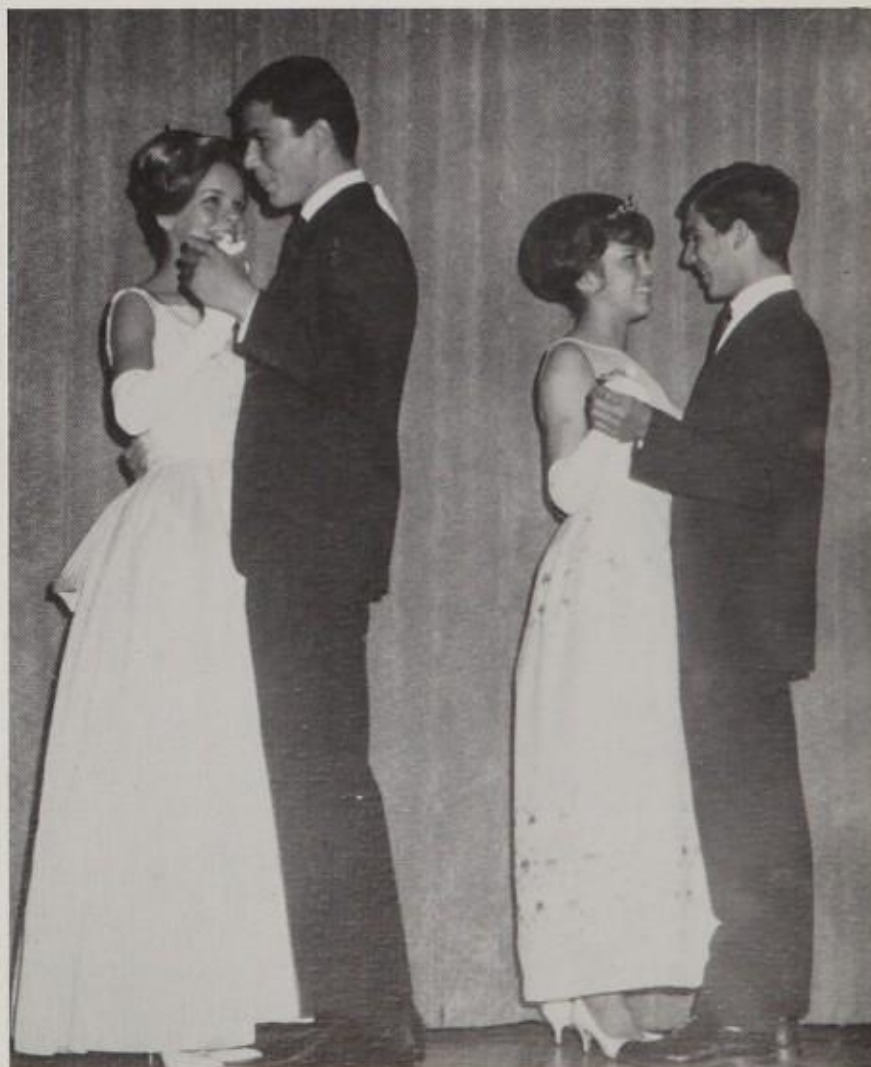

Golden Ball

Athlete, Student Leader, or Scholar? Planning to attend the Dantes' Golden Ball, President Gay Henderson met with an unusual problem of selecting her escort for the memorable evening from the substantial stock which Pacific High had to offer.

Decorating for the Night in Vegas Dance called for informal dress and boundless energy as Gail Lott and Holly Hamaker deliberated on the decorations for the Wedding Chapel.

Pirate merriment

1) Collecting his part of the bargain, Terry Miller bowed gracefully to receive his due, while the other members counted their winnings. 2) Girl's League's Tote-A-Book Day provided the boys with another way of aggravating their female counterparts.

Red Cross members devoted time and talents to community service projects.

Counting the gains from their charity drive, Miss Jones, Sponsor, Tom Powell, President, and Carol Wood, Secretary contemplated on the future use of these contributions. A relatively new organization, Red Cross's influence was felt by both the campus and the community.

Planning for a teacher's career

Meetings and discussions of Rho Delta Chi members helped them to decide their ambitions in a teaching profession. Club participants often deliberated on problems of classroom instruction.

SPECIAL INTEREST CLUBS

Pacific's special interest clubs, composed of students with a mutual ambition, pooled their talents to enrich campus life by having full agendas which resulted in colorful and amusing memories. Math Club enthusiasts successfully organized the Math Marathon. Les Amites

AMATEUR RADIO

As acting became their forte, Thespians spent long hours working to perfect their talents. Four plays throughout the year proved to be successful for the club because of superb acting and hard work. Profits went to student body funds.

Problems of overexposure, shortage of supplies, and broken camera parts did not hinder members of Photo Production. Taking, developing, and printing pictures became challenging and interesting as photo students became camera experts.

Sophomore Class

"Our life as sophomores officially started with Orientation Day. We soon became familiar with campus traditions as beanies were placed on our heads. Our first class project, the hootenanny, proved to be such a success that we engaged in other fund-raising projects such as our inter-class breakfast-basketball game and the sale of toothbrushes. The money raised will go towards next year's Prom. We the class of '67 traditionally became juniors fulfilling another successful year."

Milton Clark

Working with the sophomores, sponsors: head, Mayo, McCoy, Coplin, and Gonzales, helped with various projects.

Replacing the president, Julie Cline called for order. During interclass basketball Glen Mason checked the rules.

Secretary Robin Casselman typed sophomore bulletins. Industrious Jaci Erickson sold hootenanny tickets.

Adding class funds, Joni Crisp proved an asset. Making money for his class, Ron Lewis sold toothbrushes.

REQUIREMENTS

"Merchant of Venice"

Completing a unit on "Merchant of Venice," a play requiring attendance of all sophomores in "C" English, these students who delegated their spare time to a thorough study of William Shakespeare, report their findings to one another. Memorizing and analyzing parts of "Hamlet" and other Shakespearean works became a different and interesting way of life for sophomores.

World History

Sophomores taking world history, a subject required for graduation found it stimulating and interesting. Term papers, notebooks, and book reports proved to be a new challenge to sophomores. Generally adjusting to their renovated course, the sophomores settled down for some serious studying. Films and slides provided a break during the every day routines.

Behind the Wheel

During their first year, students learned that Driver's Education had to be taken for graduation. In order to get the course out of the way, most Pirates took it in their sophomore year. After the required classroom work, an optional driver's training course was offered which put the students behind the wheel. This training course required twenty hours.

Reading Laboratory

Reading Laboratory, a required facet of sophomore English, increased the sophomores' reading speed and comprehension by working with the pacers. Along with the reading came movies which trained the sophomores' eyes to scan the material. This course, started in 1960 and studied for one quarter, will continue to aid incoming Pirates for years to come.

ANNUAL SOPHOMORE CAMPOUT

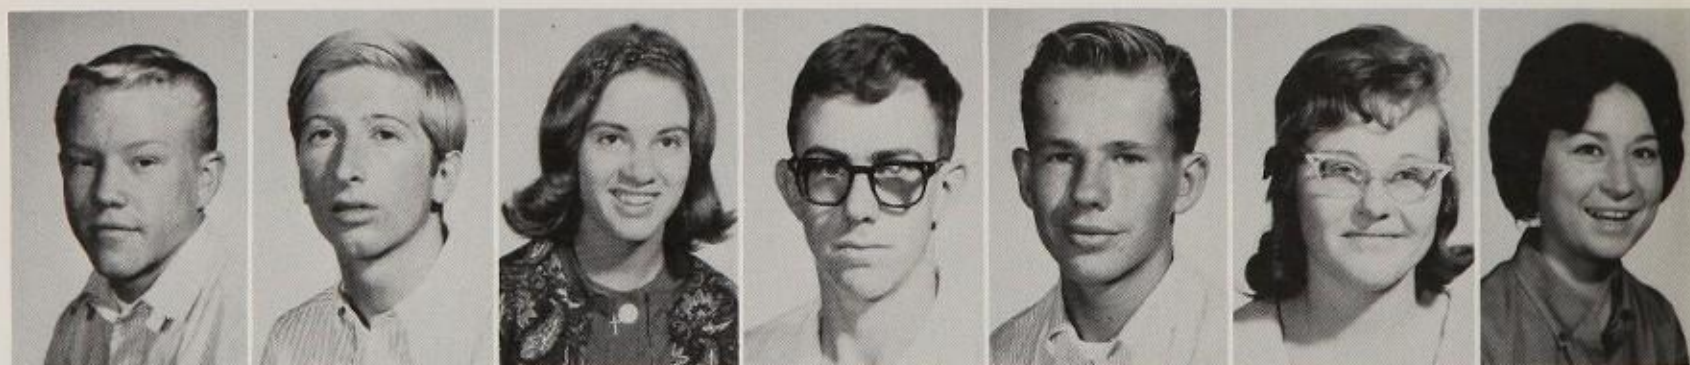

Forest Home Excursion

Sophomores numbering five hundred loaded on buses, jeeps, and cars journeyed to Forest Home camping grounds for the annual camp out given by Pacific. Laden down with sleeping bags, bubble gum, cut-offs and one or two teddy bears, the "sophs" hiked to Lake Mears. Meeting old friends and making new ones, the sophomores enjoyed two days of swimming, hiking and singing. Amidst the fun-filled activities, a watermelon feed, a movie and a pep rally ranked highest with incoming sophomores. Student Council members, introduced at the rally, tried to police the new Pirates. Much to their dismay, the enthusiasm instilled in the sophomores kept them from getting to bed; however, the warmth of sleeping bags enticed them. After thorough indoctrination, the sophomores returned home tired and hoarse.

Piling in a jeep while leaving school for the sophomore camp-out, Diane Minard with Tom Lorei and Karen Fallert, tried to pull Jim Dodge in off the roof. Ready for an exciting time, high spirits prevailed among all sophomores.

Delicious watermelon enjoyed by Mike Gass, Kathy Rainey, Mike Hamilton, Larry Strahm and Karen Fallert at the camp-out satisfied their hunger after an exciting pep rally at which student council officers were introduced.

Leaving for the Forest Home camp, Judy Grindahl, Diane Ash and JoAnne Wolfe packed the back of their car. Anxious to meet their friends, the girls anticipated the various activities planned for the new Pacific Pirates.

Sophomores Retta Carmichael and Gordon Sinn helped prepare their car for the annual snow trip to Holiday Hills. After students spent the day skiing, bobsledding, and getting frostbitten, the warmth of the lodge brightened the day for all who attended. Although colds and sniffles prevailed, the day proved enjoyable and beneficial.

Reclining around a warm fireplace, contented sophomores settled down to listen to a rip-roaring pep talk from class president, Milton Clark. To raise funds for the sophomore class, it was decided that everyone would sell toothbrushes. After an eventful day in the snow, the group prepared a prosperous campaign.

PIRATE VARSITY FOOTBALL -- 1964

C.B.L. Champs

Claim Trophy

Smashing their way through C.B.L., the Pirates claimed for the second time in three years the right to don the C.B.L. crown. The season once again proved that "our Pirates are the best" with the Bucs easily defeating four of their five league adversaries. Although two powerful Santa Ana teams upset the Pirates in pre-league contests, Pacific remained confident and charged on to capture a berth in C.I.F. playoff competition. Once more the P.H.S. gridders ran away with the coveted Sun-Telegram trophy by battering the Berdoo Cardinals by a score of 32-12.

C.B.L. success to their credit, senior Pirates placed seven men on the All-C.B.L. elevens. They were: E—Niemeyer, G—Evans, and QB—Gresham (First team, offense), T—Miller, S—Gordon, and S—Costello (defense), T—Janbaz (Second team). Backs Tribble and Baker, junior and sophomore respectively, made All-C.B.L. Second team.

SENIORS SAILED TO C.B.L.

Looking around the left end, QB Bill Gresham expected little interference from the opposition.

Discovering that football meant more than a mere sport to a Buc, an unidentified Ramonan decided to dance.

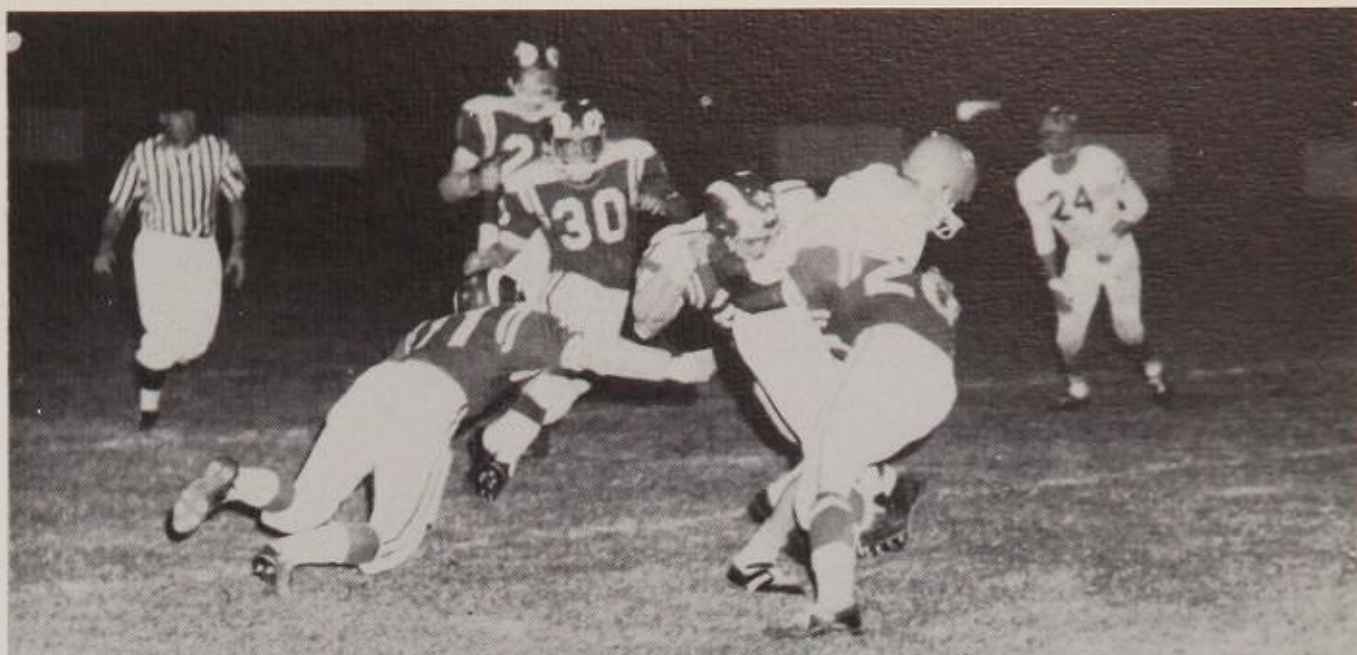

Planning their next move against the victorious Terriers, Pacific huddled as tension mounted.

Mercilessly crushing the Cards for a 32-12 victory, Pacific's Pirates captured their second C.B.L. title in three years. Seconds after the gun sounded at the Berdoo-Pacific contest, the Bucs brought the score to 13-0 after driving 61 yards in 11 plays with QB Bill Gresham at the controls. Scoring for the Pirates were: Baker (2), Tribble, Gresham and Williams.

JV GRIDDERS

SHOWED POTENTIAL

Snarling and sneering through an eventful season, Pacific's J.V.s bruised and mangled many a confident foe leaving them broken and battered on the wayside of victory lane. Under the capable guidance of Coaches Wayne Elton, Larry Mercandante, and George Weiny, the junior Bucs exhibited their full potential by winning many and losing few. By keeping in condition, the J.V.s to make the Varsity in 1965.

Three men of the opposite team tried in vain to restrain a battling member of the tough JayVee fighting crew.

While running down the field one day, a Pirate player happened to meet with two, not one player, but two players of the opposite team resulting in a head-on collision.

Inflamed, fanatical "baby" Bucs showed little mercy to their opponents and furiously displayed their potentials as future Varsity and Junior Varsity possibilities. Primarily sophomores, Coach Niemeyer's Bees participated freely and enthusiastically in this frenzied sport of football for enjoyment as well as for the rewarding experience. The season terminated with a discouraging 3-6-0 win-loss record.

Apprehending the CBL crown for the second time in the past three years, Pirate Bucs lost their first and only CIF game of the year in a duel with Loyola. Tension filled the stands as CBL champs scored the first touchdown of the night. The expertly trained team of Joe Lash fought ruthlessly to feign the efforts of the opposition without success. Scoring four touchdowns, Loyola downed Pacific, 28-7.

Crossing the goal line, Pacific Pirates scored the first six points of the night. The touchdown triggered the hopes of all loyal Pirate fans, but anticipations diminished as the Loyola Cubs defeated PHS.

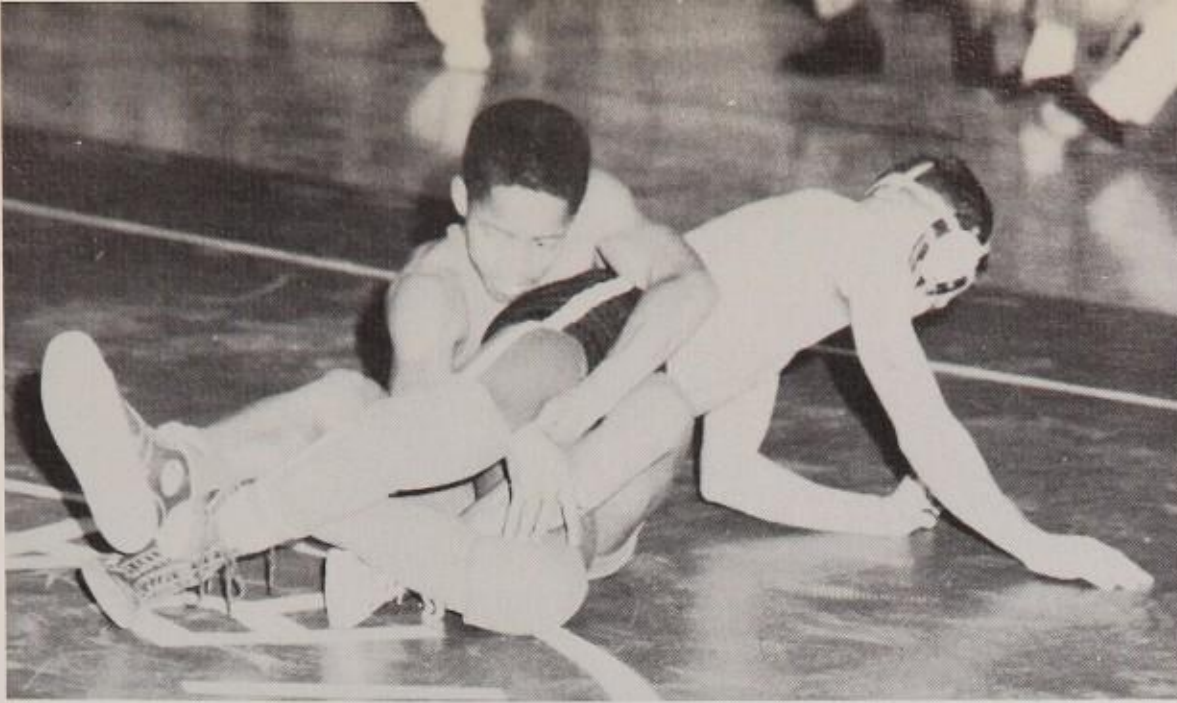

Stopping the ball on the seventh yard line, Pacific Buc's momentarily prevented the Loyola team from making its goal. Scoring four touchdowns, Loyola caused the termination of CIF games for Pacific.

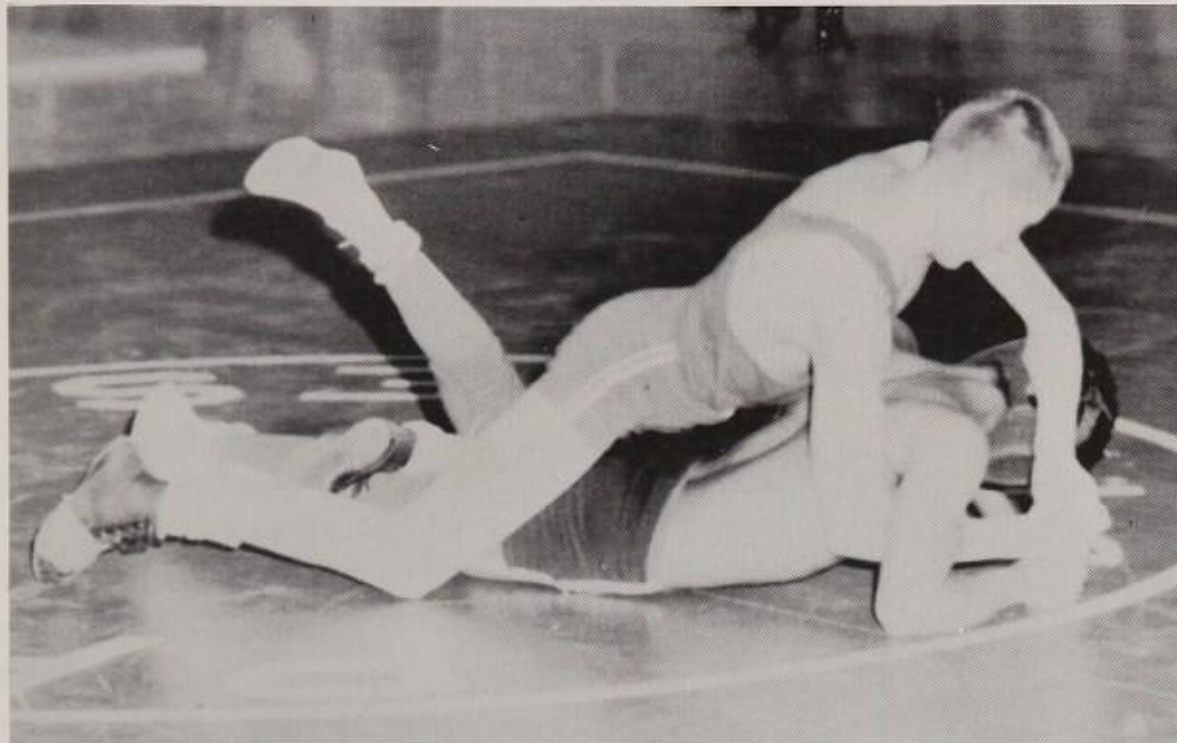

Finishing the game, 28-7, grappling Cubs gave Pirates the chance to prove themselves. Quarterback Bill Gresham gained seven yards in the second down running determinably towards Pacific's goal.

Strenuous crash diets and rigorous practices typified the wrestling program. Although afflicted by the loss of graduated team members, Coach Fitzgerald's grapplers clinched numerous matches.

Ready to flip his opponent, team member Bob Young worked hard to strengthen his wrestling abilities. A welcomed victory was received as PHS defeated Riverside Poly.

With a strangling grip 115 pounder, Fred Zervas managed to vanquish his opponent by a margin of five points. Victories which were obtained spurred Pirates on to greater accomplishments.

Owing to the lack of information about Pacific's Varsity Wrestling teams, audiences at the matches were constantly at a minimum. Although support of the student body was nearly nil, stalwart matmen underwent vigorous workouts to capture honors for self and school. Unrelenting in keeping the Buc grapplers in condition, Jack Fitzgerald assumed the position of Pacific's wrestling coach succeeding Coach Al Liles. The weight classes ranged from a feather-light 98 lbs. to a gruesome 195+ heavyweight.

John Clay, 98 lbs., Fred Zervas, 123 lbs., Charles Washburn, 168 lbs., and Art Sharp, 178 lbs., each seized first place medals at the C.B.L. Wrestling Tournament in February. Also placing in the competition were Joe Kinnard, Bob Young, George Tribble, Jim Diffenbaugh, each 2nd place, Doug Hicks, 3rd place, and Tony Brown, 4th place.

Purple Varsity

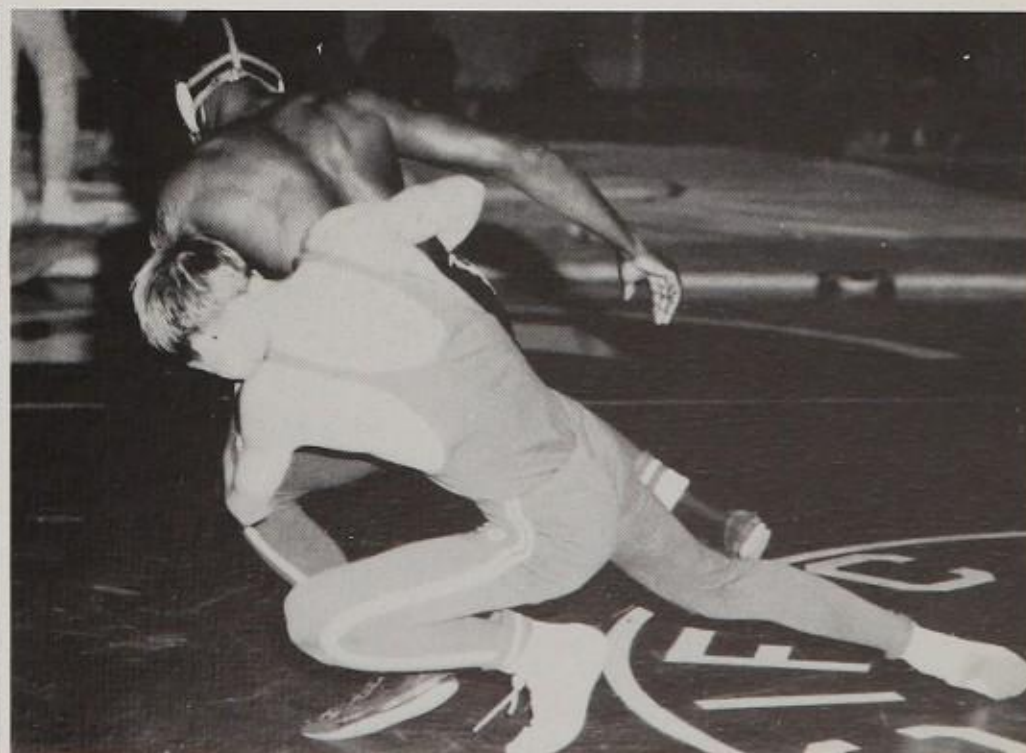

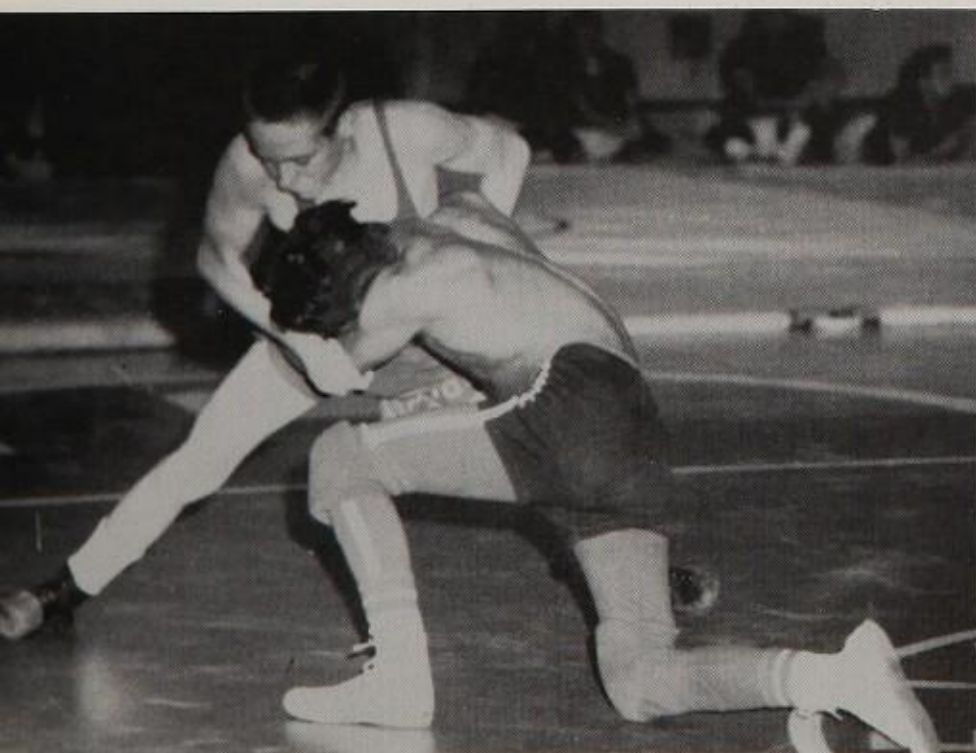

Entangled in the constant struggle of man against man, wrestlers found escapes for their enduring pathos.

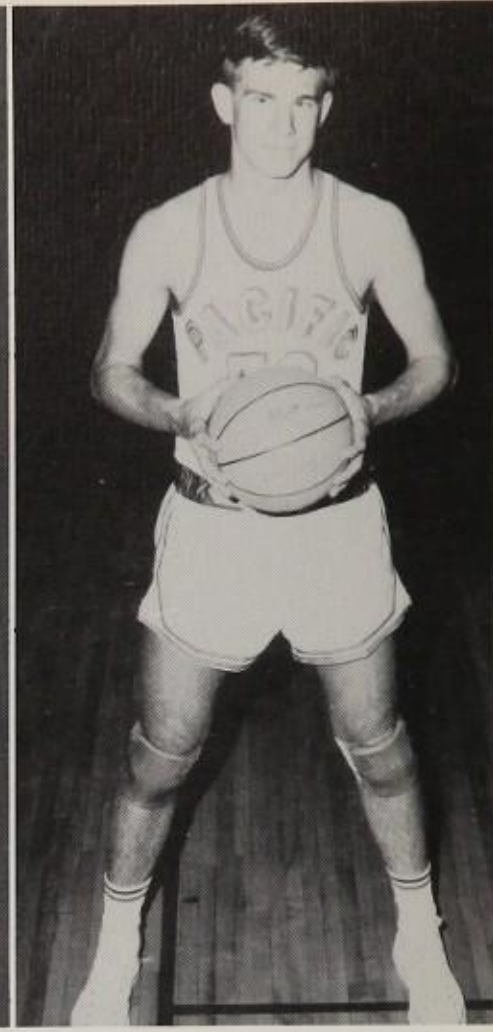

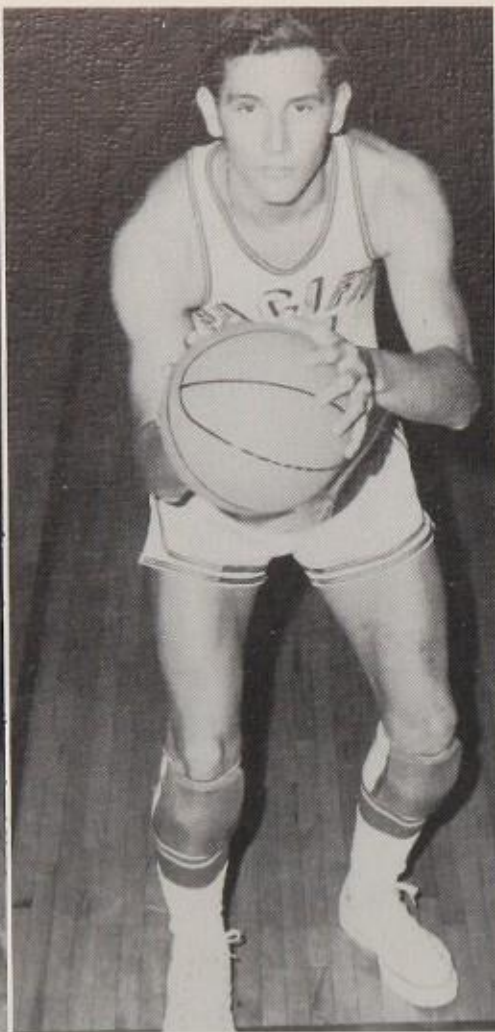

Joe Kinnaird, 106 lbs., forcefully escaped from the vice-like hold of a slowly weakening Poly Bear.

Trying for a pin, an unidentified wrestler conquered his opponent with ample capability.

Struggling to unbalance an opponent, a Pirate grappler incorporated timing and strength to score the takedown.

Virtually unguarded behind the freethrow line, junior Pirate Roger Mosier displayed the championship form which claimed for him the Citrus Belt League scoring crown. Pacific destroyed the Poly Bears 77-63 in their first round of action.

VARSITY BASKETBALL--1965

Pirate Dave McDole surveyed the action as versatile Roger Mosier guarded a high-stepping Ramonan in the Pacific gym.

Number 21, Steve Carter soared into the limitless spaces of Pacific's gym to recover a ball in a game against the Tigers.

Attempting a long, difficult jump shot from the right side of the court, Dave McDole stymied his Riverside Poly opponents.

Dribbling down court to tie the score, a skillful and talented Pirate found the only hinderance to be the basketball's inability to bounce fast enough for his terrific speed and timing. Buc basketballers fractured the timid Tigers 73-65.

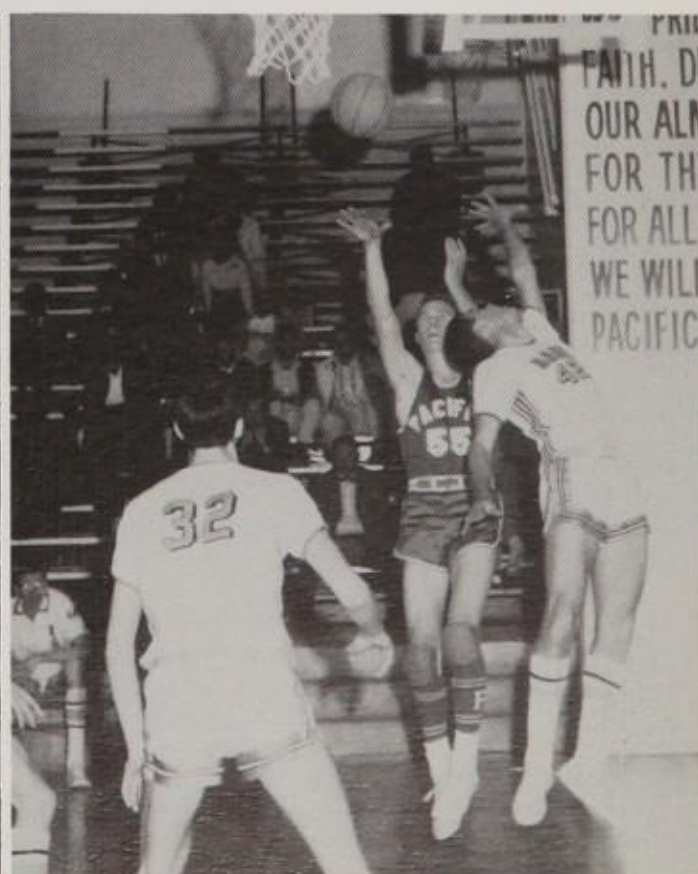

Pirates Win Eleven; Lose Thirteen Under New Coach

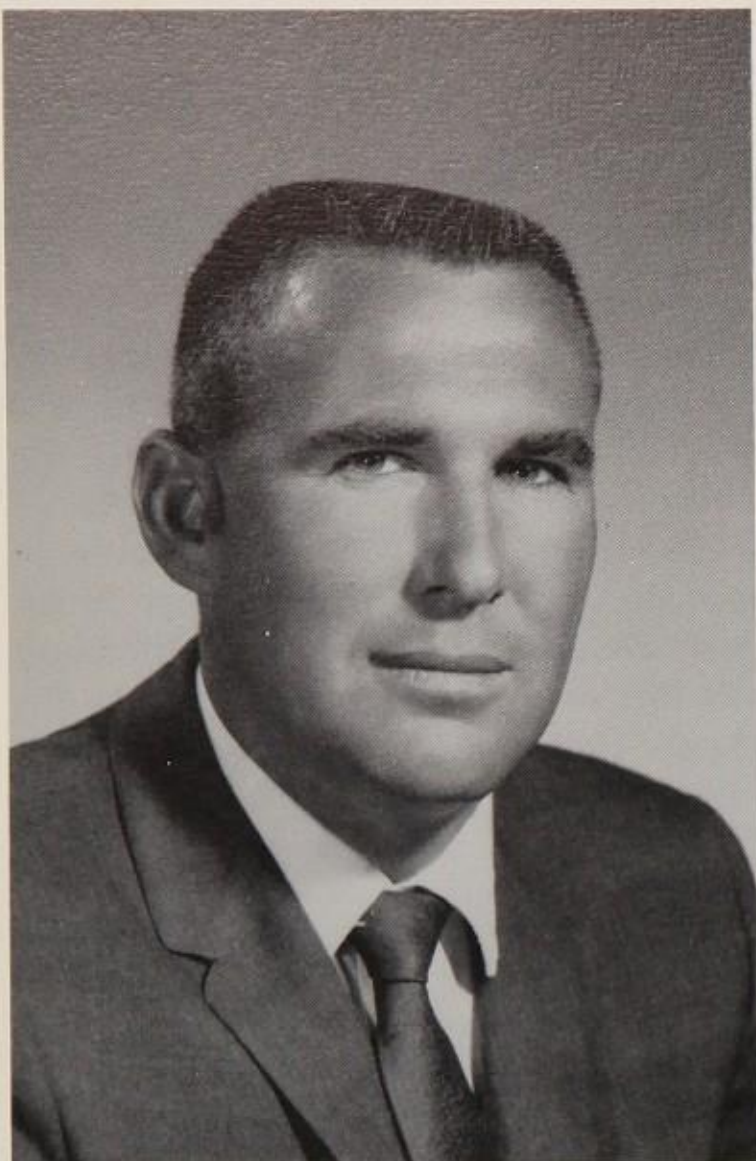

Tackling opposition with a winning spirit, Pacific's Varsity Basketball team gave its school a 11-13 season record under the leadership of Coach Hackleman, newly arrived from S.B.H.S. Unrelenting hours of back-breaking practice proved valuable to Buc hoopsters as they shot their way to an improved season over last year. Although the team lost some valuable players to illness, the six footers gave Pacific its needed height and strength in obtaining speed of foot and adeptness of hand in the game. Pirate fans, though unaware of the physical drudgery wrought by the game, made a fairly good turnout at all the games. With the vigorous support of Buc cheerleaders and enthusiastic fans, the Varsity team gained a well earned season record. Success was their goal, and with the strength and skill known only to a Pirate, they attained it.

Struggling for a hold on the basketball, Paul Harbaugh proved to be one of the squad's outstanding rebounders.

Dave McDole drew the "oohs" and "ahs" of hundreds of Pirate fans as he sank the ball to the dismay of some Poly Bears.

Pirate #55 aimed high from side-court in hopes of outreaching his Ramona guard. Pacific defeated the Rams 75-69.

WEBSTER RESIGNED VARSITY COACHING JOB

Preparing the Varsity squad for the season to come, Coach Robert Webster succeeded in setting up an extensive playing background for the 1965 squad. Seeing Coach Webster at many of the basketball games of the season, the team was inspired to unexpected achievements. Among Webster's own achievements was the 1960 C.B.L. championship his peerless Varsity squad had captured, as well as the high regard he has claimed from the entire school. Although it was imperative that he resign for reasons of health, Coach Webster did not abandon the team. The capable basketball leadership of Coach Robert Webster will never be forgotten by the students, teachers, and players who knew and admired him.

TENNIS

Charging into another year with renewed enthusiasm and skill, Pacific's Varsity and Junior Varsity Tennis teams transcended previous years in all-over performance. Coach Ray Postema lent encouragement and advice. This in turn undoubtedly had an intense effect on the teams' successful seasons. John Cover, Roger Mosier, and Bob Robin demonstrated skill and ability in the inter-school competition and kept up Pacific's average of fifteen-five.

(Upper): Thrilled at the spectacular outcome of the Varsity tennis match, Bob Robin leaped over the net to receive congratulations from felicitous spectators.

Overcoming inertia with a burst of enduring speed, Pacific sprinters strained to be the first to cut the tape at the finish line.

Finish

Finishing in a burst of glorious speed, Pacific cindermen set a horrendous, yet challenging pace for their teammates that enabled them to set records.

Hurdles

Conquering the hurdles with speed and agility, hurdler Mike Neeley displayed his championship form needed in the event.

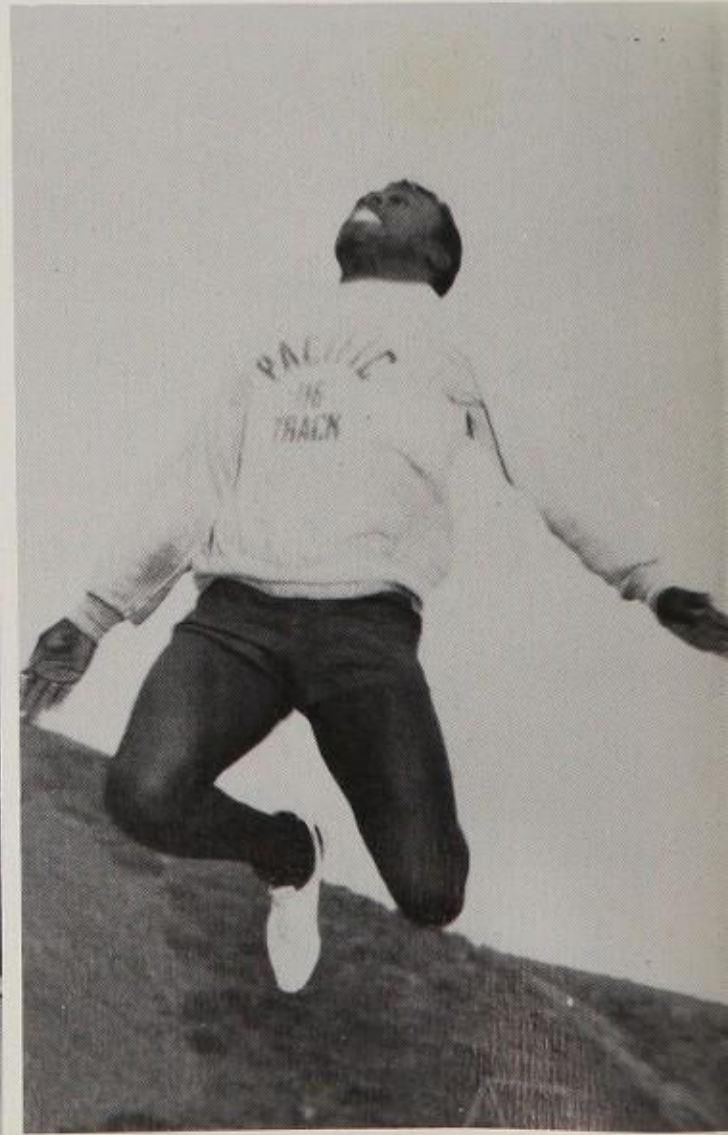

FIELD EVENTS

Involving unlimited amounts of energy and talent, participants in field events practiced long hours to acquire the skill and timing required. Results of grueling practices showed in the performances of the cindermen at track meets.

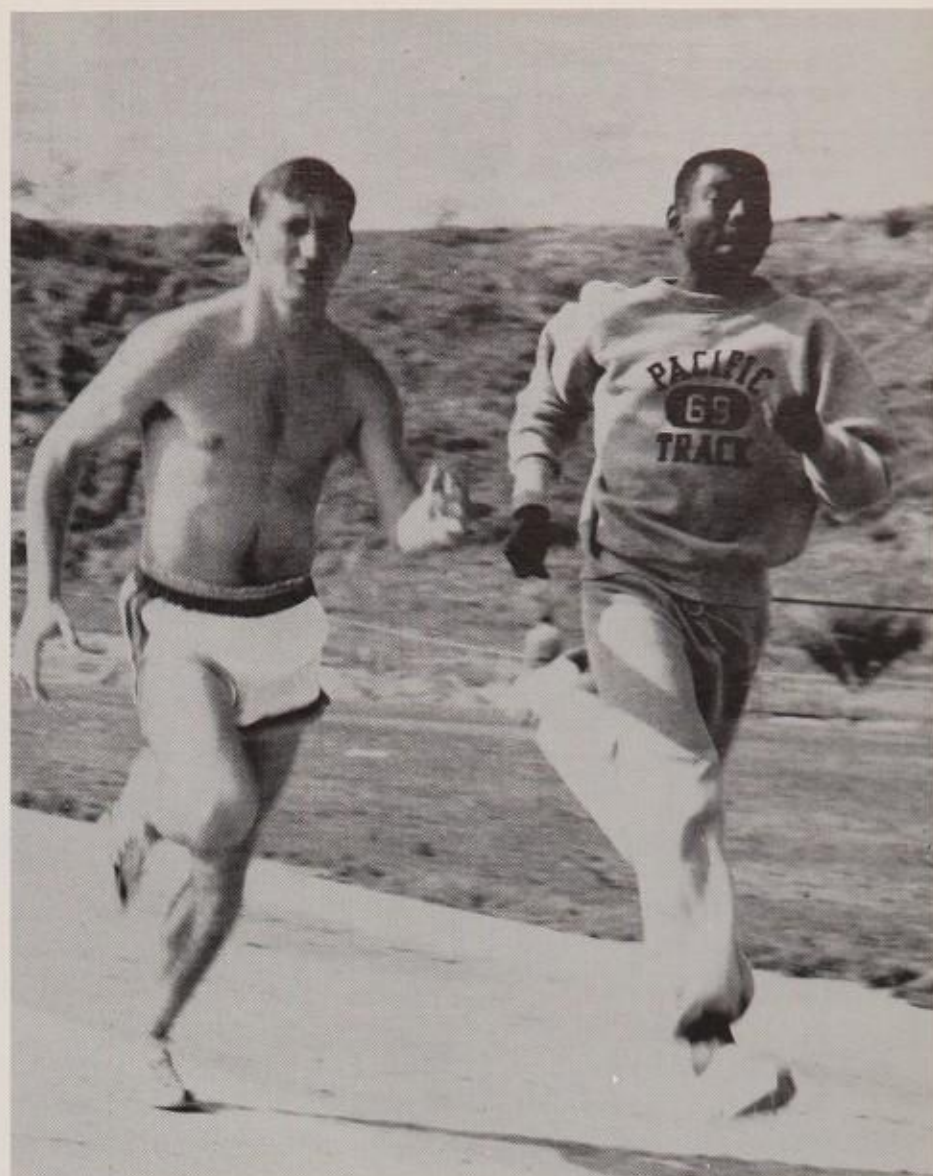

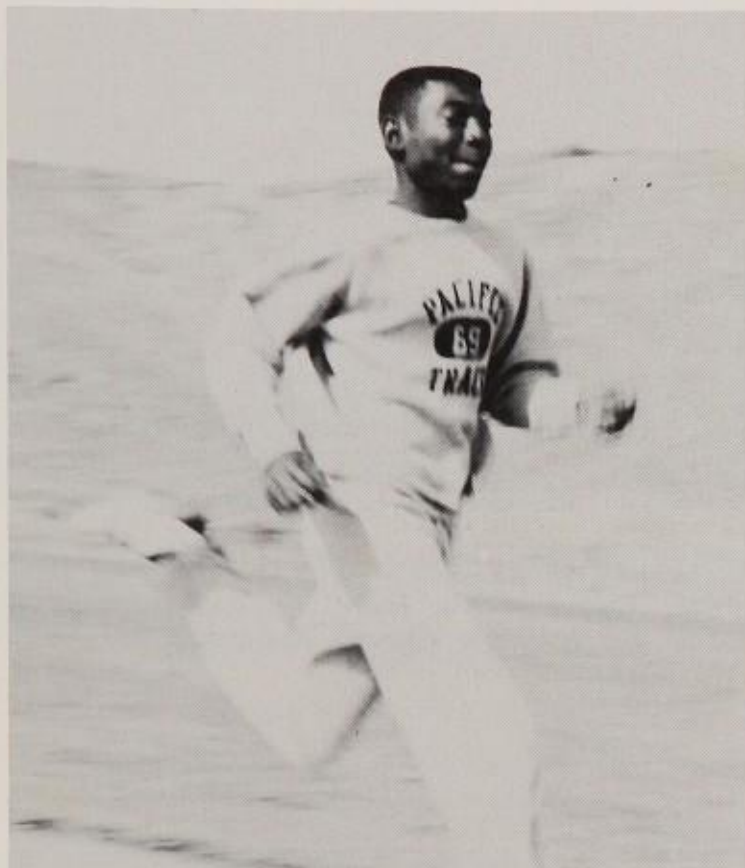

Demonstrating his high jumping ability, Rick Pringle strived for greater heights last season.

(Upper) Using excellent sense of balance and timing required for a pole vaulter, Paul Howard hurdled over great heights. Vaulters practiced to achieve excellence. (Right) Broad jump along with other field events demanded unlimited amounts of energy from the cindermen. Jerry Louder exhibited his talent at broad jumping. (Far right) To develop an efficient technique for shot put, Jim Hines showed the result of immense quantities of practice required to meet standards of track meets.

DISTANCE

Distance running necessitated vigorous workouts, painstaking calisthenics, and numerous grueling trips over the awesome trail. Each cinderman, according to his own particular technique, was placed in the distance events which included the 880, 660, 440, and the 220 yard runs.

(Above): Running the 880, Riggins and Gresham excellerated as the finish line came into view. (Below): Appendages of the relay team stretched their pace to preserve their wind.

BEE TRACK

Sturdy competition, speed, strength and endurance were the keys to most of Nelson's and Sam's more successful enterprises.

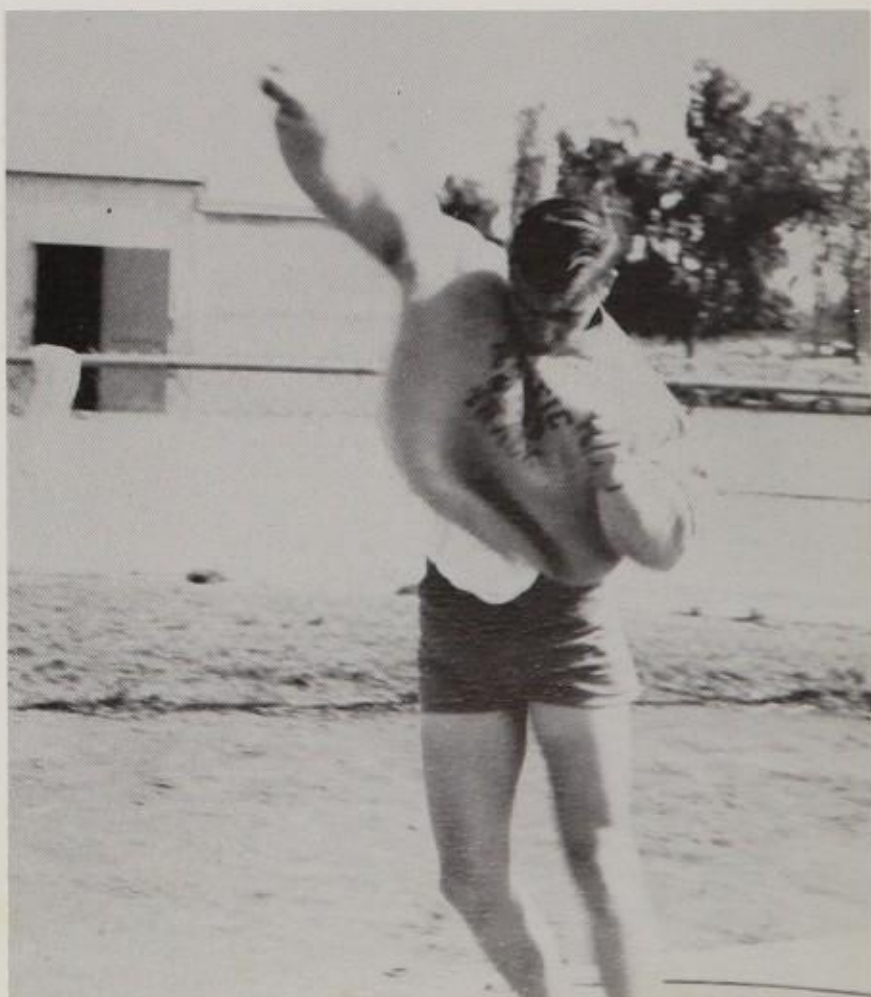

Ejecting the dense sphere of iron, a "baby" Buc proved to be an asset to the Bee track team during the 1965 season.

Not only hurdling over the problems that faced a Pirate, but over track obstacles as well, Don Roberts flew to victory.

With a supreme effort, George Ellis hurtled the hefty shot as far as his muscular agility and coordination would allow.

Farr. Row 2: Leonard Walker, Marko Carrasco, James Penman, Mike Lunt, Keith Simmons, Shirley.

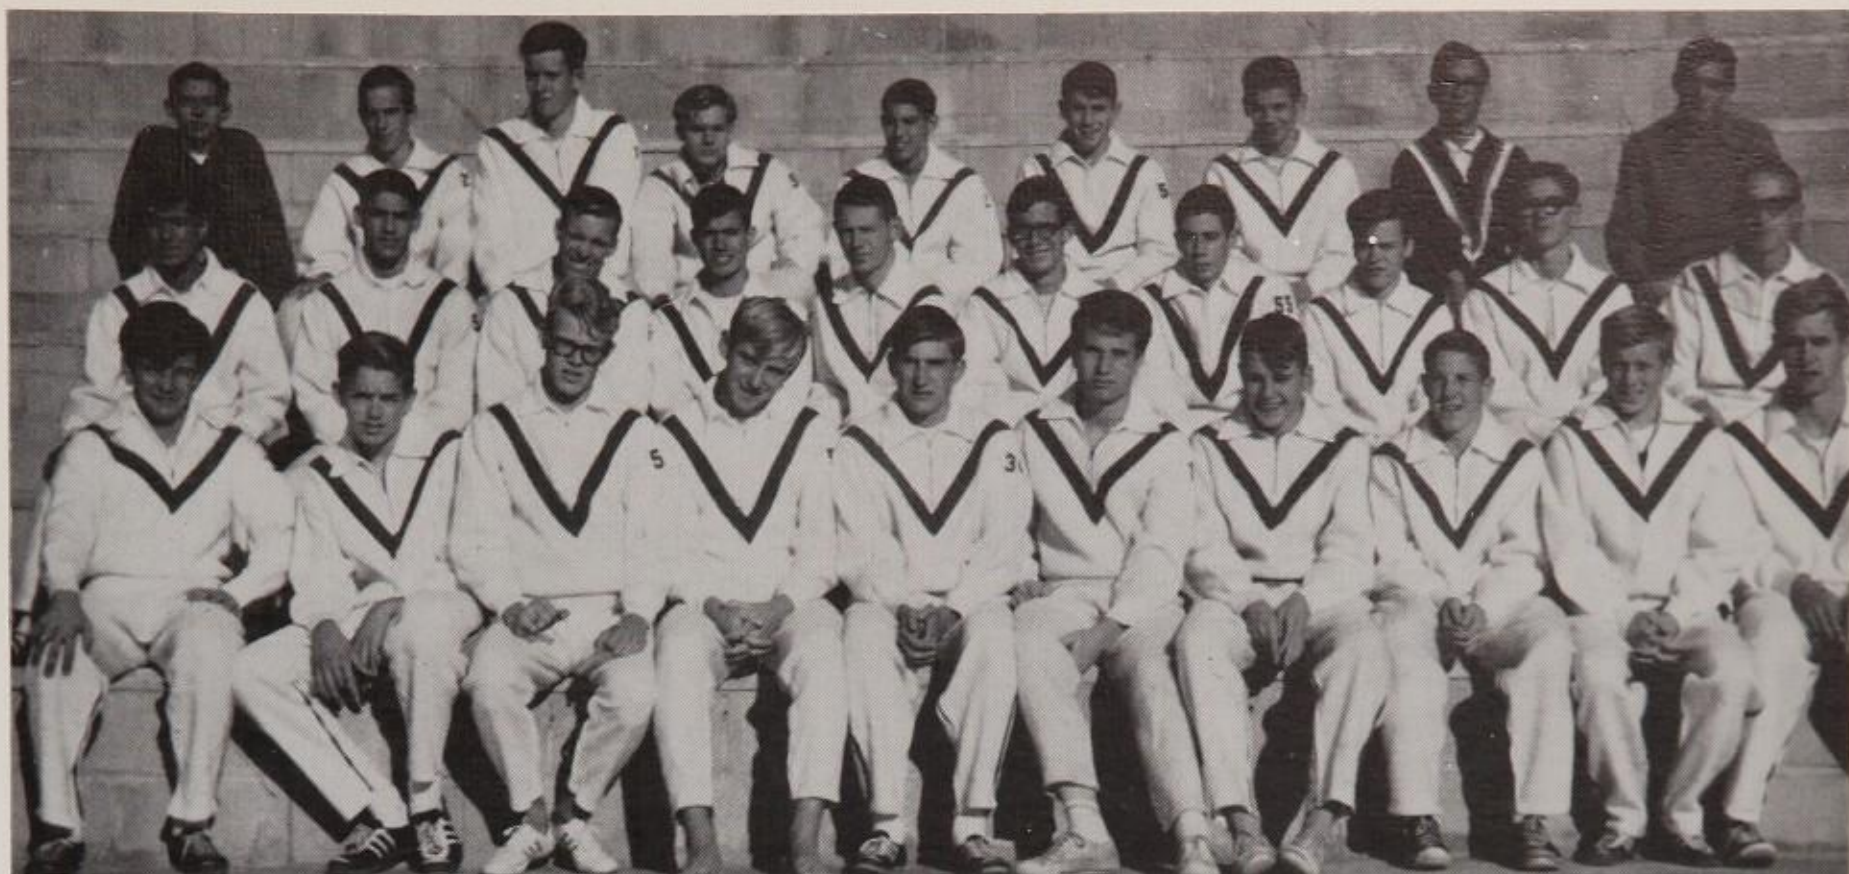

Plummeting down the ladder of success, the cross country team set a new low for Pacific with a 0-10-0 season. Even though the squad failed in production, they put forth valiant efforts in training and gave their utmost at the meets. At the Pacific Invitational held early in the school year, Pirate harriers captured a commendable third place in the Junior Varsity division while the Varsity took fifth and sophomores held on strongly to last place. Voicing great hopes for the 1965 season, Coach Farr remained confident that they would improve greatly next year.

1965 CROSS COUNTRY TEAM

As the starting line diminished from their sight, the cross country participants used many a devious method for finishing a most grueling but rewarding race.

Jay Vee runner Kip Garner resembled a human dynamo as the finish line came into view at the C.C. Invitational. JV's seized third place.

Myriads of would-be Babe Ruths flocked to the Pacific baseball field for the spring baseball tryouts. Managing the prospective baseballers, Coach Wayne Elton narrowed the number down to eighteen. After weeks of intensive training, the polished Varsity team members tested their abilities in non-league exhibitions.

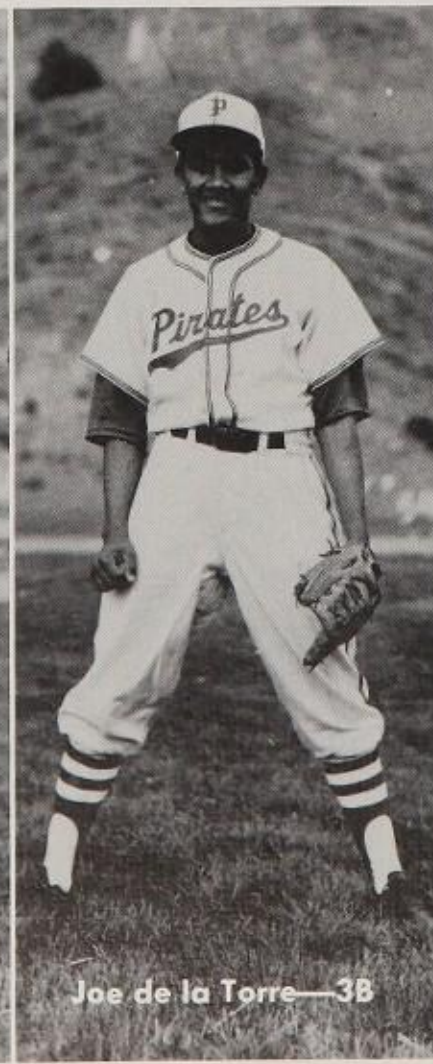

The team's weaknesses were pinpointed, discussed and ironed-out before the regular league season began against Riverside Poly on March 12. Returning Varsity members included Jim Costello, Mike Dunn, Gary Pitts, and Eddie Evans along with past Junior Varsity and Sophomore players Ken Bailey, Len Whitacre, and

Left: Tensely awaiting a chance to even the score, Pirates warmed the bench behind the backstop.

Left: Smashing the ball with all his might, a Buc brought in two runs and came home after the next batter.

Right: Starting the game off with a homerun, Pirate number four began circling the diamond with great alacrity.

Right: Displaying great abilities and potential, Pirate batters proved indispensable to the team.

Left: Rounding first base, a Pirate succeeded in making it to third, while the score increased by three points.

Right: Caught off first, Don Ogdon dove at the base as the pitcher flung the ball to the baseman.

Right: As a Pirate ran in home, San Bernardino opponents waited for the ball to be thrown in.

Left: in a play at first, Ken Bailey put out the runner for the third out in the last inning.

Right: With maximum control, and flexibility, pitcher Ed Perez threw a low curve which made the count 2 and 2.

Left: Anticipating his turn at bat, Rick Ogden prepared to aid Pirates in attaining a victory.

Swimmers Dove

Through Eventful Season

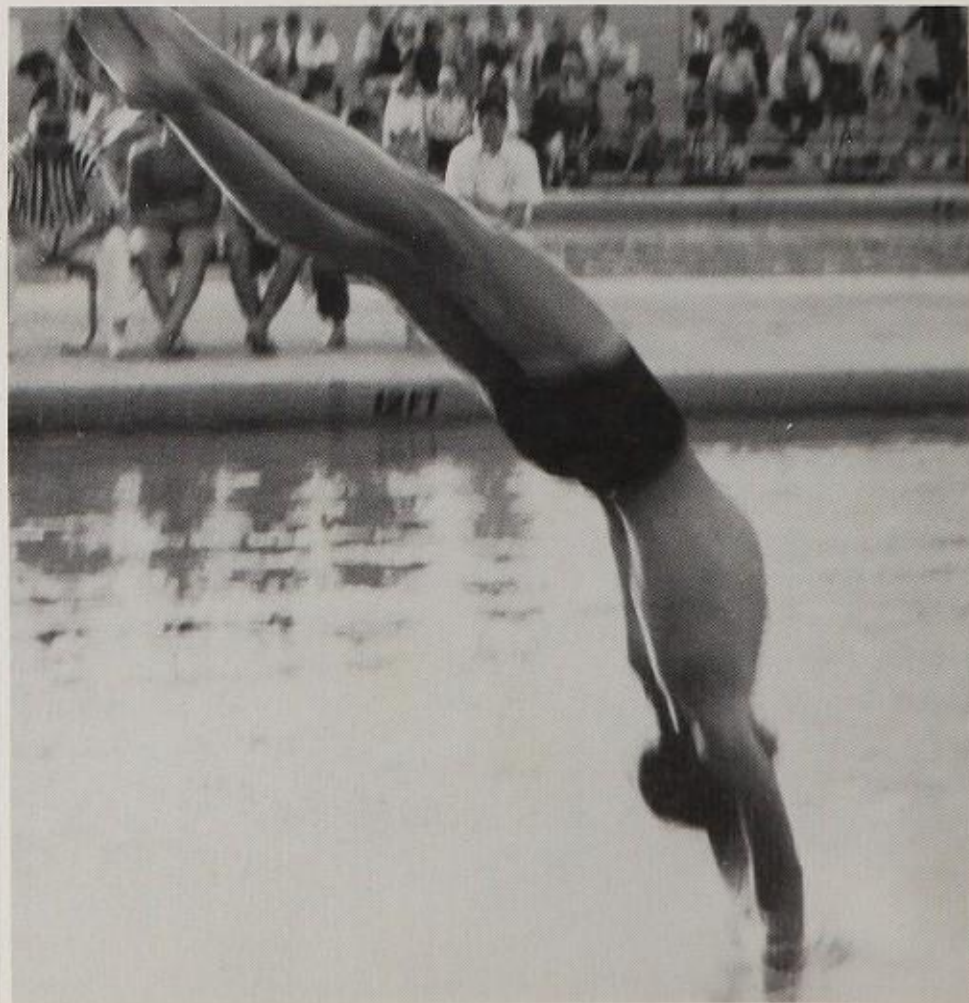

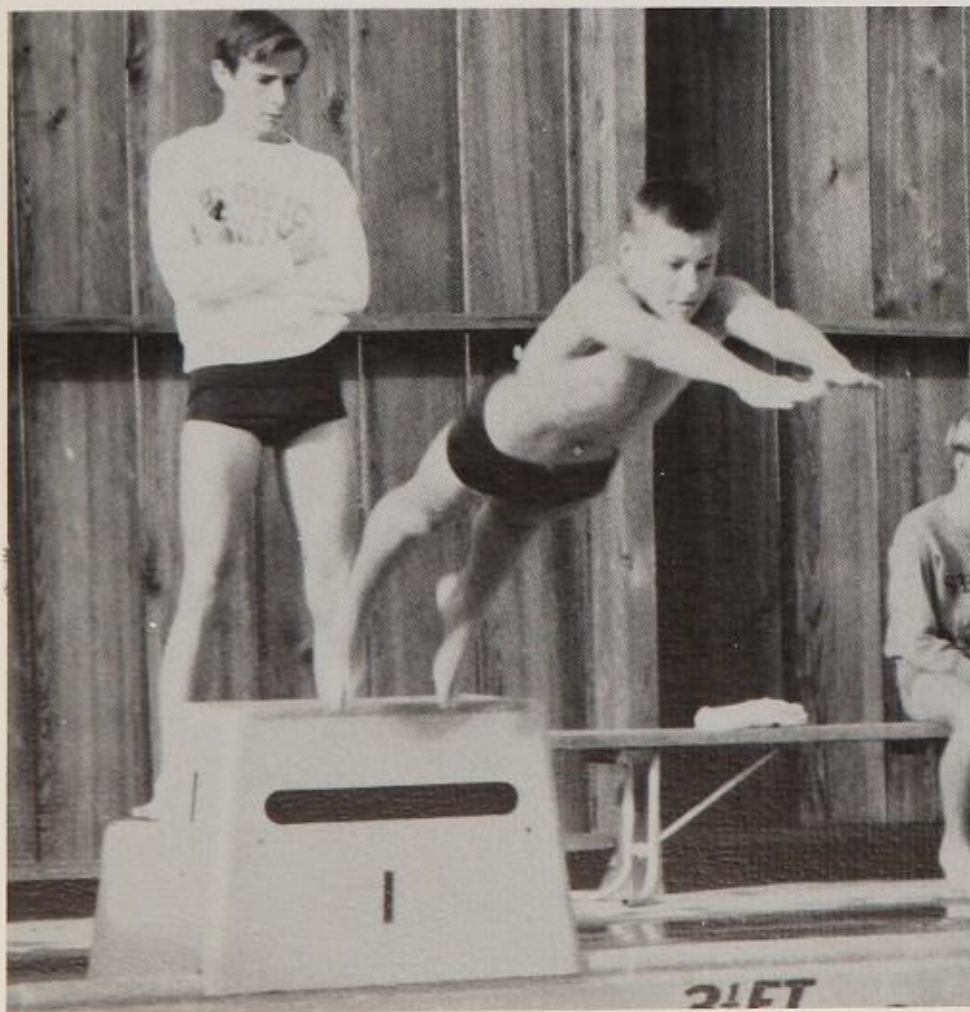

Utilizing the near-by Uptown "Y" pool every afternoon after school, Pirate swimmers rounded-out their aquatic talents by undergoing gruelling workouts and time-trials for competition. George Weiny, swimming coach for a number of years at Pacific, supervised the training and development of each new swimmer as well as re-conditioning the returning lettermen and non-lettermen. Superior performances at the highly competitive meets culminated each previous week's practices and weight-watching rituals. Splashing easily ahead of league and non-league contenders, Buc mermen followed through in their traditional winning stature, making swimming one of Pacific's most worthwhile athletic activities as well as one of the most stimulating.

SWIMMING--1965

Diver Smokey Lewis observed swimming competitor Clark Yeager at the Pacific Berdoo meet held at SBVC. Expert form in the take-off surface dive was as equally as crucial as the speed and form needed in the actual competition.

Neatly slicing the water while executing a back flip, diver Smokey Lewis demonstrated the skill perfected by Pacific's divers. Special and streamline form were mandatory for high scoring. Pacific cinched the match against Berdoo at SBVC.

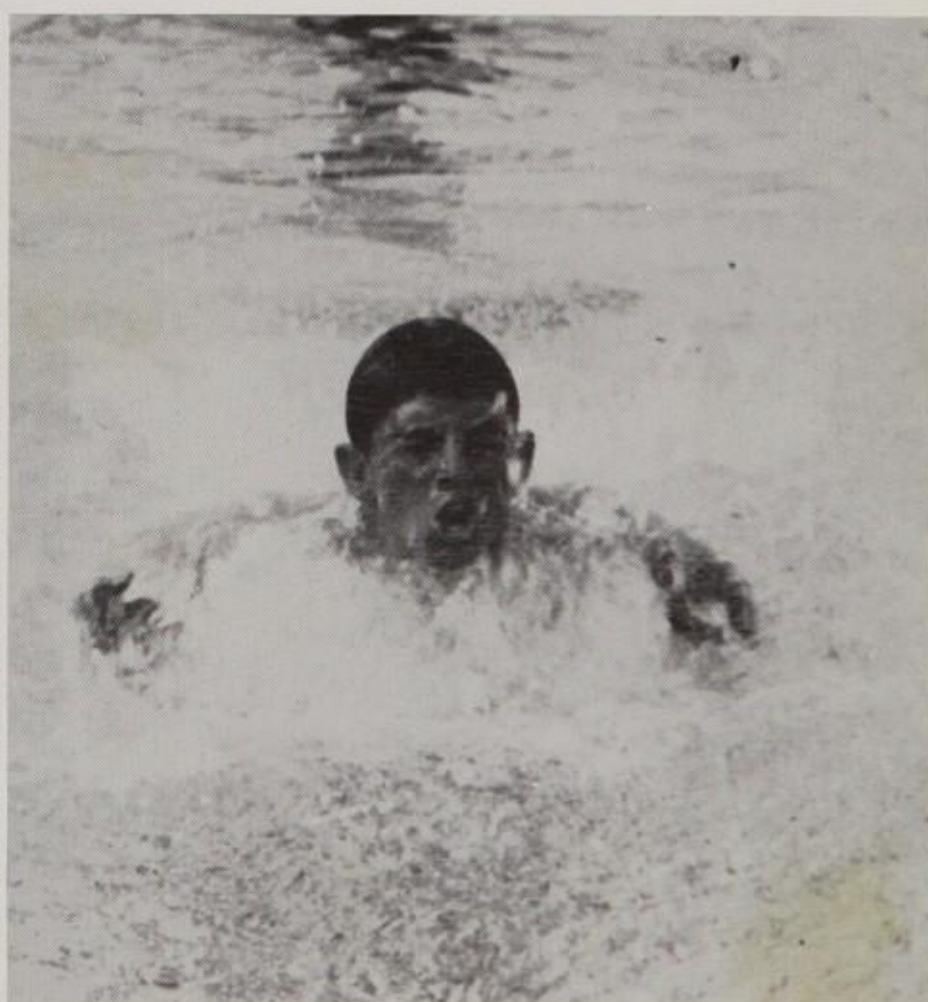

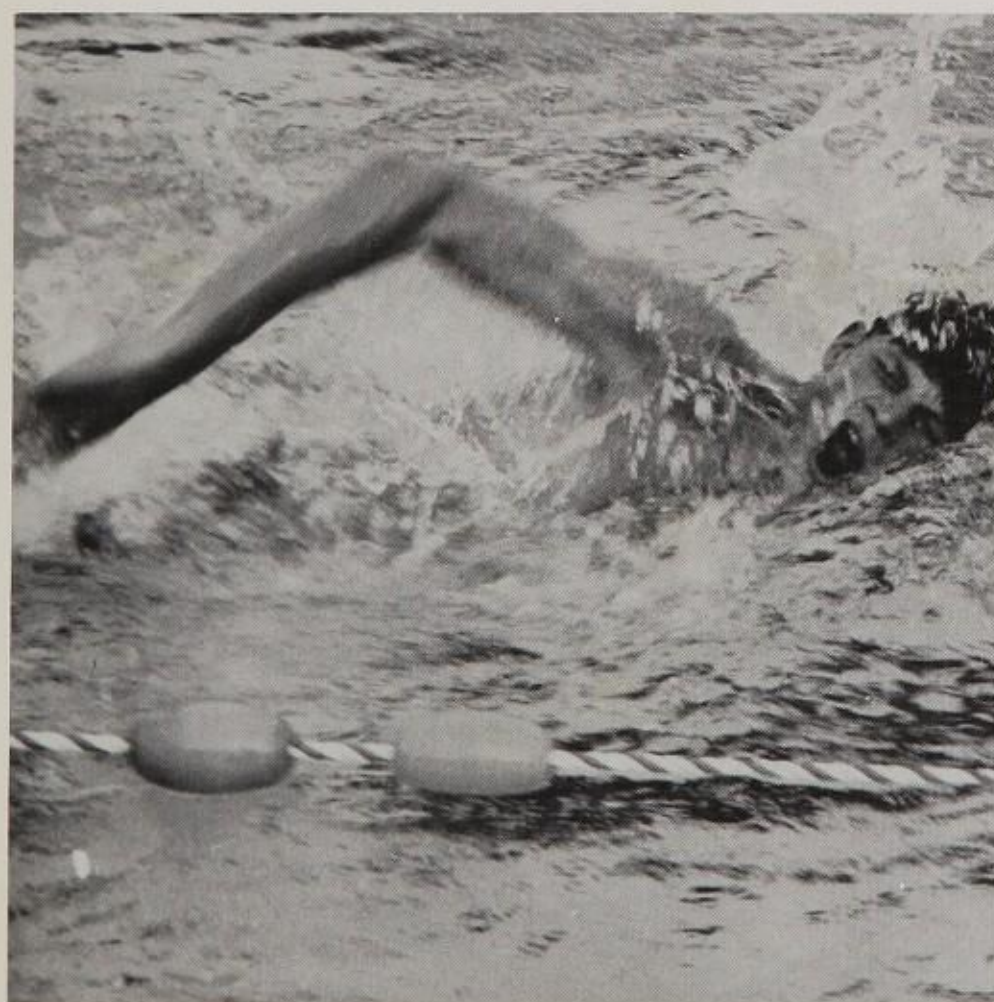

Front (left to right): Dave Whittemore, Jim Popsychala, Dave Fellbaum, Grant Smith, Charles Reed, Bob Holcomb, Dick Lunceford, Bill Holcomb, Clark Yeager, Jay Clark, Pat Cochran, Paul Amberg, Tom McIntosh, Dave Roddick, Charles Carter. Lashing out hours of previous practice at the Pacific-Berdoo meet, an unidentified Pirate vied for first place in swimming competition. Though the most commonly used stroke, the Australian crawl proved to be one of the most strenuous of the events.

Rewards of training became abundant as the golf season opened on April 12. Captain Eric Wilhoft and Coach Dan Young led Pacific's golf team to many driving victories over rival Citrus Belt League teams. Competing at the Arrowhead Country Club golf course and elsewhere, Pirate linkers achieved distinctive results.

Golfer Owen O'Connor addressed the ball before driving off the first tee.

Eric Wilhoft's vision never left the ball as he began his foreswing.

Ley Yeager grimaced angrily as his driver scooped up several pounds of grass.

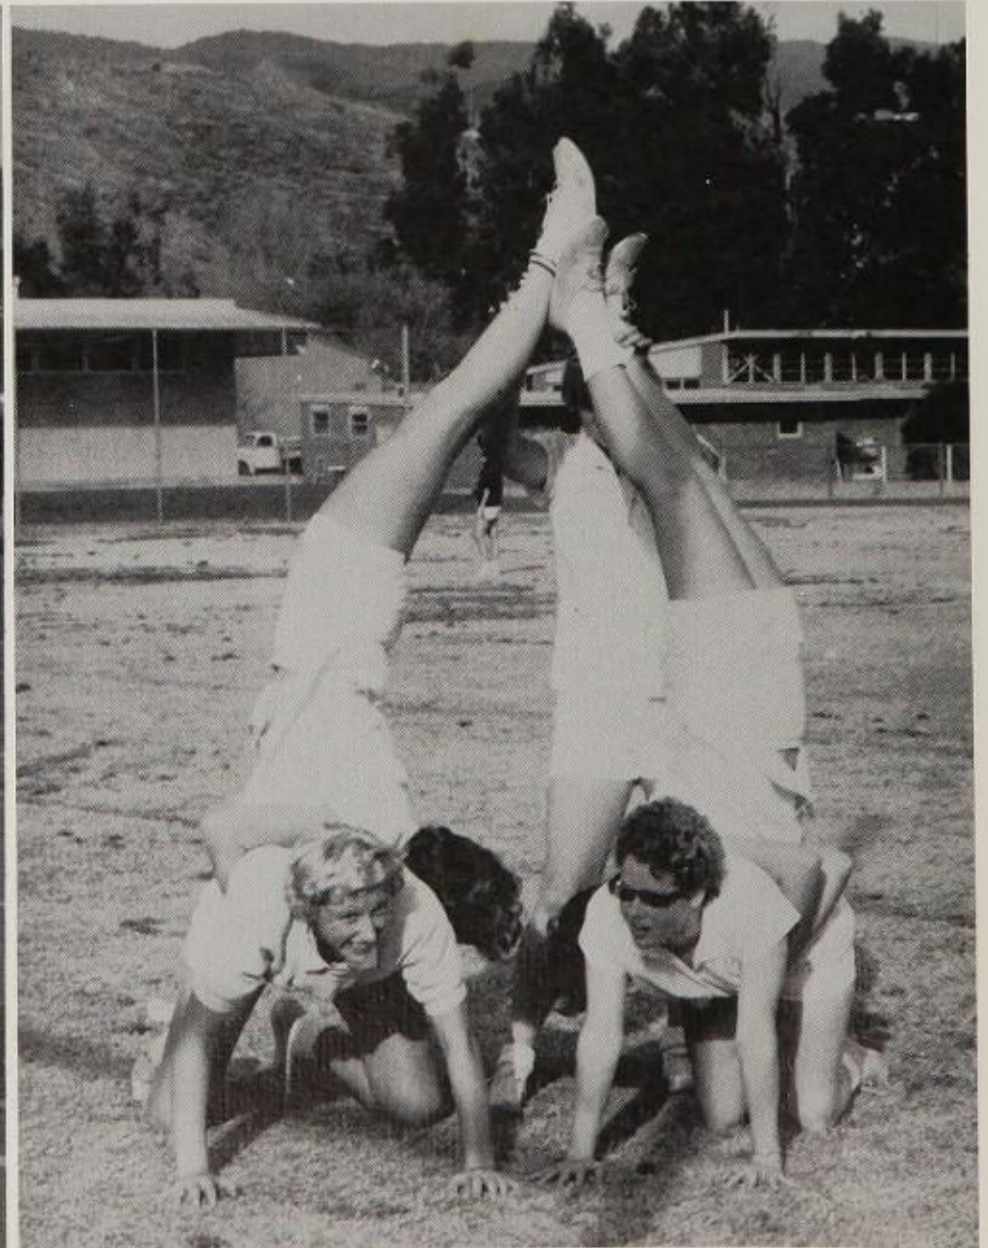

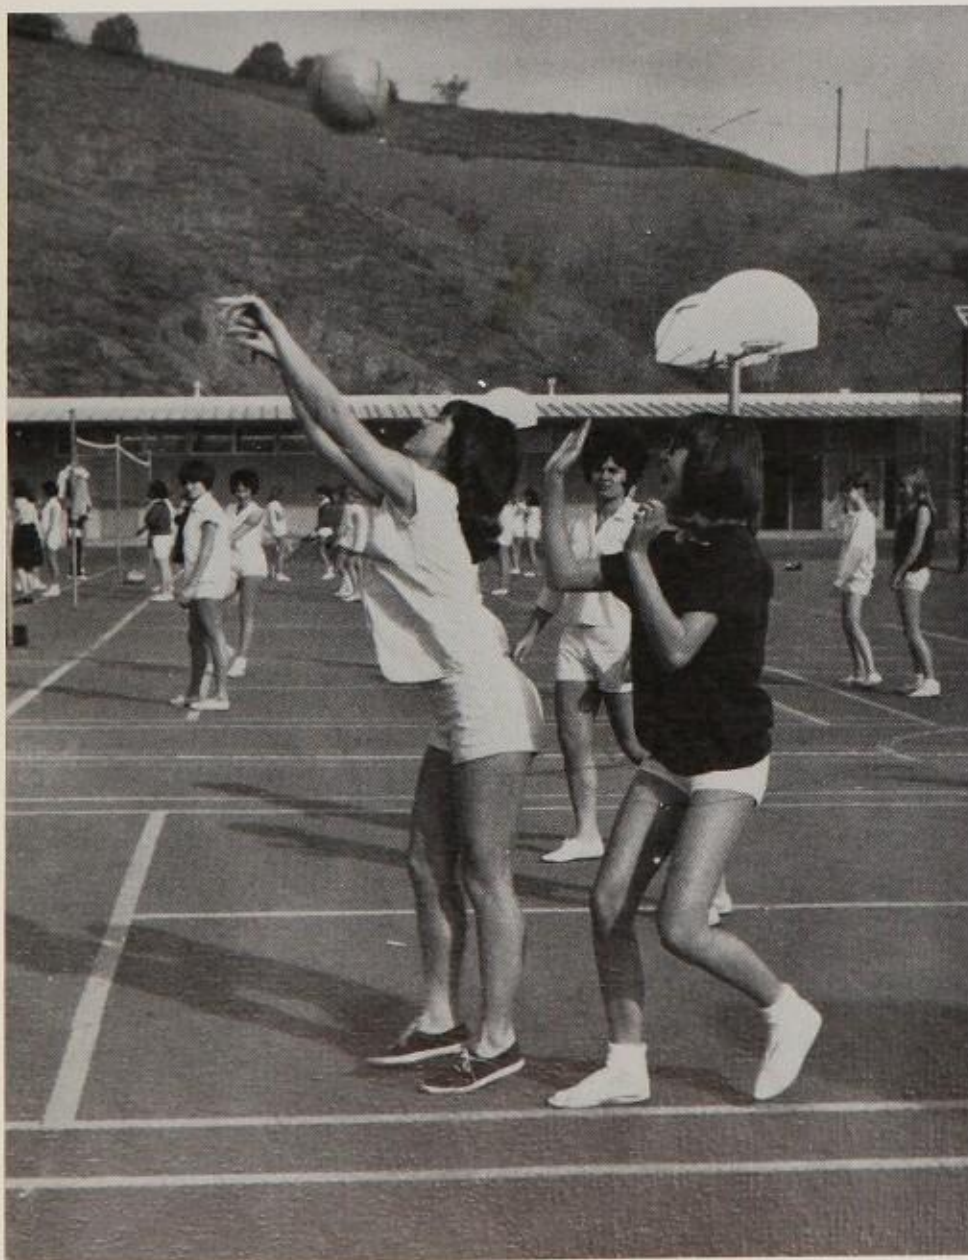

FALL SPORTS

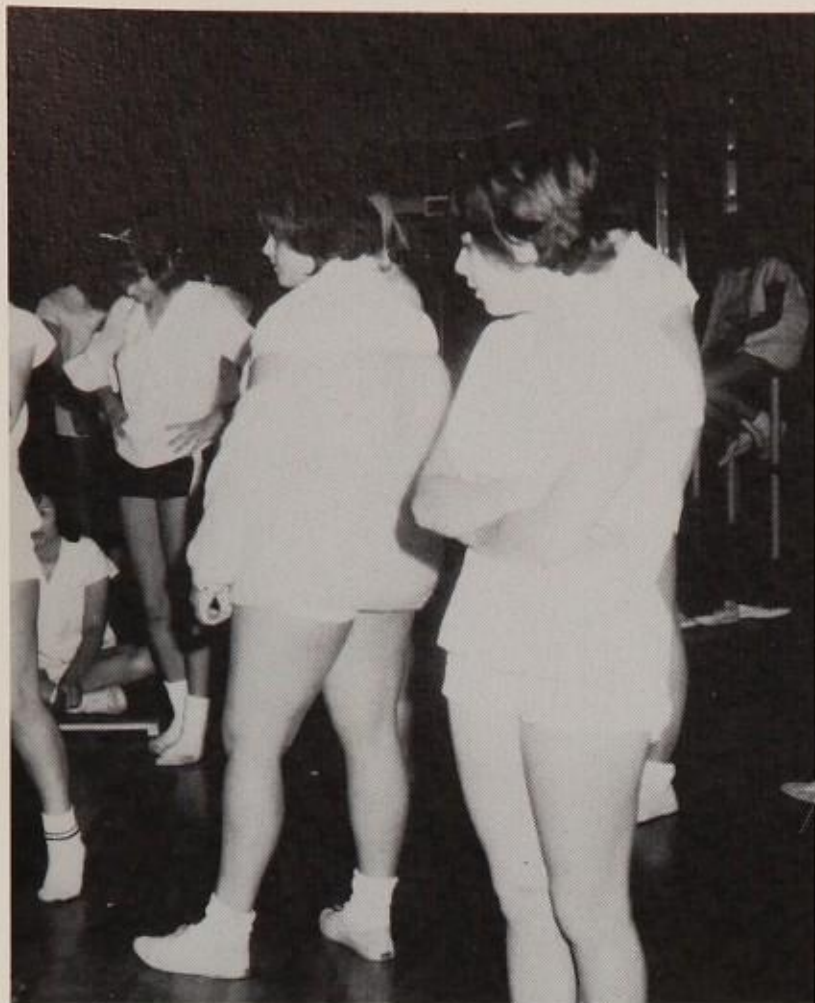

Returning to school in the fall, female members of PHS exuberantly participated in the fall sports. Donning their clean white uniforms, the girls strove to perfect their physical abilities. Fall activities included volleyball, swimming, tumbling, modern dance and badminton. Sophomores new at Pacific, required to take a six weeks course of swimming, came to school laden with beach towels, swimming suits and bathing caps. Each class took part in individual sports. Seniors, beginning with a new O-hour P.E. class, learned badminton. Juniors took tumbling and later learned expression in modern dance. Ending the fall sports program, girls looked forward to spring sports.

Vigorously hitting the birdies, seniors learned badminton techniques. A favorite among the students, badminton taught about 700 girls coordination.

GIRLS' SPORTS

Waiting their turns, juniors taking tumbling learned to roll, twist and do anything short of contortionism. Skills included backward bends, and cartwheels.

Trying to overcome the problems of the biting, stinging feeling coming from hitting the volleyball, the girls endeavored to reach proficiency.

Inspired to create with individual expression through rhythm, Juniors took modern dance. Coordination to music livened the P.E. classes.

During the first six weeks of school, sophomores, required to take swimming, traveled each day to dip into the waters of the Perris Hill Plunge.

Exercises designed to cut trim figures and to keep physically fit also improved on the girls' ability to participate in the sports program.

SPRING SPORTS

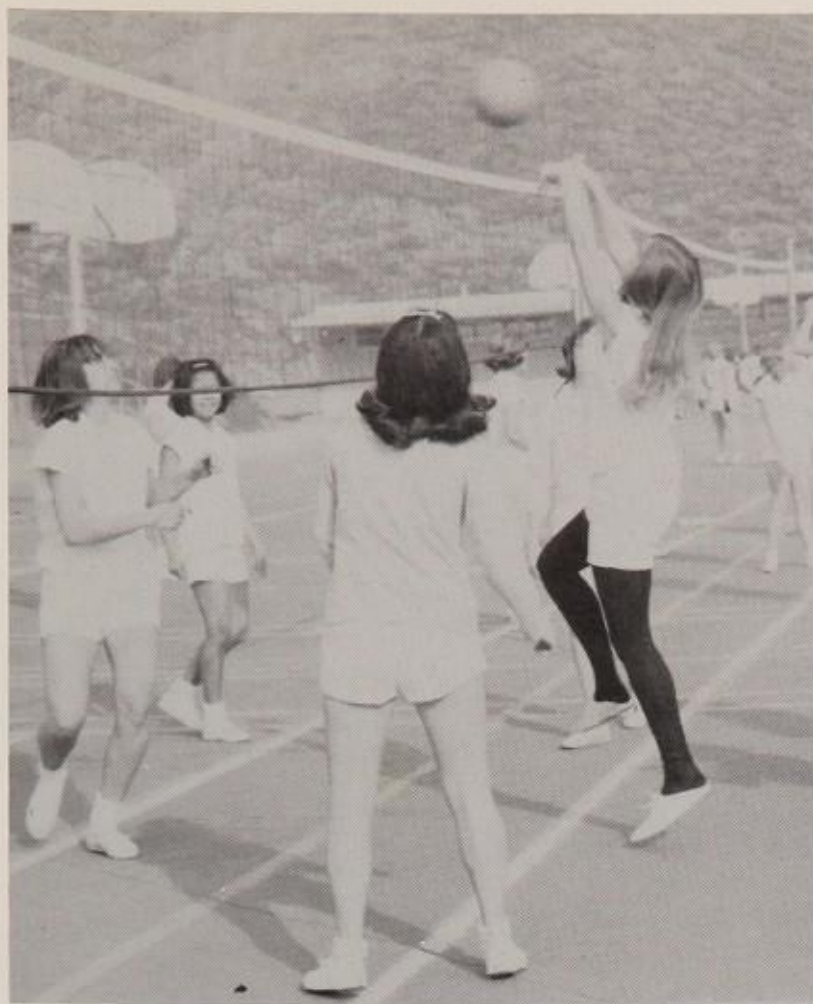

Weather became warmer as the P.E. department directed spring sports. The girls familiarized themselves with sports that included field hockey, golf, tennis, archery, softball and basketball. Physical fitness tests came again with each girl striving to do better than she had done in the fall. Each class actively participated in different sports. Seniors achieved excellence in archery, while juniors learned to putt golf balls and use baseball bats. Sophomores took part in field hockey and tennis. Nine girls' physical education instructors expertly taught the girls skills and coordination. The year proved to be fruitful as 2200 girls turned out physically fit.

Interest in golf became keen for junior girls. Along the fairways of Pacific High School, girls received expert instruction on ways to hit the balls.

GIRLS' SPORTS

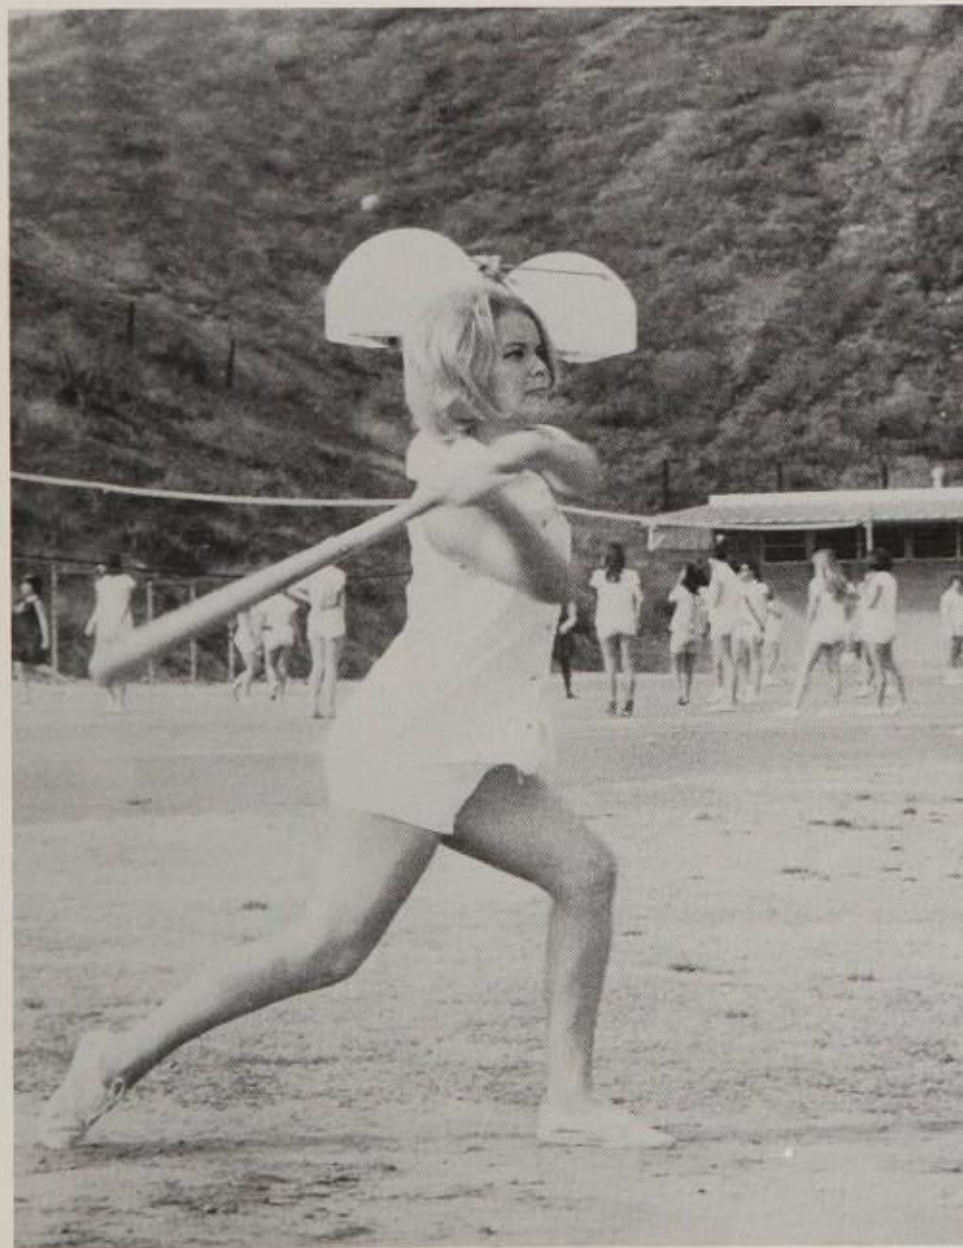

Intramural competition spurred the feminine athletes of Pacific into painfully perfecting volleyball skills amidst numerous shattered nails and jammed fingers.

As the weather became warmer, girls picked up balls and bats and learned to play softball which required alertness, precision, and dexterity.

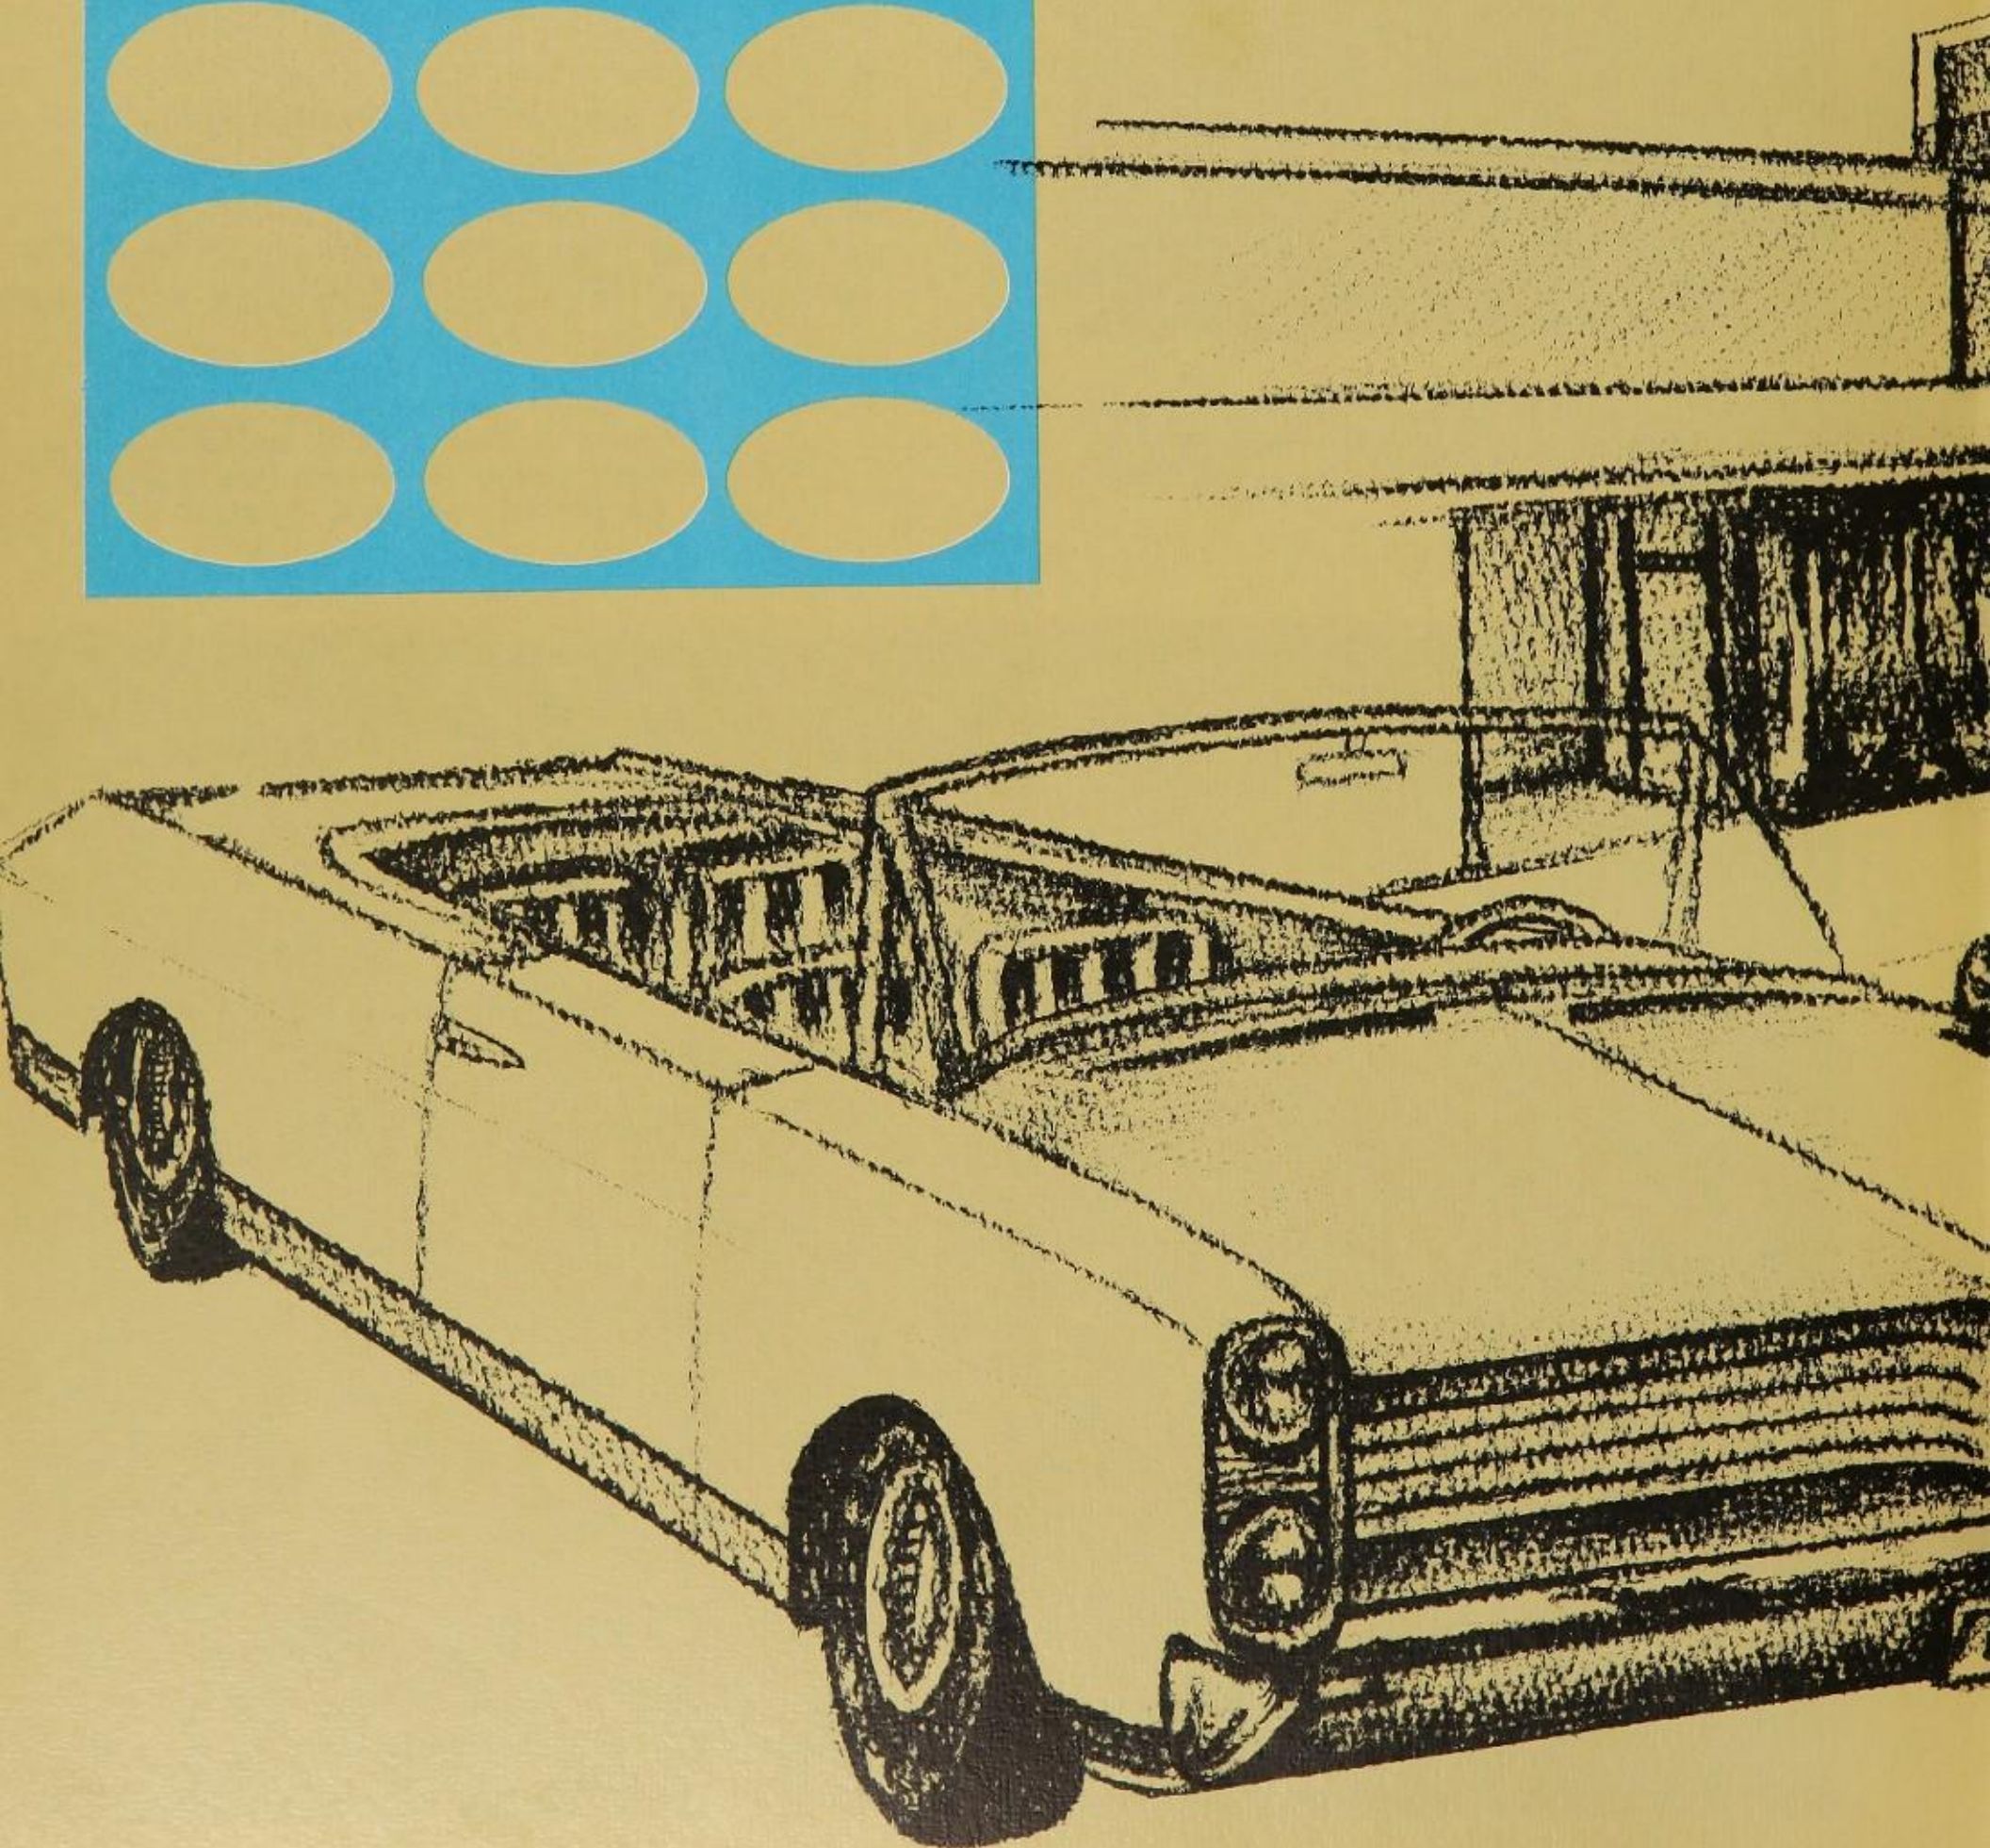

Pacific's rising, ambitious hopefuls acquired knowledge of tennis rackets and tennis balls. Long hours spent practicing made the sport a success.

Spring came and exercises remained. Girls did their sit-ups, push-ups, and pull-ups without prodding, knowing the benefits of the calisthenics.

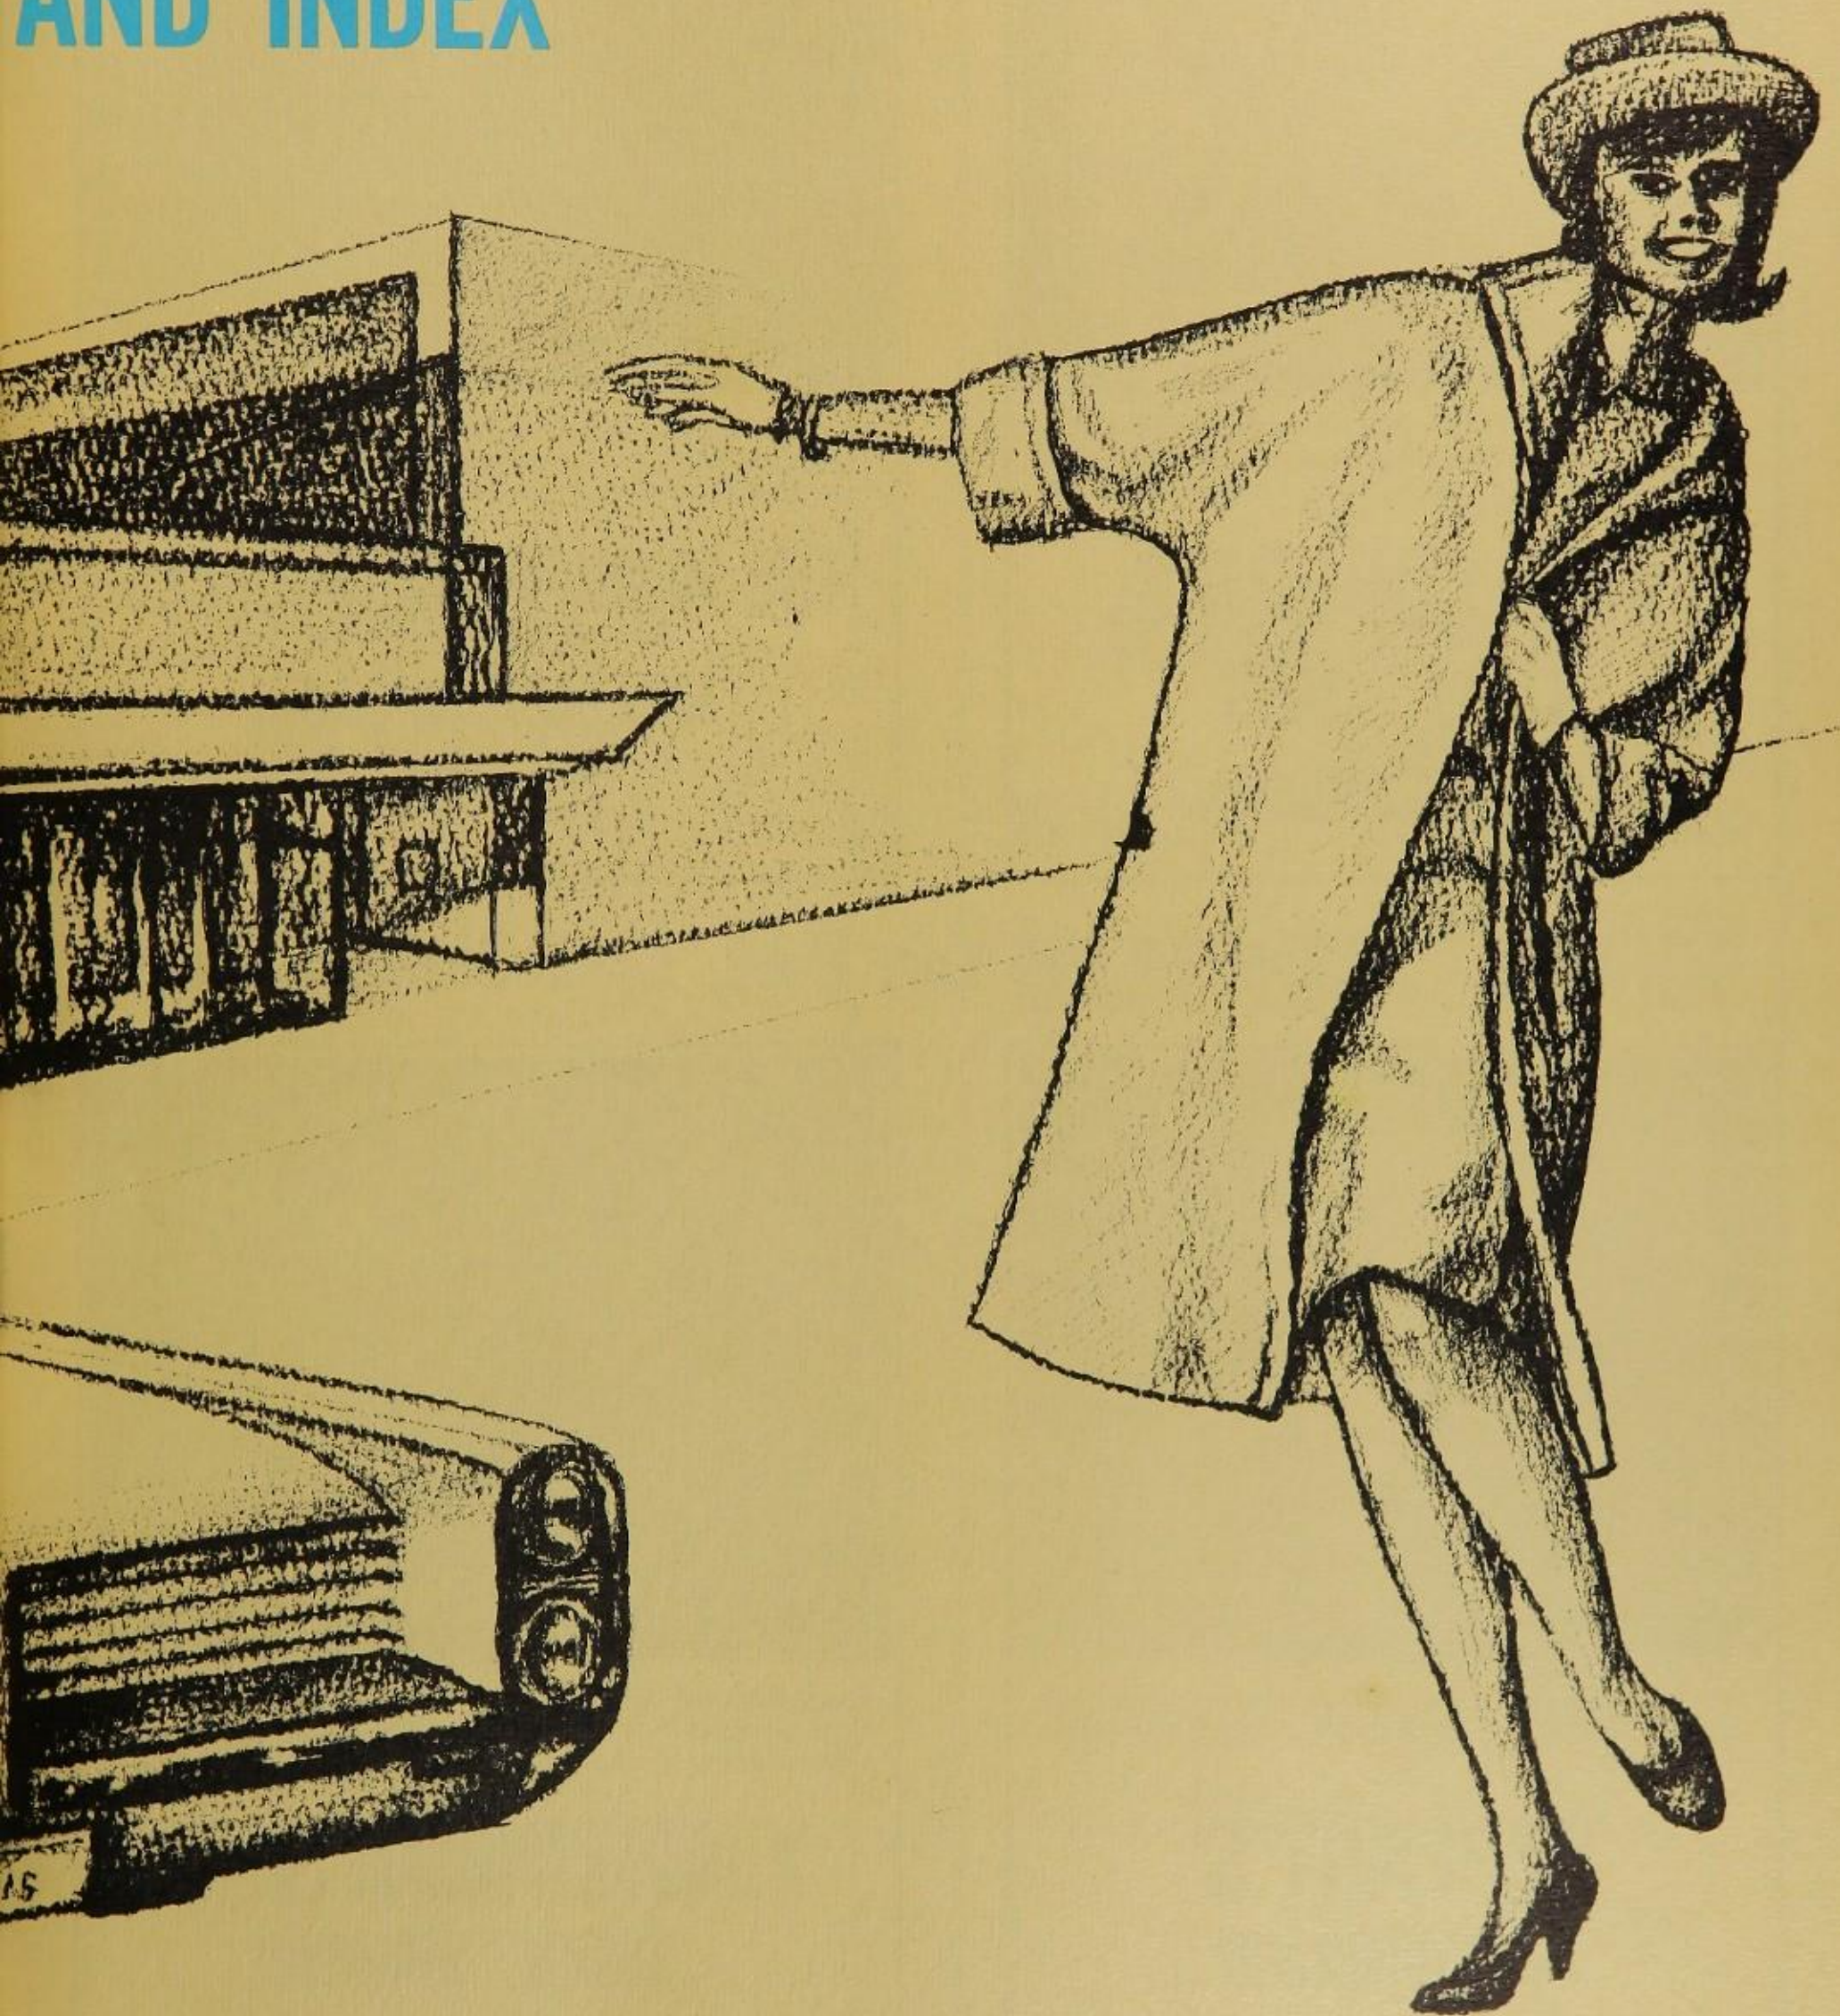

Jumping between bamboo poles to counts of three, physical education students learned coordination, an object of the physical education program.

. . . . Upon completion

Fatigued, fagged and slightly fanatic, we, the PACIFICANA staff, pause to record the events leading to the production of the 1965 yearbook. After being caught in the act of gathering camellias, searching for a wandering desk stool lost by an illustrious leader, bawling over incorrect copy and fuzzy photos, climbing over hill and dale looking for interesting ideas for photographs, and kicking the stock room door which invariably was never open, we reach this, our last deadline, with sagging hearts, crumpled fingers, and haggard faces. Despite countless hours of excruciating application all in the line of duty, we have finally completed the book for publication. In all sincerity, if you have any complaints or criticisms after all this . . .

Dear Colleen -

You have been a good friend to try & cheer me up in gym when I come in so depressed & I really appreciate it. Good bye - you're a really wonderful, original, fine girl & I have enjoyed knowing you (that sounds like I'll never see you again but I know I will) So I hope you can read this with all the skips & blanks.

Pat ^{Massand}

go!
